UNITED STATES MAY BUILD HUGE AIRSHIP

Plans Being Considered For Construction Of World's Largest

Appropriation Will Probably Be Asked Of Congress For Giant Ship

BY WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The United States navy will build the largest airship in the world if congress says the word, it was declared by navy experts today.

The proposed ship would travel six days without refueling and round the world in three "hops". The Los Angeles would become a "baby blimp" by comparison.

Navy experts already have made tentative plans for the new craft, it was disclosed. Congress has authorized the building of two airships but has yet to provide the money.

Belief that President Coolidge will consent to the enactment of appropriation bills was strengthened by announcement at the White House that he had discussed the project with B. W. Litchfield, pres-

Complete Probe Of Baird Death

Final Session In Auto Accident Is Held On Friday Evening

DRIVER IS FREED OF CHARGE MADE

Joint inquest into the death of Alex Baird of Leetsdale, Pa., and hearing before Alderman L. C. Mantz of George Stacel, also of Leetsdale, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Mr. Baird was brought to a close last night at the office of Alderman Mantz, after having been postponed since August 30, in order that the testimony of Dr. Loyal W. Wilson might be secured.

The jury in the case returned a verdict in which it found "that Alex Baird camo to his death August 25, 1926, as a result of an accident occurring to the car of George Stacel on the Wilmington road north of New Castle, Pa., and that the accident was unavoidable."

Free on Manslaughter Charge.

Following the verdict of the jury Stacel was discharged on the charge of manslaughter on which he had been held since the accident, by Alderman L. C. Mantz. The same testimony was used in both the finding of the coroner's jury and that of Alderman Mantz in the manslaughter case.

It is understood from counsel for Stacel that the plea of guilty entered immediately after the accident to the charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor will be changed to "not guilty" and that he will stand trial at the December term of court.

Inquest Concluded.

The adjourned session of the coroner's inquest and hearing on the manslaughter case was held last night for the sole purpose of securing the testimony of Dr. L. W. Wilson with regard to the cause of Mr. Baird's death, the balance of testimony having been taken at the time of the first session of the inquest and hearing.

Dr. Wilson on being examined last night stated that he had been called to the Shenango Valley hospital about 4 a. m. on August 25 to see Mr. Baird. He found Mr. Baird entirely paralyzed, being unable to move any part of the body.

Records Show Altoona Man Owns Pigeon At New Wilmington

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. — The carrier pigeon which flew into the New Wilmington, Pa., postoffice on the Thursday morning of the Dempsey-Tunney fight bearing a prophetic message that Tunney would win is listed in records here as belonging to F. G. Weber, Willow avenue, Altoona, Pa.

Henry F. Dismer, president of the National Pigeon Fanciers' Association, said the records showed Weber is or was the owner.

Army experts who employ a good many pigeons in training work said the identification number indicated to them it belonged to some individual identified with the racing of carrier pigeons. Edward Barnes, 314 Congress street, Jersey City, is secretary of such a racing association.

While widespread interest has been manifested since it was learned that a carrier pigeon, bearing the message "Tunney Will Win" had alighted at the postoffice in New Wilmington, on Thursday, there have been no developments, here.

Postmaster Clinton White, who has the pigeon in custody, said this morning, that there had been no inquiries for the pigeon, and that he was holding it for a short time to see if there would be any, then would allow the pigeon to go.

The bird was exhausted, as from a long fly, when it arrived at the postoffice.

Just why such a message was being sent via pigeon, and to whom it was going is not yet ascertained, the whole affair being somewhat mysterious.

Outside a band was playing and scores of automobiles lined up, ready to start on a procession through the streets of Greenwich Village, where Tunney played as a boy, and on to City Hall, where the conqueror of Dempsey was to be given the key of the city by Mayor Jimmy Walker.

Hundreds Work In Frantic Effort To Rescue Miners

Cave-In Catches 46 Men In Mine At Ironwood, Michigan

THREE ARE DEAD; BELIEVE REST ALIVE

Mine Mouth Surrounded By Crowd Of Frantic Relatives Of Men

(International News Service)
IRONWOOD, Mich., Sept. 25.—While scores of frantic wives, mothers and children moaned and shrieked for their loved ones at the entrance of G. shaft of the Oliver Mining Company here today, hundreds of rescue workers labored frantically to save the lives of 46 miners entombed under thousands of tons of debris in a cave-in there last night.

Forty-three of the men are believed still alive on the eighth level of the mine, but all-night efforts to reach them had failed this morning.

Three Are Dead

Three are believed dead. They were:

Thomas Rowell, underground electrician.

Evar Gustafson, assistant electrician.

Gust Sell, assistant electrician.

These three men were riding in a cage when the mountainous tons of earth and rock piled into the shaft. It is believed the crushed cage, carrying its three victims, crashed to the bottom of the shaft at the 26th level, a half mile underground.

Mining engineers believe the heavy rains of the past week which loosened the earth about the shaft, caused the disaster.

Hard Task of Rescue

It is feared a herculean task of digging must be done through the debris before the cage can be reached. Already coverings have

Barney Dreyfus Hopes Cards Win

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 25. — "I hope the Cards whale the tar out of the Yankees in the world series."

This was the only comment Barney Dreyfus, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, had to offer today on St. Louis' feat in clinching the National League pennant.

The Pirate owner, who returned from a trip to Europe to find his ball club torn by dissention within their ranks, and tottering on the verge of a plunge back into the ranks of also-rans in the pennant scramble, had no word of comment on what might have been had his team stayed in the lead they took early in the season and held until they lost Captain Max Carey, Babe Adams and Carson Bigbee, mainstays of last year's race.

Arthur Mometer

We must have rain along with the sun to urge on the spuds and the hay, but I'd like to suggest that the rain ought to come on other than Saturday. For Saturday means that the people are out to buy their new clothes for the fall, and also my friend they're out for to see the weekly melee of football. Now a genuine fan doesn't care for the rain, or the snow when a game's going on, but the ladies are loath to step out and get wet, when their new autumn toggery they don. And it cuts the receipts to a woeful degree, and slows up the crowd at the gate, so the rain should be booked for mid-week afternoons, not like today, seventy-eight.

FIND BOOZE IN UNIQUE PLACE

Police Uncover Cache Of Booze Under Weather Boarding Of Vacant House

An X-Ray machine is badly needed, according to the statement made this morning by Mayor William H. Dunlap, for the use of the police department.

No, it's not needed, to determine what is the matter with the prisoners brought in, because usually the reason for the arrest is visible to the human eye.

But it is becoming so, that in order to locate illicit liquor, that a machine of this character might prove of great benefit. Those persons having such liquor, because of the strenuous manner in which the police have been following up their business, have evolved many and unique methods of hiding the liquor.

One of the outstanding instances of this kind occurred last night.

As Officer Thomas was making his rounds on Moravia street, he noticed a man between the houses at 905 and 907 Moravia street. When the officer went to investigate, because of the fact that the houses were vacant, the man ran away but the officer saw enough of him, to make it possible to arrest Ralph DeCapio a short time later, Officers Thomas and Golis making the arrest.

Officer Thomas found a hammer on the ground and reported his find to Officers Moore and M. J. Young, who happened to be in the vicinity.

Believing that there was something in the vicinity that needed investigation, Officer Thomas began looking around and finally discovered the cause of the quick getaway of the man.

The weather boarding of one of the houses was loose and the hammer had been used in working on it. On looking behind the loosened weather boarding the officer found a quantity of illicit liquor, which had been hidden there, evidently by the man who ran away.

DeCapio is being held by the police pending a further investigation which is expected to indicate the probability of his having hidden it there.

Special Services At Payne Mission

The man who follows the crowd seldom has the crowd following him.

Hundreds Stranded In Philadelphia Due To Championship Bout

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25. — Police and charitable organizations are face to face today with the problem of helping hundreds of persons who were stranded here as a result of the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

Most of the stranded fans were left penniless because they plunged their money the wrong way, and did not hold return trip tickets.

Telephone companies have been besieged with requests for long distance calls, "please reverse the charges," and telegraph companies are handling hundreds of messages appealing for funds on which to return home.

Cruising Radius Of 8000 Miles

"The proposed airship of 6,900,000 cubic feet capacity would have a flying radius of 8,000 miles and a cruising speed of about 58 miles an hour", said Charles B. Burgess, navy civilian expert.

"The ship would have three times the capacity of the Los Angeles, which is now the largest of its type. It would not, however, have three times the bulk. If one ship were built it is estimated it would cost $5,000,000; if two were built the cost probably would be $4,000,000 each. It would cost $500,000 to inflate this type of ship with helium.

"Our idea is an airship of the Zeppelin type. However, before we finally decided upon plans we would canvass the ideas of all experts. Experiments now are being conducted with the Los Angeles which may materially affect our plans".

Navy experts are proceeding on the belief that the proposed huge airship can be built in the United States. The present hangars and mooring masts would suffice for the larger ship, it is said.

Unless the United States begins work soon the largest airships in the world will be British-owned, Burgess said. Great Britain is of 5,000,000 cubic feet capacity, to be completed in 1928. They will be 780 feet long and 130 feet in diameter as compared to the Los Angeles length of 660 feet and diameter of 91 feet.

One of the newest developments in airship building, which is being closely followed by American experts, is the substitution of gas for gasoline as fuel. Experiments now are being carried out in Germany.

ADMIT TWO TO BAIL AFTER HABEAS CORPUS HEARING ON FRIDAY

death of Joseph Richeal, and all three of the cases will be heard by the December grand jury.

Only Three Witnesses

Only common wealth witnesses are heard in a habeas corpus proceeding, and but three such were called, the three being Dr. W. L. Cleland, David Richeal and William Richeal, the latter two sons of the deceased.

Dr. Cleland testified to having been called to the home of Joseph Richeal, near East Brook, on the night of September 14. He found Mr. Richeal dead and found contusions at the back of the head and over the right eye. A post mortem the next day revealed the fact that he had died from hemorrhage caused by concussion. He gave as his opinion that death resulted from this hemorrhage, and that the blow was delivered by some blunt instrument.

David Richeal was called and testified that his father had completed the milking on the evening of September 14, when he first saw a car in the lane leading to the house.

Mr. Richeal had sent William Richeal to the house for a pencil and paper to get the number of the car, and approaching the car, asked if the occupants did not know that this was a private lane. The reply was that they thought it was the lane to Lakewood. Two men and a woman were in the car, one of the men being out on the ground when the Richeals approached. He got in as they came up to the car.

Knocks William Down

David then said that the man at the wheel (Johnson) got out of the car and knocked William down and then struck his father. Mr. Richeal staggered up the lane and fell, David testified, dying a few minutes later.

Upon cross-examination he admitted that his father had used abusive language to the occupants of the car, and admitted that a window in the car was broken. He thought that his father had broken it with a flashlight, and again testified to having seen a stone thrown at the car. He would not admit that any of the three Richeals had thrown a stone.

William Richeal corroborated the testimony of his brother and added that he had seen a weapon of some kind in the hands of Johnson when he (William) was struck. He could not remember seeing the weapon when Johnson struck the senior Richeal.

Attorney John S. Powers, associated with ex-Judge S. Plummer Emery and Attorneys Clyde Gibson and Orville Brown, for the accused, then moved that the court discharge from custody the Clements woman and Gilbert Blackford and admit Johnson to light bail. He argued that the commonwealth testimony had failed to show one point whereby the first two could be connected with any charge, let alone murder.

Attorney James A. Chambers, who is associated with District Attorney J. Elder Bryan, answered that there had been enough testimony to hold Johnson without bail to answer to the charge of murder, and that the disposition of the other two was entirely within the discretion of the court.

Some argument ensued, in which the three attorneys for the accused took part, and at the end Judge Hildebrand announced his decision. Bail was secured for Mrs. Clements and Gilbert Blackford and they were allowed to go.

The leaves are falling from the trees. This is the season of the sneeze.

He was breathing heavy and was unconscious. He had seen him twice and no autopsy had been held following his death.

In the opinion of Dr. Wilson, there had been either a fracture at the base of the skull or a fracture of the spinal column at the neck and near the skull or possibly both. Either or both could and did cause the death of Mr. Baird. The fact that Mr. Baird sustained his fatal injuries in an automobile accident were known to Dr. Wilson only through what others had told him.

Reviews Testimony.

With the taking of the testimony of Dr. Wilson, Attorney S. P. Emery and Attorney Walter S. Reynolds, counsel for Stacel, reviewed the previous testimony and the facts produced and asked the discharge of Stacel on the manslaughter charge and also that the coroner's jury find that the accident in which Mr. Baird was fatally injured was unavoidable.

Attorney Emery called attention to the fact that at no time during the testimony was it shown that Stacel, who was driving the car, had acted in a negligent or careless manner and that while he had admitted taking a small amount of home brew three or four hours previous to the accident, that he had not been intoxicated or under the influence of the beer. He called attention to the fact that the evidence did not indicate at any time that he had been affected by the beer in the operation of the car, also that it had been in his excitement and horror following the accident that he had entered a plea of being under the influence of liquor. He showed how that he had taken the car through all the traffic between this city and Leetsdale in a careful manner, that he had used all due precautions such as dimming his lights, etc., and that he was driving the car at the request of the victim of the accident. He then gave a parallel incidence of how easy it was to get off the cement slab on the Wilmington road as had occurred in the Stacel incident.

Attorney Reynolds drew attention to the fact that Stacel had the car under control at all times, that he was not driving it beyond the rate of speed at which travel is permitted on highways and that he had helped get Mr. Baird to the hospital. He stated that Mr. Baird in asking that Stacel drive the car instead of George Rittelman, who was driving at the start of the trip at Leetsdale, had assumed a joint responsibility with Stacel.

District Attorney J. E. Bryan merely stated to the jury and Alderman Mantz that the evidence was before them and that their decision would be satisfactory. Coroner J. P. Caldwell presided at the inquest.

The members of the jury were R. G. Cage, G. N. Clark, A. Reid English, E. B. Halcey, Charles Haus and H. K. Bell.

(International News Service)
BOSTON, Sept. 25.—Prohibition was passed over at the Republican State convention here today when the proposed platform for the year was offered. The sole hint at the issue was a declaration for the enforcement of all laws added points were "no distinction of race, sex, color or religion as a qualification for office holding" and an "open door to all" policy.

The platform also opposes lavish expenditures for elections and demands national anti-lynching legislation.

Bessemer Victor Over Poland, 31-0

Ohioans Completely Outclassed By Coach "Jeff" Byler's Grid Proteges

Grist Leads Mates With Two Touchdowns—Play Ben Franklin Next Friday

(Special To The News)

BESSEMER, Pa., Sept. 25.—Bessemer High School's football team ushered in its 1926 gridiron campaign here yesterday with a slashing 31 to 0 victory over Poland, O. High School, and if the play of Coach "Jeff" Byler's proteges can be taken as a criterion of the season's success, prospects are unusually bright at the local institution.

The Ohioans were completely outclassed by the "Lime-Stoners." Bessemer concentrated on a line plunging attack and with Grist, Glassic, Young, and Serjak carrying the ball for substantial gains on every attempt, the visitors were forced to accept defeat. Poland fought desperately for honors, battling gamely throughout the game, but Bessemer proved its superiority in the early stages of the game and rode unmolested to victory.

Strong Defense

Bessemer scored two touchdowns in the third quarter and annexed tallies in each of the remaining periods of play. Grist was credited with two six point markers, while Glassic, Young and Serjak each crossed the Poland line once during the game.

Poland made but one first down, which speaks well for the defensive play of Byler's gridiron warriors. Coach "Jeff" Byler, a Westminster product, used fourteen substitutes in the game. Byler has developed a smooth running combination and more will be heard from him in Class B high school circles this fall.

Hope For Victory

Next Friday, October 1, Bessemer will meet a real test when the team clashes with Ben Franklin Junior High School of New Castle this game will begin Monday. Byat the local field. Cathedral For City Benefit

Meeting Last Night To Consider Activities Program For Winter.

ALL TO CO-OPERATE TO MAKE SUCCESS

But little time remains until the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite Cathedral, New Castle's Wonder Building, will be ready for service and with the opening of it might well go this line, "dedicated to the Civic Betterment of New Castle" for it is for that purpose.

Built by a fraternity it will be used by all creeds, for to restrict or circumscribe the activities of such a building would be the acme of selfishness.

To Plan Activities Program

Nor is it the idea of the men back of the Cathedral to restrict or circumscribe its usefulness in any manner. Whatever project has for its purpose the bettering of New Castle, or the advancement of the happiness or the welfare of the citizens of this city, will find those responsible for the Cathedral willing and anxious to lend a hand.

Alive to the wide scope of the possibilities of the cathedral, a large group of men and women met there Friday night with the common purpose of planning an activities program. In this they must have the assistance and cooperation of every citizen of New Castle. No one man, no group of men, no fraternity or organization is big enough to control the usefulness of this cathedral, and fully aware of the work which will be involved and the benefits which are possible, the officers of the cathedral are asking for the citizenry of this city to join hands with them in making it a civic center.

Friday evening, October 1, another meeting will be held in the cathedral and to this meeting are invited all those persons who are interested in the advancement of the civic ideals of this city. The meeting will open at 7:30 o'clock and some plan will be outlined. Members of the fraternity and nonmembers are urged to attend.

POLICE CHIEF SEES BATTLE

Dysart Home From Championship Fight In Philadelphia

Chief of Police Henry Dysart returned today from Philadelphia, where he on Thursday night witnessed the world championship fight between Tunney and Dempsey.

"It was a good fight" said the chief on being questioned "and Dempsey didn't look near so good as he did formerly. Tunney was not so impressive as a fighter, although he is a good boxer and hit Dempsey at will and rocked him a couple of times, but did not seem able to put across the knockout punch. The Dempsey of old is gone. Tunney will probably remain as champion for a year or two and until such a time as he meets some good man."

been placed over the shaft at various available levels to protect rescue workers.

Failing to reach the 43 entombed men on the eighth level from a lower level, the rescue crews are now laboring to get to them from both the top and bottom.

"Between 35 and 40 men are trapped on the eighth level and there may be more on lower levels", said a statement from the publicity department of the Oliver Company. The definite statement of 46 victims was made by the Ironwood police department.

"The cage has been located at the bottom of the mine below the 26th level, and there is no hope that the three men in it are now alive", continued the statement. "Rescue workers, however are trying to reach the cage.

"Work to get to the men on the eighth level from lower levels has proven futile because the cave-in has blocked all entrances, and efforts are now being made to reach them from the top."

Scores of city and state police and all other available authorities have thrown a line around the shaft entrance to restrain the frantic relatives of the entombed men.

When news of the disaster spread last night, hundreds rushed to the mine, but order was soon restored and many returned to their homes with the report that the men on the eighth level were safe and could be brought to safety through a shaft.

Early today, however, when the report spread through the town that these men were trapped and had to be reached from the top, the hysterical hordes returned and authorities had difficulty in restraining them.

Hagen Has Chance To Cop Title In Pro Golf Tourney

By ROBERT E. HARLOW
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SALISBURY COUNTRY CLUB, GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Set. 25. — Walter Hagen, Pasadena, Fla., had a chance today to establish himself as the greatest match play golfer in the history of the game, when he faced Leo Diegel, New York, in the final round of the Professional Golfers' championship over the Salisbury course.

Hagen was runner-up in the event in 1923, being beaten by Gene Sarazen on the thirty-eighth green and in 1924 and 1925 he won the championship at French Lick Springs and Chicago. If he wins today he will make his record three straight. No golfer has ever succeeded in winning a national match play championship for three consecutive years.

Last year Hagen met Diegel in this championship and at one time was five down to him. He was three down with three to play, two down with two holes to play, but he eventually won the match on the fortieth green.

The match is a 36 hole affair.

MISSING GIRL FOUND.

CHICKEN THEFTS ARE CONFESSED

Ellwood Residents Admit Thefts According To County Detective

County Detective George S. Kennedy has a rather unusual collection of self confessed chicken thieves in the county jail, due to some sleuthing on his part with the assistance of state police officers.

For some time some of the residents of Ellwood City have been missing chickens. Not just a chicken or two, but wholesale lots of them.

Some investigation resulted and the outcome of this was the arrest of William J. Kennedy, Dallash H. Weimer, James A. Weimer and Norman J. Weimer. James Weimer is the father of the other two Weimer's, while Kennedy is a son-in-law.

At the State Police Barracks in Butler, the entire group confessed unqualifiedly to their stealing and in addition a confession was obtained from Myrtle Fay Kennedy. They are residents of Ellwood City but at present the men folks are in the county jail.

The confessions which are in the hands of District Attorney J. Elder Bryan are lengthy ones.

MODERN YOUTH

MANY are basing appraisals of youth on ephemeral fashions and habits. Every age has its own. Censors find confirmation in authors whose output deals with "flaming youth," any one of whose typewriters, given a few of the obvious features of present-day life—country clubs, freedom of dress, short hair and motor cars— could almost do the job itself. But the picture would not be a true one.

For every boy or girl whose exuberances attract attention there are a dozen or more soberly going their ways with real purposes in life, with ambition, with determination. They seldom figure, however, in popular fiction, nor are they often texts for sermons, for the obvious reason that their lives lack picturesqueness and romance.

Nine millions of women and girls are gainfully employed in this country; the great majority probably from necessity, but their ranks contain hundreds of thousands who are working simply because they wish to "do something," to be independent and to achieve something worth while. Fiction and wags to the contrary, most college and university students are earnest and sincere. Schools are full to overflowing and ever increasing in numbers. The great industries are recruiting keen, ambitious young men "willing to begin at the bottom," but not content to remain there.

Is it fair to condemn the whole for the errors of the few? And are the critics of modern youth qualified to judge this age? If they would judge the youth of today by their fallible recollections of the standards of yesterday they are not capable of judging fairly.

REAL CONSERVATION

A BILLION dollars is expended annually by American corporations for the conservation of life and property through preventive measures, according to an estimate by Arthur C. Carruthers, editor of Safety Engineering.

The main channels through which this expenditure is made, he says, are for fire and accident prevention, health conservation and fraud prevention, under which last-named head are included means and measures for the prevention of swindle, schemes, robbery, burglary, embezzlement, forgery and crimes of violence which have as their object the unlawful acquisition of property.

The United States Steel corporation alone has expended a total of $158,000,000 in fourteen years on conservation and prevention work, according to a recent report of the corporation's bureau of safety, sanitation and welfare. During that time 46,000 men were saved from death or serious injury, accidents have been averted which would have disabled 322,000 other workmen, and a large saving of money has been effected.

The present age is marked by a systematized and scientific program directed toward the saving of life, health and property through well-considered means of prevention. Big business has been responsible for a great impetus to this science of prevention.

YOUR CONTRIBUTION

IT IS a week now since terror and death came to Florida.

A week is a long time to suffer. Homeless, half-sheltered from rain and wind, hungry, thirsty, maimed or bruised, and in peril of disease, a week can stretch itself into eternity.

A week, too, is a long time to remember. Safe and well and absorbed in ordinary life, few men and women feel the impulse of horror and grief and generosity as strongly on the seventh day as on the day that first brought news of disaster.

You are beginning to forget Florida's tragedy. Yet she needs your help more each day. Each day she shows herself more deserving of help.

Before you forget, give. The Red Cross has one million to spend in its work of relief. It needs five.

Send in your contribution—now.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 5:53. Sun rises tomorrow 5:52.

A prize fighter will get a lambasting some time sure. All he has to do is to wait. Nature and his habits often hasten it along.

Mr. Vare did not declare blatantly that he would attend the prize fight in Philadelphia. In fact, it is doubtful if he attended it at all.

It isn't the people who are bigger than they think they are who go on a diet.

We wonder how much daylight most people saved during the past summer.

The big chief of the prohibition forces, Mr. Andrews, says all of his officers must refrain from drinking liquor, except in cases where it is to secure evidence. What a rush there always is for evidence.

We're a democratic people, and most of the big jobs are held by men who once licked cake batter from a mixing spoon.

It's always a good idea to prepare for the old-fashioned, scandalous, cold winters in spite of what weather prophets may say to the contrary. Cold weather is fine. We remember when coming from the Tropics we felt so good at seeing the snow we felt like rolling in it after suffering with the terrible heat. Get in plenty of coal as it will keep if you don't need it! You will find coal ads in this paper and patronize only those as they are the live ones who give real values.

We have known people who patronize those with whom they do business and who do not pay promptly, in preference to those who pay up promptly. The man who pays you promptly, what he owes you, deserves your trade. The bird who waits until you deal out what he owes you should never be patronized. Where would you be if it were not for the few who pay promptly?

We heard a crusty woman hater say the trouble with most girls is that they make themselves nice persons to keep away from.

There was more excitement in Philadelphia on Thursday night than there was when the Declaration of Independence was signed. Whither are we drifting and where are we going? The people want what they want.

Every woman should have respect for her husband, but how can she?

Temptation is being thrown into the path of many innocent persons. A few days ago a man who was in a home where the lady was canning peaches, suggested to her that she make some peach brandy. This lady is a fine person and would never have thought of such a thing, but unconsciously, and at first thought, she asked how to make it. She was strong, however, and resisted the tempter and just kept on canning all the peaches.

A Fiji chief has sailed back to his islands and took with him a carload of saxophones for the heathen to make jazz on. The heathen know a good thing when they see it just like alleged civilized whites do. The Fiji chief is figuring on having more fun than ever when he gets home. He can make a jazz band out of part of his wives. Just think of having wives enough to make a band and also enough left to do all the other chores around the house. A man wouldn't have to do anything—at least not very much.

A Youngstown grocer had his place of business blown up with a bomb because he peeved some people—probably competitors—by cutting prices on groceries. In Youngstown they are looking for all the money they can get right at home and also in the outskirts and neighboring cities and they do most anything to get it.

We heard of a bird not long ago who nearly broke up a Salvation Army meeting when he mistook a five dollar gold piece and tossed it on the American flag.

The automobile is a fine thing, but when it comes to going to sleep on the outskirts of New Castle, in the evening, and being in New York or Chicago by sunrise the next morning, a railroad is still the only way and the most popular way. No doubt there will be comfortable sleeping cars on the highways some day, but no doubt there will be complaints about them parking along the road.

TIME AND TIME AGAIN.

We now forthwith repeal time,
Once more enjoy our meal time,
And ne'er again will steal time
Confusing day and night.
We tried to change and rule time,
Upsetting work and school time,
But 'gainst this awful fool time
Henceforth we'll surely fight.

We sought to lengthen day time,
And have more hours for play time,
That some might have a gay time
At other folks expense.
And so we've had a sad time,
Yea, verily, a bad time,
And now I think we've had time
To gain some common sense.

We'll henceforth use the right time
Dividing day and night time,
And never try to slight time
By juggling with the clocks.
If in the future some time,
Some one insists on bum time,
He'll find that it has come time
For him to get some knocks!!?

7 Greatest Battles.
Nobody Knows Coolidge.
Fight the Devil Fund.
When a Man Is Drunk.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1926, by N. Y. American, Inc.

Many important battles have been fought since Alexander sent Darius fleeing to his death.

The taking of Constantinople gave the Turks a foothold on European soil. They still hold it.

The defeat of the Mohammedans by Charles the Hammer, 1200 years ago, kept Allah and his prophet from taking the place of our trinity in western Europe.

The battle of Waterloo settled one emperor after he had made all other kings look ridiculous.

Battles preceding the recent armistice settled another emperor and sent him to Holland.

It would be interesting to know which are really "the seven decisive battles of the world". This is certain: last night's battle in Philadelphia seemed to millions of Americans more important and interesting than any seven battles you could pick out of history.

Bruce Barton, student of character, adds one to his "men that nobody knows". He spent an hour talking with President Coolidge, who said this: "As I now recall it, I had always rather hoped that I might keep store when I grew up".

Little Calvin, on the Vermont farm, didn't yearn to be a policeman, railroad engineer, pirate or President. Nobody even predicted that he would be President. He wanted to "keep store".

And "attractions being proportionate to destinies", as Fourier says, President Coolidge is actually keeping the biggest store in the world. He is general manager for Uncle Sam, champion wholesaler and retailer, in every line except flying machines.

The turnover of the gigantic U. S. S. A., Ltd., is billions uncounted, net income, distributed among 115,000,000 partners, at least one hundred billion dollars a year. The annual cost of the main government office, managed by President Coolidge, is four thousand million dollars. Recently it was less than five hundred millions, as the President points out.

When Whitney was secretary of the navy, army and navy combined cost only $50,000,000 a year. We spend that on one battleship, then we junk it at England's request.

President Coolidge keeps a store big enough to occupy any man's mind.

If the President managed Marshall Field's for James Simpson, he would be asked to confine himself to Marshall Field's, not worry about Selfridge's in London, and especially not to submit Marshall Field's affairs to decisions of any competing firm.

The President has kept store for Uncle Sam admirably thus far. He should continue to keep an AMERICAN store, and especially not submit the affairs of Uncle Sam to the decisions of competing firms in Europe through any world court or League of Nations.

The Reverend Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, who told how she was kidnaped in her bathing suit when strangers asked her to get into an automobile and pray for a little sick girl, is now making a romantic fight against the public prosecutor, who wants to put her in jail for not telling the truth to justice.

She requests her followers to fast and pray for 48 hours, preparing themselves to contribute liberally to her $100,000 "fight the devil" fund. It will be spent proving that she really was kidnaped and did not spend the period of her absence, as the prosecuting attorney alleges, with the radio operator of her temple in quiet retirement.

While she was away, supposed to be drowned, managers of the great Aimee Semple McPherson temple started a "memorial" fund for their pastor and collected $40,000 (forty thousand). That presumably will swell the "fight the devil" fund.

Thousands that sob, pray and sing hymns under Aimee Semple McPherson's direction as she puts out the lights in the temple and turns a spotlight on the American flag, with an electric fan behind it, have the satisfaction of knowing that whatever money can do for her defense will be done.

You can imagine how humiliated the devil must be when he peeks through the windows of the Aimee Semple McPherson temple and sees thousands contributing to her "fight the devil" fund.

He sought to overthrow sweetness and light, and lo! The result is that Aimee Semple McPherson collects more money than ever. Poor Satan! You can understand how Milton occasionally felt sorry for him.

A tramp arrested for killing a three-year-old child, answered the police questioning:

"When a man is drunk, how can you expect him to know what he is doing?"

Makers and sellers of bootleg whiskey know what THEY are doing. Know that they are supplying driving power for murders and hold-ups.

Elisha Lee, who has been appointed to fill the newly created position of vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, is a native of Chicago. He went to Boston for his special education, and was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1892. After the fashion of so many men who have risen to high place on the Pennsylvania system, young Lee entered its employ as a rodman and, step by step, rose until, in 1909, he was selected to be superintendent of one of the subsidiary lines. Tested for two years in this position, he was brought back to the main system and made assistant to the general manager. In 1917 he was made general manager of the eastern lines and more recently he has been vice president in charge of operations of the entire system.

PAYING BY CHECK

Recent press items disclose that more and more large firms are adopting the method of paying by check.

This method seems to be admirably suited to paymasters and others in charge of large payrolls. It would obviate the danger of the robbery of bank messengers.

The check is comparatively safe as payment upon it can easily be stopped if it is stolen.

Nothing in regard to money is absolutely safe. The wings money is supposed to sprout are only too real, and every protection should be taken to lessen the temptation to steal it.

Housekeepers who have a checkbook instead of carrying in the house large sums of currency take a much safer way.

Factories and other business firms will find payments by check add greatly to their safety.

A great part of the currency, that is of the medium of exchange, in the United States is composed of bank checks. People have confidence in their banks and the failure of banking concerns has become rarer and rarer.

If we have a financial system which involves the lodging of large sums of cash in well protected institutions and issue checks against this, why not take advantage of it and make the payroll in the form of checks instead of cash?

Money should be kept in safe places and the only thing that is to be carted about in the streets are the pieces of paper which represent this money. It is harder to steal these pieces of paper than to steal the currency itself.

Use your bank. Get the banking habit. It behooves every one of us to save, and the main part of saving is the security of one's funds.

See that your extra money is put in a bank and not hidden about the house in a bureau drawer or an old sock which may tempt burglars.

It is the bank's business to take care of money. All their regulations are to make their reserves of money safe, and an institution can take better care of your money than you can yourself.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

WHAT ANDREW MELLON THINKS.

The Duquesne Light Company of Pittsburgh is largely owned by the Mellon family. Andrew Mellon has a reputation of saying very little and when the world wants to know his particular opinion about anything like Government Owenship, it seems that it has a hard time getting Mr. Mellon to talk. It is interesting to know therefore, what the Duquesne Company has to say to its stockholders. When that Company sent out its last quarterly dividend checks, it did have something to say about Government Ownership The following letter was mailed with each dividend check:

"From time to time it is suggested that the government should enter the electric light and power business and furnish 'service at cost."

"As a stockholder you will be interested in knowing that your company is already furnishing service at cost."

"Throughout the country there are state and municipal regulating authorities to which every electric light and power company must submit its books. The authorities determine the cost of providing electrical service (including $150,000,000 taxes which the electrical industry pays, and interest on its bonds, which are owned largely by savings banks and insurance companies, and only a fair return on its investment, which represents the savings of millions of people.) That cost determined by the regulators, is the rate that the company may charge."

"There are two ways in which government can engage in business: It can take over the business and operate it. On December 28, 1917, the government took over the railroads, and operated them until March 1920. The loss to taxpayers was $1,600,000,000."

"History furnishes no evidence, in any country, that government can economically run a business. But the government can regulate a business, fixing the rates at the cost of the service, and allowing private initiative full play in discovering new and better methods which result in still lower costs."

A chart accompanies the letter, showing how the electric light and power industry, under public regulation, has held down rates in comparison with 65 per cent average increase in all other costs of living. Rates, in fact, are far lower than they were in 1914.

Just Folks

THE GENTLE LIVES

Count your riches as you may,
Seek your fame where'er you will,
Peace must mark the close of day
Or you'll be unhappy still.
Friends must trust in all you do
Or no joy can come to you.

Gold is good to have and own,
Fame is worth the winning too,
But if these you gain alone
Little will they do for you.
Friends must be and love must stay
Or your life is thrown away.

Poverty is grim and stern,
Wealth is sometimes cruel, too,
Here's a lesson all must learn,
And before the end we do:
Rich or poor for joy depends
On his loved ones and his friends.

View it howsoe'er you will
Life is more than wealth or fame,
More than cunning, more than skill,
Peace requires an honored name,
Though the heights you stand upon
Love and faith must follow on.

Gentle deeds must mark the strong,
Thought for others grace the wise,
Skill cannot conceal a wrong.
Oft with triumph friendship dies.
Happiest they, whate'er their place,
Who have touched their lives with grace.

POEMS I LOVE

BY CHARLES HANSON TOWNE

"Love's Philosophy" by P. B. Shelley.

If this poem has not been set to music—and it may be ignorance on my part not to know—it certainly should be. A composer could hardly resist it. Shelley has often been called "the poet's poet" but I think his appeal is more universal than the critics imagine. Surely lines like these reach everyone.

The fountains mingle with the river
And the rivers with the ocean,
The winds of heaven mix forever
With a sweet emotion;
Nothing in the world is single,
All things by a law divine
In one another's being mingle—
Why not I with thine?

See the mountain kiss high heaven
And the waves clasp one another;
No sister flower would be forgiven
If it disdained its brother;
And the sunlight clasps the earth,
And the moonbeams kiss the sea—
What are all these kissings worth
If thou kiss not me?

Hartland Tells More Of Florida Hurricane

Additional news of conditions in Miami, Coral Gables and other communities in Florida which were almost completely wrecked which swept through that district last week-end, was received today by the News from Joseph H. Hartland, former resident of this city, who at present is located in Florida.

Hartland sends a very interesting account of conditions there. From the letter received work on the cleaning up of debris and rebuilding is now under way and every possible effort is being made to wipe out the scenes of the great disaster which cost the lives of hundreds of people and caused property damage estimated in the hundreds of millions.

Hartland reports the visit of New Castle people there who have been in great anxiety to know if all local residents were uninjured following the big hurricane. Automobiles strewn along the road, great piles of sand blown in hotels, search for bodies and many other incidents are related in the letter.

Stores have opened for business in Miami, according to Hartland, and everything is going as smooth as possible. People are on limited rations for meals, being allowed two dollars worth of groceries, 5 gallons of fresh water, 12½ pounds of ice, 1 quart of milk and one loaf of bread each day. These, too, must be secured with permits.

The letter is a most interesting one and follows:

Miami Beach, Fla.,
Tues., Sept. 22, 1926.

Mr. Fred L. Rentz, New Castle News, New Castle, Pa.

Dear Sir:—

Well, I got over to Miami and Coral Gables today. I tried yesterday but no one was allowed to leave unless on urgent business. There is only one causeway open and one must drive very slowly. It is the Venetian causeway from North Beach. There are dozens of automobiles strewn all along it, some hanging half in the water. It is at this place where so many people lost their lives as they were caught trying to get to Miami after the first storm. Bodies are still being found here today.

Many boats are ruined and aground. Miami and Coral Gables have done a lot of cleaning up. All through streets are clean and most of the big stores are open for business. They were not hit as hard as at the beach.

I went out to Art Middleton's on 25th and 79th street, N. W., to see how they were. They were all safe and well. The roof had blown off their new home and their furniture was damaged.

At Coral Gables the citizens got out early Sunday morning and worked all day cleaning the streets and replanting trees. You would hardly know they had gone through a hurricane.

At Hialeah almost everything is down. They suffered from high water. Big insurance companies estimate the loss at 100 millions of dollars in the greater Miami district.

Up at North Beach from the new Rooney Plaza hotel to the Pan Coast hotel there is a new shore line. The drive is completely gone and at high tide the Plaza is about 30 feet from the water.

The Roman Pools will have to be rebuilt. There is six feet of sand in the Rooney Plaza hotel. The city of Miami Beach is still pumping water from the wells through the water lines for sanitary conditions. They are disconnected from the main land, having no fresh water. We are allowed five gallons of water, 12½ pounds of ice, one loaf of bread, one quart of milk and two dollars for groceries. This must be secured with permits.

No sight-seers have been permitted to come to the beach. The death list has reached the 100 mark for the greater Miami district. Before the storm had stopped, movie men were taking pictures and have been every day since.

The Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies are swamped with telegrams, and we get mail deliveries at all hours of the day.

The paper here stated that the wind blew from the east at 125 miles per hour, and from the west at 155 miles per hour. This was at the beach.

We have had so many of our friends come over from Miami and the Gables to see if we were still alive. Today Anna and Jack McNarmara came loaded down with enough stuff to last us a month. They had that weird feeling that they might have found us at the morgue, and, oh, what a relief it was for them to see us well and happy.

The report is still circulated in Miami that 1500 are dead at the beach and that is why they won't let the people come over here. I expect to leave the beach tomorrow and go back to Coral Gables to live as that is where my work is. So if any of the folk up home want me to do them any favors, they can reach me at Meyer Y. Former Newsboy Makes Fortune On Championship Bout

Places $60,000 At Odds Of 3 To 1 On Tunney And Mops-up

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25. — They are telling another Horatio Alger story in Pittsburgh today. It's the story of the newsboy who in a few short years has passed the first lap in his marathon for a million.

Young Eppy is the hero of the story and it is not on record that he attends Sunday school every Sunday. However he has the uncanny ability of picking winners and it was announced here today by his friends that he placed $60,000 on Gene Tunney at odds of three to one. That means $180,000 clear and a bank roll of at least $240,000.

His career in Pittsburgh includes newspaper selling, a few short months and a few short rounds in the ring and then the plunge into sport finance—with success.

He was to return to Pittsburgh today from Philadelphia.

A 12-foot river which will flood Franklin lowlands by night was expected.

Tunney Slips Out Of Philadelphia

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—Gene Tunney, the new heavyweight champion of the world, slipped rather quietly and unostentatiously out of town today on the 10 o'clock train for New York and home. The titleholder occupied a special car with a party of friends and newspapermen and got quietly aboard without eliciting a cheer from the crowd that witnessed his departure.

"Oh, you Gene Tunney," one woman shouted and the new champion rewarded her with a courteous smile, but otherwise there was no demonstration.

Every doy, somewhere, romance is being spoiled by matrimony.

Plan To Honor George Chaffey

Man Who Introduced Scientific Irrigation In Australia To Be Honored

WENT BANKRUPT AFTER BIG FEAT

By MILLER HOLLAND
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—Justice and honor will at last be done to the man who introduced scientific irrigation in Australia 40 years ago, and then went bankrupt.

George Chaffey, now living in retirement in Whittier, Cal., one of California's greatest developers and among the foremost irrigation engineers in the world, is the man who took irrigation to Australia and lost a fortune there.

When the steamship Tahiti arrived in San Francisco from Australia recently it brought a man who has traveled almost 10,000 miles to do justice to Chaffey.

This man is Joseph A. Alexander, journalist. He will gather here and in southern California the material for an extended biography of Chaffey, which is to be published in Australia to bring to the people of that contitnent a knowledge of the man who added to its industries one that in 1925 was worth more than $35,000,000.

Chaffey was one of the master minds of California irrigation in the early eighties. Riverside, Ontario, Etiwanda and the Imperial valley districts are among the projects with which his name and that of his brother, W. B. Chaffey, who died in Australia a number of years ago, are associated.

In 1886, in response to an invitation extended by Alfred Deakin, then Victorian minister of water supply and since thrice prime minister of the commonwealth, George Chaffey introduced into Australia the American system of irrigation colonies which has so revolutionized the productive capacity of California, Colorado, Utah, New Mexico, Arizona and other states.

Deakin was sent to California to make a study of the irrigation project there and took Chaffey back with him.

George Chaffey and his brother obtained from the Victorian government land concessions aggregating 500,000 acres, together with the right to divert water from the Murray river, Australia's Mississippi.

They founded the towns and colonies of Mildura and Renwark, which are still prosperous and are the centers of the fruit districts since developed.

Skepticism and faint-heartedness, however, helped destroy faith in the project and in the financial depression of 1895 Chaffey Brothers, Ltd., were forced into liquidation.

George Chaffey returned to America, helped to develop the Imperial valley with the Owens river project and later became president of the Hibernian Savings Bank of Los Angeles and of the Whittier Water Company.

The honor that so long has been kept from him will shortly be his.

Girl's Gym Class Wear Tag Ships

Novel Idea Adopted To Boost Local Y. W. C. A. Gym Classes

The health department of the Y. W. C. A., has put out small tag ships to advertise its Saturday morning Girls' gym class. If you see a little girl wearing a sail boat tag you will know she's an advocate of the Y. W. C. A. gym.

This class is open to girls 8 to 12 years and the fee for the year is three dollars. This is a fine class for growing girls. If you want to join girls, call the Y. W. 748, immediately as the gym is not very large and we will not take over 30 girls. Don't you want to go on that first hike to cook breakfast?

Concerning the gym classes, a Y. W. C. A. announcement says: Weak abdominal muscles! How many women have them? If women only knew the ailments and physical discrepancies that follow in the trend of weak abdominal muscles. A woman with a weak abdominal wall has not nearly the chance of pulling through an operation that her friend with the hardened muscles has. Join one of the Y. W. classes and get in condition. Be prepared for their climax when it comes. Better your posture by solidifying your muscles and see how much better you feel.

We have a class for you, no matter what activity you want. If not a class, the director will give you individual lessons. Come down and visit us, we will be glad to talk things over and give you the information you seek. We will give you pure recreation or beneficial exercise. Call the Y. W. C. A.

Replica Of High School Stadium Shown In Window

A miniature football field, an almost exact replica of the Ben Franklin High stadium in cardboard, is attracting considerable attention in the window of the Sporting Goods Store on East Washington street.

The window was placed on display by Walter "Hub" Hart, veteran ballplayer and also a rabid football fan. The window is one of the most unique ever attempted and shows the Crafton High and New Castle High teams lined up on the field ready for play, with a large crowd in the concrete stadium.

The display is complete, even to The News press box at the top of the stadium. Small toy ten pins with the heads cut off are made to represent the football players, with a placard to tell who each player happens to be and the position he plays.

An extraordinary large sign with the words, "Welcome Crafton High" helps make the display complete.

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25. — Mrs. Santa Spadara, 42, is in the Presbyterian hospital today in a critical condition, suffering from a bullet wound in her right breast, because breakfast did not suit her husband, police say.

The Spadaras started quarrelling yesterday morning and it lasted until last night when Sparada is alleged to have shot his wife. The woman was unconscious when taken to the hospital by police.

Vaughn Wins Bicycle Race

MAKES GOOD TIME FOR ENTIRE COURSE

Although handicapped to some extent by the rain the bicycle race held at he Senior high school this morning was a great success. Robere Vaughn carried away first honors and to do this he defeated a select field of lads from the Senior high school who have been riding a bike since they started to school. The course was somewhat muddy in some places and between this and skidding on the wet asphalt the boys had one fine time trying to retain their seats but they stuck to their task and as a result every one that started the race was right there at the finish, not a one dropping along the wayside.

Just as the boys were about to be sent away on the grind by the official starter and afterwards the judge of the finish, William Klee the rain pulled a little surprise aid delayed the start until about half an hour later. The contestants were finally set on their way and from the start the lead was taken by Vaughn. He was pushed hard however throughout the race by Ed McClymonds and Leo Rieg. McClymonds was sucessful in capturing the lead at one time but he was overtaken shortly by Vaughn who then held the lead until the finish.

Those who finished among the first five are as follows:

Robert Vauhn, 21 minutes.
Ed McClymonds 21:15 minutes
Leo Rieg, 21:35 minutes.
Charles Bees, 21:45 minutes.
Joe Yesenski 22:30 minutes.

Some event such as this has been planned to take place every Saturday morning in charge of Bill Klee and the boys participating will no doubt derive great benefits from these activities outside of a lot of fun and a substantial increase in their grade.

ESKIMO GUIDE CONFESSES TO KILLING MAN

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Details of the "farthest north" murder, in which Ross G. Marvin, aid to Explorer Peary in his successful dash to the pole in 1909, was slain by a frightened Eskimo guide named Kudlooktoo, were revealed here today by Dr. Isaiah Bowman, president of the American Geographical Society.

For sixteen years, or since the successful Peary expedition, it had been thought that Marvin was drowned. Three years ago Kudlooktoo embraced christianity, was baptized and then, to ease the pangs of conscience that had lain dormant for sixteen years, told his story to Knud Rasmussen, Danish explorer who two years ago told it to Dr. Bowman.

ISRAEL JOURNEYING TOWARD CANAAN
Numbers 10:11-36

Golden Text: "Come with us and we will do thee good". (Num. 10:29).

For 11 months Israel had encamped before Sinai, during which time God gave them the law, the tabernacle and its service, and much needed instruction concerning their relationship to Him. They had time to recover from the debilitating effects of Egyptian slavery. Following a census the people were organized according to tribes, for the purpose of travel and military operation. The first anniversary of the Passover was observed. God had made all necessary preparations for a speedy passage through the wilderness and a complete conquest of Canaan.

The wilderness journey is often used as a type of our journey through this world of sin and trouble, to the eternal rest of the heavenly Canaan which lies beyond the Jordan of death. Perhaps a more accurate typology regards the wilderness journey as a type of that period in most believers' lives which lies between the time of conversion and their full apprehension of and entrance into the peaceful Canaan rest of Christ's redemptive work. It is a period characterized by doubt, failure and defeat: and corresponds to Paul's experience in the seventh of Romans. The book of Joshua, a record of conquest, victory and possession, corresponds to the eighth of Romans, the fourth of Hebrews and the book of Ephesians. There is much food in this lesson for the child of God. We note—

I. A CELESTIAL SIGNAL (vs. 11-13).

God's hour for Israel's departure from Sinai had come. The cloud lifted from the tabernacle. Immediately the Israelites folded their tents and in unquestioned faith followed the heavenly cloud. All phases of the journey "were according to the commandments of Jehovah by the hand of Moses". How happy and short would their pilgrimage have been if this trustful attitude had been maintained.

To ofrequently we become so attached to the camp and its wilderness surroundings that we are unwilling to heed the Word of God. "To move without the testimony would be to move in the dark: to refuse to move when the testimony was given would be to remain in the dark". (C. H. M.)

II. AN ORDERLY ARRANGEMENT (vs. 14-28).

That God is not a God of confusion but of order is revealed in the Divine direction for the march. Every tribe had its appointed leaders, place and service. Judah, the royal tribe and the one from which Christ came according to the flesh, was first in the march. The ark was in the middle of the procession, a position which with two exceptions, it always occupied. It thus became a fitting type of Christ in the midst of His people.

III. AN INOPPORTUNE INVITATION (vs. 29).

Like every true follower of the Lord, Moses invited others to follow Him. He urged Hobab, his father-in-law, to join Israel on its march to the promised land, quoting the Word of God as sufficient reason for so doing. The church which cannot say to the unsaved: "Come with us and we will do thee good" has no warrant for its continued existence. As ambassadors of Christ may we plead with men to be reconciled to God. (II Cor. 5: 20.)

IV. A RASH REFUSAL (vs. 30).

Like many a man of this world, Hobab's affections and interests were centered on earthly possessions and human relationships, rather than upon God and the things yet unseen. Hobab said: "I will not". Every person who rejects the Gospel invitation says: "I will not" to the eternal "I AM". From Judges 1:16 it appears that Hobab later changed his mind and joined the company.

V. A DELUSIVE DANGER (vs. 31-32).

While we must commend the loving persistence of Moses, we should recognize his mistake in attempting to depend upon the eyes of Hobab (vs. 31) for guidance. God had promised to be with Moses and to lead Israel in the right way. Surely the eyes of the Infinite God did not need to be supplemented with the eyes of Hobab. One of the most subtle temptations which comes to a servant of God is to lean on the arm of flesh, upon something tangible, rather than to walk by faith in the unseen God. (II Cor. 5:7).

VI. LED BY THE LORD (vs. 33-36).

1. The ark ahead (vs. 33). As the march was resumed we see one of the two occasions when the ark was not carried in the center of the procession (Num. 2:17). Is not this striking departure from the customary order a silent rebuke of Moses for having suggested that the eyes of Hobab become their guide?

Jehovah would here teach us that He is the sole and all-sufficient leader of His people.

2. Resurrection rest (vs. 33). From the mount the ark advanced three days' journey before finding a suitable camping site for Israel. The "third day" speaks of the resurrection. On the third day from Mt. Calvary the risen Christ became the true resting place of His people. The resurrection of Jesus Christ proclaimed the divine acceptance of His sacrificial work (Rom. 1:4; 4:25; 6-4; Eph. 1:19-23). The soul which can find no rest in its own labors does find perfect rest by faith in the risen Redeemer (Heb. 4:1-11).

3. Shelter (vs. 34). The cloud sheltered Israel from the hot rays of the burning sun. So the presence of God is a shelter to the Christian pilgrim, protecting him from the smiting rays of temptation and trial (Psa. 105:39; 121:5; 91:1).

4. Defense (vs. 35-36). Surrounded by enemies, Israel could safely march by day and rest by night, because God's presence was securing them from all their foes. Moses' two-fold prayer illustrates two apparently contradictory phases of the Christian life: viz. the fight of faith (I Tim. 6:12; Eph. 6:12-18), and the rest of faith (Heb. 4:3, 9-10; Psa. 37:7).

Novelties Mark Sousa Program

Famous Bandmaster Has Innovations For New Castle Program

Novelty and innovation always have been the controlling motives in the programs of Lieut. Com. John Philip Sousa, who this season will make his 34th annual tour at the head of his famous organization and will play in New Castle on Wednesday, October 6. From the days when he played excerpts from the Wagnerian operas throughout America before the operas themselves had been performed in America, even at the Metropolitan Opera house, Sousa has insisted that his program always must contain many new numbers, both of his own writing and by others. This season is no exception.

Notable among the novelties for the new Sousa season is a band arrangement of George Chadwick's "The Ride of Tam O' Shanter". Chadwick is the president of the New England Conservatory of Music, and the transcription for band has been made by Sousa himself. Sousa will also play a new composition by John Powell, the pianist, entitled "Fun at the Fair," a melodic picture of the Circassian lady of the side-shows of another generation. In addition Sousa has arranged for band the Juba Dance movement from "In the Bottoms", the characteristic suite of R. Nathaniel Dett, the negro composer.

Sousa's own contributions to the program in the way of original composition will be three marches, "Sesqui-Centennial," "Pride of the Wolverines" and "Gridiron Club". For Miss Marjory Moody, for several years soprano soloist with the band, he has written a song, "The Thrush", which is a musical setting to the poem of that name by Lucy Larcom, a New England poetess, who lived from 1826 to 1893.

Sousa also has made the arrangements for his humorous numbers, which include two humoresques, "Waiting", based upon "Oh How I've Waited For You" from "By the Way", and the Sousa musical debate, "The Wets and the Drys", as well as a musical burlesque entitled "On Your Radio". In addition, he has made the transcriptions for the jazz numbers which will be presented both by the band and the octette of saxophone comedians.

HOW I IMPROVED MY HEALTH

Did It in Less Than One Month

As Mrs. Weaver herself says, "I was never very strong." This is a mild statement describing her condition, for, according to her letters, she was subjected to no small amount of ill health. Fortunately, her sister was familiar with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged Mrs. Weaver to try it. "After three or four weeks," writes Mrs. Weaver, "I felt a great difference in myself. I would go to bed and sleep sound, and although I could not do very much work, I seemed stronger. I kept on taking it and now I am well and strong, do my work and take care of three children. I sure do tell my friends about your wonderful medicine, and I will answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Lawrence Weaver, East Smithfield St., Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

If you knew that thousands of women suffering from troubles similar to those you are enduring had improved their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, wouldn't you think it was worth a trial?

Swimming Classes For Women Begin Monday October 4

Applications For Beginners And Advanced Swimmers Now Being Received

To Be Held Under Auspices Of Y. W. C. A.—Install Hair Dryers For Girls

Swimming classes for girls and women at the Benjamin Franklin Junior High School to be held under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. will begin October 4, according to announcement made today by Dorothy Jane Stewart, Physical director of the Young Women's Christian Association here.

"Gee, it's great," and "Oh, did you see me dive that time," will be but a few of the exclamations uttered from the willing swimmers when the first class gets underway next week.

Geasa In Charge

Edwin H. Geasa, instructor at the junior high school will be in charge of the night classes. Geasa has been in charge during the past several years and has obtained excellent results among the women natators of this city.

Advanced swimmer's classes will be held on Mondays from 7 until 8, and from 8 until 9 o'clock. On Tuesdays the beginners will hold sway with one hour periods prevailing. Classes will be held weekly throughout the winter. The small fee of seven dollars is the cost of membership and applications are now being received at the Y. W. C. A.

Many Privileges

According to Miss Stewart today, two very fine hair dryers have been installed, eliminating any chance of the girls and women catching cold during the winter season. A dozen of showers are available, and many other privileges are given the swimmers of the night classes.

"There's no need for being afraid to dive," said Miss Stewart, because Mr. Geasa stands by the side of the pool with a watchful eye, and in the event that something would happen, he is ready to give assistance at a moment's notice."

In the Spring two exhibitions by boys and girls of the Junior High School are given for the benefit of the Y. W. C. A. classes, and already those who have enrolled are looking forward to this event.

Many Enroll

Applications are coming in fast and it won't be long now until exclamations such as "Oh, I feel ten years younger,"; "Gee, I swam the width of the pool that time;" "say did you see me swim in deep water tonight;" and "Oh, the fun I had diving," will soon ring out through the locker rooms at the junior high institution.

Foster's Weather Prognostication

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—A storm wave of rather severe intensity is expected to cross continent during week centering on September 20 move well to the southward in its transcontinental flight, gain force as it passes eastward. Storm force of this period is expected to be of the severe equinoctial variety but not the very severe and dangerous type. Following this storm center a wave of cool temperatures south and cold temperatures north, with heavy local, general rains over eastern half of continent, will be the predominating weather features. This wave of below normal temperatures is expected to carry frost damage southward, probably extending through the surplus corn sections. A storm wave of moderate intensity acompanied by rising temperatures and clearing weather, is expected to cross continent during week centering on September 29. Crops that pass through the danger period centering on 20 including the cold wave following that date, will probably have ten days of warm weather in which to complete their season. This period of warm, dry weather is expected to extend through southern cotton and rice sections as well as northern corn sections. No damage to crops is expected during period centering on September 29.

October Weather.

Solar Radiation.

The Deutsche Electrokultur of Berlin, Germany, through a series of experiments has proven that an induced flow of electro-magnetic force through plants insures a healthy growth and yield. By building a series of antennae in the air over a field connecting these antennae with a magnet, connecting the magnet with a series of wires in the earth of that field, they were able to produce super crops in the field so treated, while in an adjoining field under identical circumstances and at the same time excepting that this electrical massage' was not included very poor crops were produced. I have always contended that plant food came from the air and not from the ground; that moisture, fertilizers, working the ground to enable it to hold moisture, etc., were only means to induce electro-magnetic circulation into and through the seeds and plants in order that those seeds and plants may subtract their requirements from the matter carried by these lines of force.

SELFISHNESS OF MOTORIST OFTEN CAUSES ACCIDENTS

Hurried Trips By Drivers With Business On Brain Causes Accidents Says Hanlon

"Selfishness on the part of a motorist is frequently the cause of an autohombile accident" said Bernard Hanlon of the New Castle Motor club today.

Because drivers make hurried trips to and fro from tehir office or office and because they think of nothing but business often results in accidents.

A motorist will jump into his car and drive probably for miles without any regard whatever for traffic signals pedestrians or other motorists on the highway and at the same time he is zig-zagging his way through traffic, endangering the lives of many and utmost of all his own" remarked Hanlon.

To many drivers the car is simply the means of reaching a destination quickly and conveniently, and frequently it is the case that a driver will be thinking more of his destination than of what he is doing when piloting the car through traffic.

Not Secondary.

Driving an automobile is a business in itself. Because a motorist has been driving a car for a considerable time is no reason for assuming that he cannot have a great deal to learn about careful driving. Fewer accidents will be had when motoring ceases to be secondary.

'In a statement issued at national headquarters of the A. A. A., President Henry is quoted as urging motorists to supplement safety movements by a year round endeavor to avaid careless habits which can bring an experienced automobilist to the point where he will possess relatively less competence than the merest novice.

ROAD BUILDING PROGRAM SMALL FOR NEXT YEAR

Nearly All Of Pennsylvania State Appropriation Used—See Little Construction

Road building in Pennsylvania in 1927 will be on a comparatively small scale. The state at the close of this season will have spent or authorized for expenditure all of the second $50,000,000 bond issue authorized by the voters in 1923. Funds available in 1927 from all sources will hardly total $30,000,000—of which $10,000,000 must be paid for interest and sinking fund on the road bonds. From the remaining $20,000,000 road maintenance must be provided for before the highway department even contemplates road construction.

BUILDING IS ON INCREASE

New Castle One Of Eight Cities In State Showing Increase

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 25.—Building and construction in the state was more than a million dollars less during August, just passed, than during that month a year ago. The summary for the state was based on reports made to the state department of labor and industry. The summary was made public here last night.

The 20 municipalities reporting building permits to the department showed construction work totalling $18,640,409. For the entire eight-month period of this year the totals fell nearly 45 million dollars below that of 1925.

Only eight cities in the state showed an increase in building last month over the same month a year ago. The cities and the percentages of increase are: Allentown, 102 per cent; Fradford, 3 per cent; Harrisburg, 28 per cent; New Castle, 112 per cent; Pittsburgh, 35 per cent; Scranton, 8 per cent; Uniontown, 259 per cent, and Williamsport, 72 per cent.

Cities which reported decreases ranging from $100,000 to a half million dollars are Bethlehem, Easton, Erie, Lancaster, Reading and York.

The outstanding gain in employment for the building trades was in Allentown, where employment was 14 per cent higher in August than in July.

AND OLD CLOZE?

MAMARONECK, N. Y.—Isadore Kretzbaum has gone out of business. Mr. Kretzbaum has for 40 years wandered this vicinity in search of old clothes, rags and what-not from which paper mills created new paper products. It once was a fairly easy and profitable occupation, what with the multiplicity of petticoats and, er, whatnot. But now women's clothes are so few, so scant that there simply aren't any rags—not to speak of, anyway. And men's shirts! Once they afforded a plentiful supply for the rag man. But now an old shirt is simply something to use in polishing up the car. And the rag man wanders about, aimlessly, dreaming of the good old, dear old, happy old days when shirts were shirts and petticoats were not imaginary.

NO BEER, NO WAR.

AMSTERDAM—Army life isn't what it used to be. (Chorus: "It never was.") Anyway, there has been a serious revolt in the Dutch army because the beer ration of special troops was not increased after a particularly arduous day's maneuvers. If army maneuvers and beer are inseparable, maybe that accounts for Uncle Sam's small standing army.

New Jewett

The Second Most Beautiful Car in America

You will scarcely believe your eyes when you first step inside this beautiful new Jewett and see the luxury that surrounds you. Certainly no earlier car, at so moderate a price, has ever approached the atmosphere of style that envelops this car.

Every line, every fitting, every appointment is in perfect taste. The instruments are clustered in a beautiful, indirectly-lighted panel. The deep cushions, over nested springs, have cleverly placed arm rests, and silken toggle-straps are in easy reach to assist entrance and exit. Skillfully inlaid walnut-finish panels, twin smoking sets and corner lights complete the custom-built air.

Mechanically, this Jewett is dependableness itself. A larger motor than former Jewetts possessed gives even quicker acceleration, smoother performance, longer service. Paige-Hydraulic 4-Wheel brakes insure maximum safety. Every proved mechanical superiority of the day is here; an air cleaner, balanced crankshaft, snubbers, high-pressure lubrication, bronze-backed bearings.

Come see this car soon. Drive it—enjoy its luxurious charm. Come any time, there's no obligation.

McKibben Gets New Position

Local Man Is Appointed Vice President Of Conneaut Lake Park

RESIGNS POSITION WITH P.-O. COMPANY

E. DON McKIBBEN

E. Don McKibben, 424 Park avenue, has been appointed vice president and business manager at Conneaut Lake Park and has tendered his resignation as supervising manager of Cascade Park to the P.-O. Electric Company.

He has been affiliated in various roles with the P.-O. Electric Company for 20 years, having started as a street car conductor. Strict adherence to duty and a zealous endeavor to serve both employer and patron resulted in his advancement and in 1921 he was named superintendent of Cascade Park.

During 1921 his achievements resulted in his being appointed general manager of the park in 1922, and since then the park has made rapid strides. In 1921 it boasted of practically little in an amusement way, but today it is famed as one of the most attractive recreation centers in this section of the country.

In fact, since his connection with Cascade Park the responsibility and maintenance of the celebrated place has been in his keeping and he has shown exceptional executive ability in developing the acreage which has a historical foundation. Credit for exploiting Cascade Park can be bestowed upon McKibben.

Not only has he been interested in Cascade Park, but also in civic developments, and it is believed by his legion of friends that while his new duties may be monumental, he will handle them with the same dispatch and success that crowned his efforts here.

Conneaut Lake Park is located upon the western shore of Conneaut Lake, the largest body of water in Pennsylvania. It is 108 miles north of Pittsburgh and 45 miles south of Erie, with hard-surfaced roads in all directions, with trolley service from Linesville to Erie; on the main line of the B. & L. E. R. R. and excellent train service over the P. R. R. via Linesville and the Erie R. R. via Meadville.

The park is said to be the largest inland park in America; maintains 15 hotels and restaurants, and dotted with cottages where accommodations can be secured. All of the amusements known to the world are located at the park and these include boating, fishing, bathing, tennis and golf. It is especially ideal for conventions and it is pleasing to fellow citizens to know that the Conneaut Lake Company has selected Mr. McKibben to fill the important position to which he has been named.

What Do You Think of This for
A Loaf of Bread?

Enough bread to feed one-fifth of the people of the United States for one year was the size of a loaf that was conceived by combining all the flour used in a year by the members of the Quality Bakers of America at their Eighth General Conference in New York City, September 13th, 14th, 15th, and 16th at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria.

The pan needed for this "champion" loaf would measure 8855 feet in length, 4422 feet in width and would be 2933 feet high. Such a pan naturally does not exist, nor an oven in which to bake this loaf.

New Castle, Pa., was represented at this conference by Mr. R. I. Galbreath of the O. C. Orr Baking Co., members of this organization of non-competing, independent, wholesale bakers in which membership is by invitation only.

Mr. Galbreath reports that it was one of the finest conferences he has ever attended and was a "Progress Conference" from start to finish, great emphasis being placed on the exceptional progress the organization has made since its inception several years ago.

Every conceivable question and problem relating to the management of a baker, bread advertising, salesmanship, production purchasing and accounting were gone into and discussed in open conference during the four day session. It is the aim of this organization to give the public the finest loaf of bread that can be baked and the best of service to the grocers.

The combined business of the Quality Bakers of America went over the 30,000,000 figure last year according to Ivan B. Nordhem, secretary of the organization and there are more than 1600 salesman in the organization.

Evans City-Ellwood Football Game Today First On Schedule

Jim McMurdo Will Not Enter Game Today—"Red" Maloney Will Be Center

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 25—The crowd surging at the gates of the Ellwood athletic field were permitted to purchase their tickets beginning at 2 o'clock this afternoon, for the Ellwood High, Evans City High football game, the first on the schedule for the local gridders this season.

Jim McMurdo, the star center for E. C. H. S., was hurt in a recent practice and his ankle has been sprained. He plans to keep off of it to be ready for some of the big tussles which the locals expect to encounter.

"Red" Maloney will play center in his place this afternoon and Bill Smith will no doubt be in the lineup. The game with Evans City starts off the fans who are waiting eagerly for the opportunity of seeing Ellwood at it again.

Last year without one defeat the local gridders were encouraged to play big teams. This year the boys are much lighter. "Peck" Lee, the coach has given them a thorough grilling, and is satisfied that they will win this afternoon's game by a good margin.

Greek Words Prove Tongue Twisters For Pupils Of Schools

ELLWOOD CITY Pa., Sept. 25—Classes of the Ellwood schools ranging from the fifth grade up are taking a course of study which includes a deeper insight into the life of the Greek and the local library is used considerably where the pupils search for reference books which dwell on this subject.

Mrs. Catherine Charles the librarian with her assistants are kept in constant mirth as the smaller children come to the desk and inquire for the Greek Monastary, Lessons of the Pinks, Positions Contributions to Greek history and other such books.

Needless it takes the mind of a Philadelphia lawyer to puzzle out the fact that the child who has asked for the Greek Monastary really like to have Greek Mythology. Lessons of the Pinks is translated and the child goes home with Legends of the Sphnix, well satisfied. But Positions Contributions to Greek History was harder to solve and the solution was changed with the first word which was "Phoenicians."

Employment In State Good

Reports Indicate Situation Throughout State Is In Good Shape

By WILLIAM BROWN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 25.—While varying in some lines in certain sections of the state, employment conditions continued good for the first two weeks of September, according to reports made from the various employment bureaus of the state department of labor and industry just made public.

Evidence of increasing general business was indicated in the reports of a number of cities on the transportation conditions. In a number of cities on the main trunk lines the railroads are taking back men who have been off duty since last spring. Exceptions in the railroad conditions were reported from Philadelphia and Scranton, where things were quiet the past two weeks.

All of the larger cities reported an insistent demand for high grade machinists which was taken to mean unusual activity in many of the metal industries. In Philadelphia and Erie the demand has been unusually heavy.

Building and construction activity although far behind the corresponding period last year is reported as generally good in most sections. In Philadelphia completion of many additional projects at the sesqui-centennial has thrown a large number of skilled men, especially carpenters out of employment.

Although there is a surplus of common labor in Philadelphia the majority of such workmen elsewhere are reported as able to find employment. Contractors who wish to finish projects before the advent of cold weather have taken on additional men at many points.

Demand for clerical, professional and technical workers continues light, the majority of the officers having on file applications for such positions.

End of the vacation season and closing of summer hotels has caused a general change in hotel and restaurant places but there has been but little resultant unemployment.

Opening of schools and colleges also has caused a general shift in many positions. Return of students has caused many openings which are being filled with permanent workers when possible.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

"SHUFFLE 'LONG RATTY!"

"Here we go 'round the piece of cheese, the piece of cheese, the piece of cheese, Here we go 'round the piece of chees so early in the evening!"

It was night and in the baggage car 'twas dark. Only a dim lamp flickered in the furthest corner and through a smoky chimney cast strange shadows on the floor.

Pat, weary after his day of freedom and left to his own devices long before 'twas twilight by Mr. Rat, who had crept away without saying a word, had been napping soundly. Now, roused by this strange noise he half opened one sleepy eye and twitched one ear.

"Singing! At this hour of the evening!" grumbled the Dog, who really hadn't the slightest idea what time it was, but only guessed it must be late because it was so dark.

Neither you nor I would ever in the world have dreamed—had we been in that baggage car—that the squeaky squeal Pat heard was music, but Pat's ears, you see, were sharper than ours, and in the shake of a lamb's tail he guessed the truth.

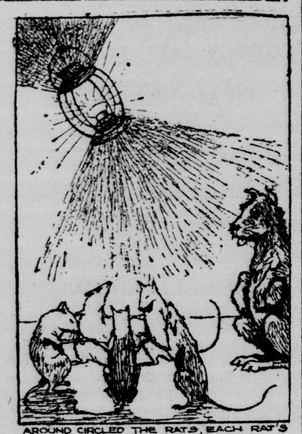
"Rats!" muttered he. "But 'tis a silly song they sing!"

Scratch, scratch, scratch! Pat knew that sound, too, and on the instant became wide awake.

"Feet, lots of 'em—sharp little nails—digging up the sawdust!" whispered Pat to himself. "What's going on here, anyhow?"

Pat sprang to his feet, but he was too wise a Dog to make a bit of noise. Softly he paddy-pawed toward the corner, but when he had gone half way he sank to his haunches and threw up his paws.

"Wuff!" breathed he. "Never,



AROUND CIRCLED THE RATS, EACH RAT'S ARM LOCKED IN HIS NEIGHBORS

no, never at all did I ever in my life see such a sight. And never so long as I've a hair on my back shall I forget it!"

The oil lamp threw a beam to the corner; it shone upon something shiny that rose into the air. Around this object that Pat could not quite make out circled Rats, ever so many of them, each Rat's arm locked in his neighbor's—each Rat beating time with his feet to the queer tune that he sang.

"Shake a lively foot, everybody! Come now, Ratty, just shuffle along!"

A merry young Rat poked Pat's friend in the ribs and Ratty stepped so lively and looked so funny that Pat clapped his paws to his mouth or he would certainly have yelped out loud.

Next! "A surprised Eye Witness."

METHODISTS WIN CHURCH CHAMPIONSHIP

Snatch Victory By Fine Rally

FINAL COUNT SHOWS 5 TO 4

The First Methodist team captured the City Church baseball championship on Friday night at the Croton field by staging a last-inning rally that proved sufficient to give them a 5 to 4 victory over the Central Presbyterian team. The game was played before one of the largest crowds to witness a Church League game this year. The game was stopped in the fifth inning on account of darkness.

Ralph Baker, the Methodist ace, occupied the mound for the champions and pitched a fine brand of baseball, allowing but six hits and fanning four batters. Funkhouser, on the knoll for the Presbyterians, was touched for nine hits and made five batters breeze the air. Baker was master of the Presbyterians up until the last inning, when darkness caused a little trouble in locating the plate.

The Central Presbyterians drew first blood in the second chapter by chasing over a solitary tally on two hits and a walk. The Methodists found Funkhouser hard to solve for the first four innings, but in the fifth frame the complexion changed and the Methodists hammered out enough hits to produce five runs.

Leonard Hits Homer

E. Lockley's single scored Sid Lockley and Baker. Frazier doubled, scoring Lockley, and Johnny Leonard smeared one of Funkhouser's fast pitches to deep left field for a home run "ala Babe Ruth" with Frazier crossing the plate ahead of him.

The Presbyterians, with the score standing 5 to 1 against them, staged an effort in the final half of the fifth frame, but fell short one run. The Presbyterians, however, succeeded in throwing a scare into the Methodists by scoring three runs.

With darkness fast approaching it was believed that the game would be stopped, but the umpire ordered the fifth inning completed.

The playing of E. Lockley at short for the new champions was one of the bright features of the game, the youngster handling five hard chances without a slip-up. Battley and Weiss featured for the Presbyterians, while Connelly played a fine game for the Methodists at second base.

The Church League season was brought to a close last evening, and it is safe in saying that the season was most successful.

FARRELL BOWS BEFORE HAGEN

Walter Needs Only One More Triumph To Retain Title

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Walter Hagen today stood at the door of golfing fame, which refused to open six days ago for Bobby Jones, needing only one more triumph to win his third successive championship.

The invincible "Hage" arrived at the threshold in the ninth Professional Golf Association event yesterday with a blast of great stroking, which completely smothered Johnny Farrell of Mamaroneck, N. Y., in the semi-finals 6 and 5.

Today he will pass through his final test—a 36-hole match against Leo Diegel of New York, who drew a breast of Hagen Friday after beating off a brave, though belated rally on the part of Johnny Golden, veteran contender from Paterson, N. J., 1 up.

Westminster Beaten By Duquesne, 13-0

Drop Inaugural Game Of Season At Pittsburgh Friday Afternoon

Dukes Score In Second And Third Periods — Crowell's Punting Features

(Special To The News)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 25—Westminster College, playing its first game under their new mentor, Dwight Beede, Carnegie Tech star, dropped its opening game of the season to Duquesne University here Friday by a 13-0 score.

The United Presbyterians, lacking an offensive attack, were unable to penetrate the stonewall defense offered by the Bluff-men, and at no stage of the game did they threaten to score against the Dukes. Beede's men were drilled in the Tech system of play and although the backs were willing to come through, the line was seemingly slow in coming out of their positions for interference.

Deliman Tallies

Coach McDermott's boys tallied in the second and third periods. The first score came late in the second quarter following an exchange of punts. Duquesne had possession of the ball on Westminster's 35 yard line when Gusanovic plunged off tackle for 17 yards. Another try and the husky halfback made his way to the 8 yard line, Velar carried the pigskin to within a few inches of the goal line and Deliman had the honor of carrying it over for the first touchdown of the 1926 season.

The second score was made following intermission. With the ball on Westminster's 37 yard line, several line bucks were attempted when Velar started around right end with the ball, but finding a half dozen players of the visiting team waiting for him he reversed his field and ran 35 yards for a touchdown. The play came entirely unexpectedly and was the outstanding feature of the game.

Try Place Kick

Duquesne attempted to score from the field in the fourth session when Donelli dropped back for a place kick, but he failed after a bad pass from center. The Dukes held the upper hand over their foe throughout the game, making eleven first downs to Westminster's two.

In Deliman, Velar and Gusanovic, Duquesne has a trio of good backfield stars. Substantial gains were made repeatedly by these boys.

Crowell's punting for Westminster was outstanding for the visitors, the elongated end getting the ball away for long boots. Montgomery, captain of the losers played a scrappy and consistent game throughout.

The Cardinals sewed up the National league bunting by beating the Giants, 6 to 4, on Southworth's homer. The Giants knocked Rhem out of the box in the first inning when Terry hit for the circuit with two on, but Sherdel held them thereafter.

Cincinnati passed out of the picture by losing to the Reds, 9 to 2, when Lucas was shelled off the mound. The Reds won the second game 8 to 4.

The Indians were handed a 3 to 1 setback by the Athletics, and now trail the Yankees, who were idle, by two and one-half games. Rommel outpitched George Uhle.

Last Night's Fights

AT SAN FRANCISCO—Bout between Ruby Goldstein of New York and Billy Alger of Arizona was stopped in fifth round when Goldstein suffered a broken ankle; Tommy O'Brien of Seattle won decision over Jimmy Mendoza, New York, in third round when bout was stopped.

Pennant Races In Both Leagues

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—With the National league pennant clinched by the St. Louis Cardinals, interest today centered on the American league race, where the Yankees lead the Indians by two and one-half games as a result of Cleveland's defeat by Philadelphia yesterday. By winning both games of a double header with the Browns this afternoon, the Yankees can clinch the pennant. The outcome also will be settled if New York breaks even and Cleveland loses one game of a doubleheader with the Athletics.

The Cards clinched the pennant by downing the Giants, 6 to 4, while Cincinnati was losing the first game of a double header with the Phillies. Cincinnati made sure of second place by winning the second game.

DEMPSEY'S SHARE ALMOST MILLION

Winner Gene Tunney Draws $200,000 For Fighting Champion

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—Here are the official receipts for the Dempsey-Tunney fight, the most gigantic heavyweight title bout ever held, as announced by the Pennsylvania state athletic commission:

Total receipts	$1,895,733.40
Dempsey's share	700,000.00
Tunney's share	200,000.00
Rickard's share	500,000.00
Sesqui expo. share	170,000.00
State tax	86,150.00
Government tax	172,339.40

Total attendance, 125,732; paid attendance, 118,736.

The best previous gate was taken in at the Dempsey-Carpentier bout at Jersey City in 1921. This was $1,626,580.

St. Louis Cards Capture Flag

Cincinnati's Defeat Helps St. Louis Take National League Honor

YANKEES MAY WIN AMERICAN LOOP FLAG

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Rogers Hornsby and his gallant band of St. Louis Cardinals, after a stirring struggle to bring to the Mound City its first National League pennant in the history of baseball, ended all doubt as to the ultimate winner Friday by trouncing New York, 6 to 4, while the second-place Cincinnati Reds were splitting a double-header with Philadelphia.

When the Quakers walloped the Reds, 9 to 2, in the first game, Cincinnati's mathematical possibility of overcoming the Cardinals disappeared. Although Cincinnati came back to hammer the Phillies, 8 to 4, in the second, the race is over for the season with the St. Louis lead now three full games and only two to play.

The standing of the leaders today:

	W.	L.	To Play	Pct.
St. Louis	89	63	2	.586
Cincinnati	86	66	2	.566

Nothing the Reds or Cards do from now on can have any bearing on the final standing. St. Louis may lose the two remaining games while Cincinnati is winning both and still lead at the close by a full game.

The standing then would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
St. Louis	88	66	.578
Cincinnati	88	66	.571

Only the slimmest of possibilities bars concession of the pennant to the New York Yankees in the American League. Cleveland's loss to Philadelphia 3 to 1, yesterday, while the Yankees were being rained out at St. Louis, boosted the New York advantage to two and one-half games.

The standing today:

	W.	L.	To Play	Pct.
New York	89	61	4	.593
Cleveland	87	64	3	.576

Cleveland, by winning three games, may nose out the battering Yankees, if the latter lose all four of the struggles left to play. In that event the standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Cleveland	90	64	.584
New York	89	65	.578

Tunney And Dempsey May Fight Again On Coast Says Rickard

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor Internat'l News Service

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey principals in the greatest sport event of all time, will play the second game of their own particular world series sometime next spring in California.

"Tex" Rickard, promoter of the Philadelphia fight said that he believed a return fight deserved a big gate and that he meant to get it.

May Stage Return Bout

"I don't agree with people who say that Tunney is a poor champion," Rickard declared. "I personally think he made a very good fight and I enjoyed every minute of it. I also think the public would want another Dempsey-Tunney match."

"I'd be a sap if I didn't give the public what it wants."

"That's as far as I care to go right now. My plans in this direction are very indefinite now and it is no use talking about the proposition until I get things lined up."

It was Dempsey who inspired Rickard with the idea of a return fight, according to what I hear. The ex-champion left the ring unconvinced about the finality of Tunney's victory and didn't hesitate to say as much.

"Gene is the best man I ever met but I think I can take him," Dempsey said. "In fact if I can get him in the right again I predict that I will knock him out. I'm not through. I simply need to get this fight under my belt and now that I have done that I am a better man for it. If Tunney will give me my chance, I think I will be able to show the public that Jack Dempsey is the better man."

Normile was circulating about, telling a story that Dempsey was blind for the last three rounds and, therefore, couldn't make the fight of which he was capable.

Blind Due To Blood

"Jack was so blind that he asked me to lead him to the centre of the ring for the final round," Normile declared. "We had the thing figured out after the sixth round for Dempsey to rush Tunney off his feet. Jack was plenty strong and don't let them tell you anything else. But all his strength was of no avail when his left eye closed. You can't hit a man you can't see."

Just where the California angle came from the writer cannot say but Rickard undoubtedly was impressed with the great interest taken in the fight by fans from the coast. California probably was more thoroughly represented at the ringside than any other state with the natural exception of Pennsylvania.

It only remains to be seen whether Rickard cares to leave his base of operations in New York for a second time, and if he does, whether California will extend him a welcome.

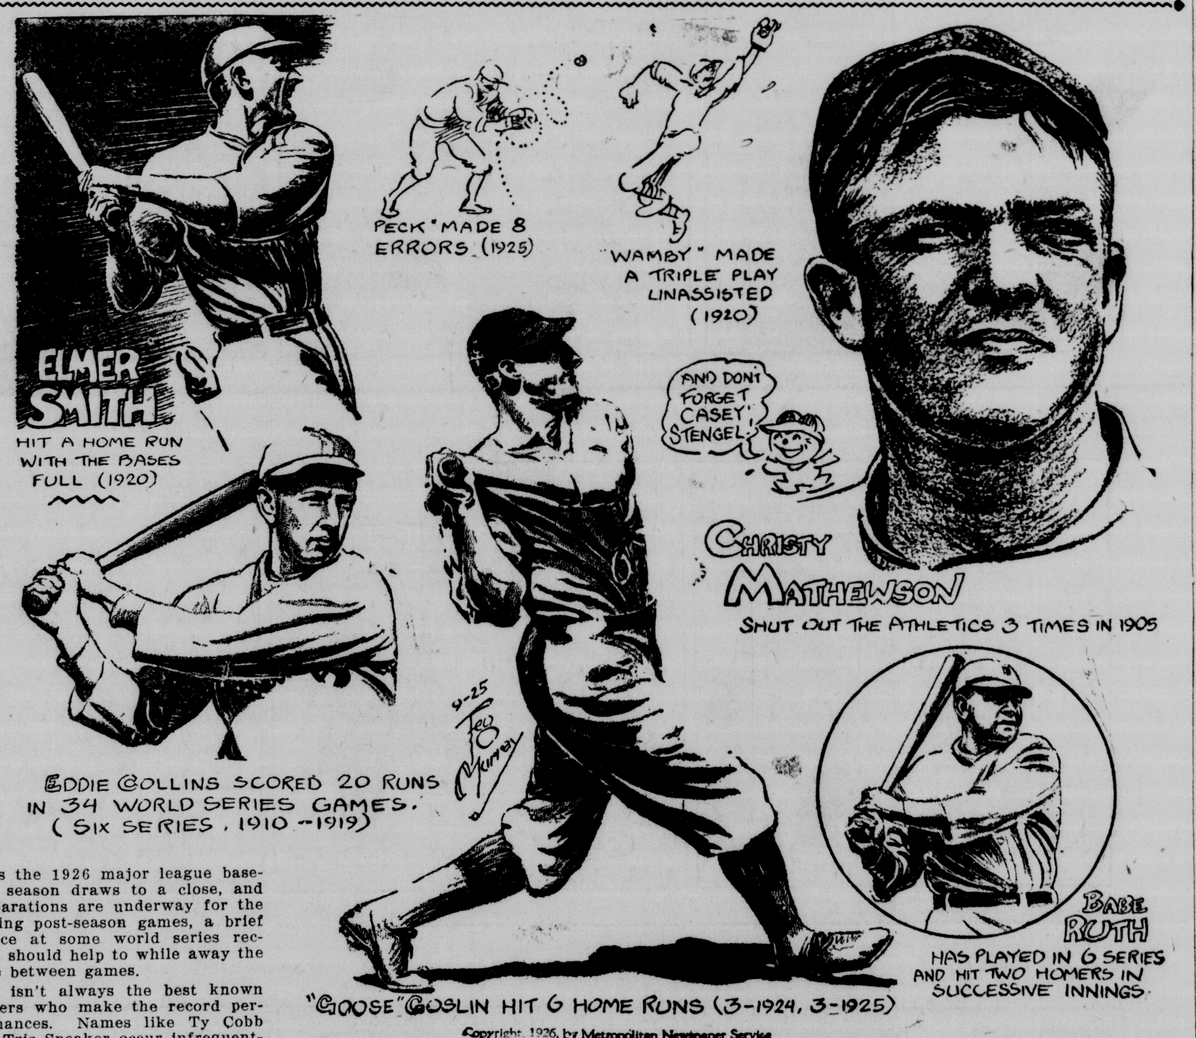
SOME WORLD SERIES RECORDS BY FEG MURRAY



Copyright, 1926, by Metropolitan Newspaper Service

As the 1926 major league baseball season draws to a close, and preparations are underway for the coming post-season games, a brief glance at some world series records should help to while away the time between games.

It isn't always the best known players who make the record performances. Names like Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker occur infrequently in the list of world series records published in that interesting volume. "The Little Red Book," one of Spalding's Athletic Library. The immortal Ty is down only for "most times stealing home base—1," which honor he shares with Mike McNally and Bob Meusel.

Tris Speaker, the former two-base-hit king, is down on the books for hitting the most three baggers, total series—4, and the most triples in one series—2, which latter record he shares with many others.

Babe Ruth fares better, however, for he holds with "Home Run" Baker, Eddie Collins, Wally Schang, and Everett Scott, the record for playing in the most series—six. (Scotty was eligible, but didn't play for the Senators last year.) He also shares with Tommy Leach the record of scoring eight runs in one series. Then the Bambino is tied with Leon Goslin and Joe Harris for the most home runs in one series—three, and with Harry Hooper for the most homers in one game—two.

He holds the record for "most extra bases on long hits, total series—18," and ditto, "one series—12," and "game—6." Then he stands supreme with eight bases on balls in one series as a tribute to the fear in which he was held by opposing pitchers, or John McGraw, in 1923. Babe even breaks into the pitching records with twenty-nine scoreless innings, twirled in 1916 and 1918 for Boston.

The name of one grand old veteran fairly emblazons the pages of the world series records. For Eddie Collins, besides sharing the record for most series played in, holds the marks for most runs, total series (20); most base hits, total series (42); most singles, total series (33); most total bases, total series (53); most sacrifice hits, total series (8); and most stolen bases, total series (14).

Christy Mathewson's name dominates the pitching performance, for, besides his twenty-seven scoreless innings against the Athletics in 1905, he pitched four shut-out games altogether, pitched the most innings, total series (103 2-3); and one series, 29 2-3. "Big Six" also shares with Plank, Marquard, and Joe Bush the record for most defeats, total series—5.

Other interesting performances are Art Nehf's walking thirty-one batters in four series, Carl Mays' feat of pitching three full games in one series without passing a man and Ed Walsh's striking out twelve in one game. Frank Frisch batted .300 or better on four series, and scored two runs in one inning in 1921. Bob Meusel scored three men on a single in 1923, Casey Stengel won two games with home runs, and George Kelly struck out ten times in one series. And Nick Altrock, the comedian holds five world series fielding records for pitchers! Laugh that off!

Coast Operators Want Return Bout

Tunney Pays Visit To Fallen Champion

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—This city was rapidly getting back to normal today following the exodus of most of the host of fight fans who attended the Dempsey-Tunney fight here Thursday night.

The ex-champion, accompanied by his wife, Estelle Taylor, left last night for Atlantic City. The new champion, Gene Tunney, was scheduled to leave early today for New York, where he will be given a royal welcome by his home town friends and admirers.

Tunney surprised the ex-champion and his wife by paying them a visit in their suite at the Adelphia hotel here last night, shortly after Miss Taylor's arrival from the west.

Arriving unexpectedly, Tunney greeted Dempsey with the hope that he was "coming along all right."

Dempsey assured Gene he would be over the effects of the fight in a few days. The two then talked for half an hour before the champion finally emerged from Dempsey's rooms.

Shortly afterwards Dempsey, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Fitzsimmons, left by a rear entrance and caught a train for Atlantic City.

Six men waiting in the lobby of the hotel to serve summons on the ex-champion to tie up his share of the championship purse, were unaware of his departure.

Fohl Is Cause Of Blasted Hope

Boston Manager, Formerly Of Cleveland Team, Trips Up Tribe

BOSTON BRAVES CHECK REDS, TOO

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Dame Fate, one of our leading baseball fans so to speak, must have had a ladylike chuckle all by herself when the Boston Red Sox sounded the death knell of Cleveland's pennant hopes. Fohl is the man who laid the ground work for the Cleveland team which won a pennant in 1920. Lack of confidence on the part of the fans caused Fohl to step out in favor of Tris Speaker.

The Indians had a mathematical chance, and better, to win the flag this year when they said boodbye to the league leading Yankees after a six-game series. The Indians had grabbed four of the six games. Speaker's men hoped to make a clean sweep of the series with the Sox that followed. Fohl sent young Wingfield in against the second placers in the first game of the series and the defeat he handed the Tribesmen blasted their hopes.

And while the Boston Red Sox were wrecking the hopes of the Indians in the American League scramble the lowly Boston Braves were taking a roundhouse swing at the Cinci Reds. A shutout administered the House of Hendricks started the Reds on the down grade and the Braves followed with another victory which increased the lead of the Cardinals.

All of which causes us to remark that Boston cannot be considered a minor league town any longer. Not with two teams swinging the sledge hammers in the final days of the peanut campaigns.

The New York Yankees have suffered a setback in the closing days of the American League campaign that may affect them in the coming world's series, although it did not cost them the pennant.

This setback was in the general morale of the team.

Two or three weeks ago it was pointed out to Miller Huggins that the final series of the campaign in Cleveland—consisting of six games—might decide the fate of the Yankmen. Huggins stated that he had no fear of the outcome of that series. The entire team effervesced the same confidence. Then the outfit went to Detroit, to be rudely shocked by the Tigers—also roundly trounced.

They went from Detroit to Cleveland. The story of their slump went before them.

"They aren't hitting," went the cry.

Speaker and his Indians planned their campaign accordingly. George Uhle, pet jinx of the Yanks, had an off day and lost the first game. The following day, however, the Indians came back. Emil Levsen held the leaders to two hits in the first game of a double-header. Gob Buckeye let them have just two more in the second game and the Yanks lost both games. The third day Shaute permitted the New Yorkers just five base hits. Another victory for the Indians. Then Uhle came back at the Hugmen and gave them just four safeties.

A total of 13 hits in 36 innings of play—a little better than three hits a game. Four defeats in a row. Not a home run from the Babe. Herb Pennock, southpaw ace, and others were treated rudely.

Enough there to shatter the already weakened morale.

The Yankees took the sixth game and since then have cinched the flag. But there lurks in their mind the knowledge that they can be stopped dead in their tracks at any time by proper pitching. They carried not this feeling up to that final series in Cleveland.

Just how much confidence these setbacks sapped will be known only when they tackle the National league champions.

Joe Bush hung up eight victories in a row for the Pirates before being stopped. Which is of interest to the Yankees, Browns and Senators but wasn't quite enough for the Pirates.

The Yankees may also boast of the championship of the International League, having licked Dan Howley's Toronto team in an exhibition game.

Arnold Statz, former outfielder who'll be a Dodger next season, once hankered to become a golf pro but wanted to give Walter Hagen a chance.

Judging by latest developments in the Kearns-Dempsey skit brother Kearns forgot that Brother Dempsey could drag out a few skeletons if the need arose.

MEET GORDON CHAMBERS F. B.

The Latter Stands For Football Bug In The South

He's an attorney at law.

Veteran of the world war.

Graduate of the University of Georgia.

Lecturer.

Writer.

Politician.

But first and foremost a football enthusiast.

He spends his time from Thanksgiving to Labor Day getting his business affairs arranged so he can devote most of his time between Labor Day and Thanksgiving to football.

He's at it again.

Hot wires from him already on prospects of the southern teams.

Already has hopes of seeing the University of Georgia beat Yale. His enthusiasm and loyalty may be egging him on there, but that's what makes college football a game apart from all others.

Chambers had considerable grid experience himself but the world war prevented him from playing college football. He played prep football at Richmond Academy and was set to attend the University of Georgia when the world war came along. He played on service teams in his idle moments and was a member of the eleven which won the A. E. F. championship in 1918.

The war, however, had kept him out of school so long that he devoted all his time to his studies when he entered Georgia U.

Out of school he found himself hankering for football again. The next football heard of him he was startling folk in Augusta, Ga., his home town, with his predictions on big football games in the south and other sections. His predictions drew general circulation finally until now he is almost nationally known for his uncanny ability to size up teams and their chances.

You'll probably hear more of him this fall.

I know he'll pester me to death with his advance bulletins.

And let 'em come.

Motorists Fail To Observe Stop Signs

Police of the city are investigating a complaint made to the effect that motorists on Moody avenue coming to Wilmington avenue fail to observe the main thoroughfare stop regulations in driving onto the latter street. They are making it dangerous for other motorists traveling on Wilmington avenue, according to the complaint made. It is probable that a number of these motorists will be charged with violation of this city regulation and required to pay fines.

Get friendly with some coal dealer now and avoid the rush.

Because, we ask you to take this car and drive it. Compare it with any new car selling at $1000 to $1200 and we know you will agree that you are saving a lot of money. Our price is $700. HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

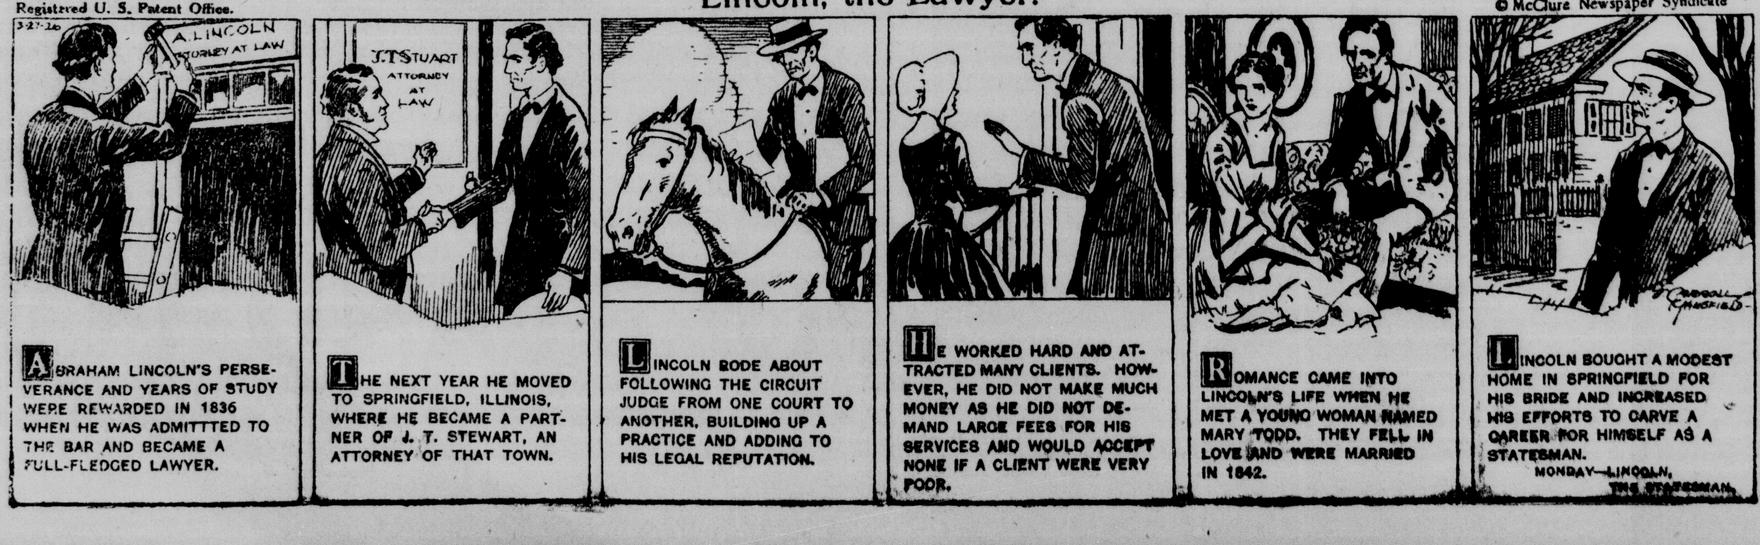
Lincoln, the Lawyer.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate



ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S PERSEVERANCE AND YEARS OF STUDY WERE REWARDED IN 1836 WHEN HE WAS ADMITTTED TO THE BAR AND BECAME A FULL-FLEDGED LAWYER.

THE NEXT YEAR HE MOVED TO SPRINGFIELD, ILLINOIS, WHERE HE BECAME A PARTNER OF J. T. STEWART, AN ATTORNEY OF THAT TOWN.

LINCOLN RODE ABOUT FOLLOWING THE CIRCUIT JUDGE FROM ONE COURT TO ANOTHER, BUILDING UP A PRACTICE AND ADDING TO HIS LEGAL REPUTATION.

HE WORKED HARD AND ATTRACTED MANY CLIENTS. HOWEVER, HE DID NOT MAKE MUCH MONEY AS HE DID NOT DEMAND LARGE FEES FOR HIS SERVICES AND WOULD ACCEPT NONE IF A CLIENT WERE VERY POOR.

ROMANCE CAME INTO LINCOLN'S LIFE WHEN HE MET A YOUNG WOMAN NAMED MARY TODD. THEY FELL IN LOVE AND WERE MARRIED IN 1842.

LINCOLN BOUGHT A MODEST HOME IN SPRINGFIELD FOR HIS BRIDE AND INCREASED HIS EFFORTS TO CARVE A CAREER FOR HIMSELF AS A STATESMAN.

N. Y. STOCKS

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—A moderate advance in the industrial and railroad shares which have been in the forefront of the rising tide of security values in the last few months, was the principal feature of the short session of the stock market today. There was no special stimulus to stock buying but the usual week-end business and economic surveys, which were up to expectations.

The cotton market had the benefit of firmer foreign cables and the reported efforts of the southern bankers to raise a fund of $1,000,000,000 to loan against 1,000,000 bales of cotton withdrawn temporarily from the market. Meanwhile a movement will be started to cut down the acreage grown to cotton next year.

Under the stimulus of strong professional buying, general motors moved up to a new high above 160, equivalent to 240 for the undivided stock. Demand for the stock was based on reports that the directors would authorize the distribution of another special cash dividend next month. Hudson displayed a much stronger tone than at any time in the last ten days, and advanced in good form to above 55, Chrysler, Jordan and other low price motor stocks were active and buoyant.

United States Steel and the independent steel shares resumed the advance which featured Friday's final period. Steel common rose to above 150 in active trading, while Bethlehem Sloss Sheffield and Crucible sold higher.

The railroad shares dropped back into inactivity after the first period, during which modest advances were recorded for the outstanding leaders in this group. Oils were unsettled by further price cutting in the Pan Handle section of Texas and the softening of the wholesale gasoline markets in Chicago and mid-western consuming centers.

The theatrical and moving pictures stocks led the spectacular activity in the specialties, with Warner Brothers returning to above 65 and Loew's reacting a new high at 45. Short covering in Stewart Warner, International Combustion and other specialties produced some sharp advances in prices. Equipment stocks moved up under the lead of Baldwin and Pullman, while the sugar, copper and tobacco stocks were well bought at moderate advances.

Stocks Decline During Week

Narrow And Professional Stock Market In Past Week Of Trading

RAILROAD STOCKS DISPLAY STRENGTH

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. — A narrow and professional stock market with all but the standard rails and a few of the prime industrial stocks declining to lower price levels; an unsettled but gradually improving money market; a severe break in cotton prices, bringing four of the nearby positions below 15 cents a pound for the first time in five years; a strong market for the leading European exchanges; alternating strength and weakness in foreign government bonds, and a continuance of the favorable operating records of the big industrial and railroad enterprises, were the principal features of the week in financial circles.

With the completion of the quarterly financing of the government, and the industrial companies, funds returned to the banking institutions and a larger supply of money was available for the call loan market.

The call rate moved down to 6 per cent and in some quarters outside borrowing was reported at 4½ per cent. Some improvement was reported in the Reserve system and the member banks in the weekly statements, which showed an increase in the general reserve ratio from 71.6 to 73.1 per cent of resources and in the New York Bank from 74.8 to 79.5 per cent.

The buoyant market for the Nickel Plate Railroad stocks was the really distinctive feature of the speculative district, Nickel Plate (old stock) crossed 200 for the first time in its history, and Chesapeake and Ohio was bid up nearly 20 points above last week's low price on reports that the Van Sweringens would grant the demand of the minority stockholders for a 12 per cent dividend guaranty in the Nickel Plate consolidation. Pere Marquette, and Erie, the other roads in the merger, are also expected to profit from the revised plan of consolidation, as a result of which their stocks were also strong and active.

Professionals in the stock market were arrayed for the time being on the short side of the market, selling stocks on all rallies, and concentrating heavy selling on stocks or groups of stocks which showed any of the usual signs of weakness. Their success in some of these efforts were more apparent than real. Quotations were deflected on the tape but there was little stock offered at the low prices and short covering produced sharp rallies in various sections of the speculative list.

An upward revision of about 400,000 bales in the government's estimate of probable cotton production this year caused an uproar on the New York and New Orleans Cotton exchanges on Thursday. Speculative traders in both markets threw their contracts on a falling market, stop-loss orders were uncovered in volume and prices declined to the lowest levels, for some positions, since 1921.

Price-cutting in the tire trade, a downward revison of crude oil prices and occasional softening of the important commodity market produced some unsettlement in the financial district, but trade reports were uniformly favorable, and the prospect for the immediate future is as bright as at any time this year.

Air Pictures Of Hurricane Havoc

Charge Theft Of Automobile Battery

Bessemer Garage Man Alleges Battery Was Taken By Motorists

Harry Fry, Vernon Fry, John Russo and Herman Taylor, four young men of this city, were arrested here last night by County Detective George S. Kennedy and assisting officers, for their alleged part in the theft of a battery at the garage of Carl Eck, just beyond Bessemer across the Ohio state line.

They were held until this morning at the city jail when they were turned over to Constable A. A. Shoup of Bessemer and Ohio officers and taken back into Ohio to the scene of the alleged theft.

According to the report at police headquarters, these four young men, accompanied by the wife of Harry Fry, were motoring just over the Ohio line when they went to the aid of some motorists who were in trouble.

They finally landed at the Eck garage, where he was fixing another machine. When the repairs on this machine were completed the driver drove off without paying and Mr. Eck followed the car to get his money.

When he returned to the garage, his wife told him that these four young men, who remained at the garage, had taken something that looked like a battery and driven away.

Eck found that the battery was missing and at once gave chase. He and Constable Shoup trailed them to Mahoningtown, where they were picked up with the assistance of the county detective and Lieutenant of Police Harper.

Taylor finally confessed to the theft and took the officers to the Scotland Lane school house, where the battery was found hidden under the school house. The others deny any part in the theft.

Odd Fellows Leave Philadelphia For Homes, Sessions End

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—The last of the 50,000 delegates to the 102nd annual communication of the Sovereign Grand lodge of the independent order of odd fellows, were leaving this city today following the closing session of the convention late yesterday.

Many of the delegates left for Washington to attend a mammoth parade there today in honors of Past Grand Sire Herbert A. Thompson. The parade will be received by President Coolidge, members of his cabinet and Governor Albert Ritchie, of Maryland.

At the final session the delegates approved a recommendation providing for a fund to defray the costs of higher education for any child of an odd fellow or member of the Rebekah order who is desirous of obtaining a college education.

Action on the petition of the Rebekahs for separation from the odd fellows was deferred until next year.

Develops New Variety Of Peach And Apple

Lawrence county is noted as one of the better fruit growing districts of the state of Pennsylvania and its crops of well known and standard varieties of peaches and apples are widely known and have ready sale in many markets.

It would now appear that the county is about to become known for its new varieties of both peaches and apples, as a result of the activities of L. M. Graham of the Wilmington township fruit growing district.

Mr. Graham has both a seedling peach tree and a seedling apple tree, the fruit of which apparently surpass the older and better known varieties of such fruits and will no doubt become known to posterity as the Graham apple and Graham peach.

The Graham peach is produced on a four-year-old seedling tree developed by Mr. Graham. It had two bushels of the most luscious fruit imaginable on its limbs this year. They are exceptionally good both in the raw state and also for canning purposes. It is a free stone peach of immense size. It is red and yellow. Five of the peaches presented to The News weighed three pounds.

The Graham apple is equally delicious and prolific. It ripens in a beautiful reddish pink color, it cooks well and is exceptionally delightful to the taste in a raw state. The apples are of uniform size and are tart, but not too much so.

The tree is five years old and three years ago produced a crop which netted Mr. Graham $50.40.

Mr. Graham plans to either develop stock of the trees for sale to the general public or would sell them to a nurseryman, interested in getting a new apple and peach that would prove a big seller. Indications are that he will have plenty of offers for the trees when it becomes known that he desires to sell them, if possible.

"GONE WILL BE NATURE'S BEAUTY"

Gone will be nature's beauty,
It will be a thing of the past;
For autumn will do its duty—
And the leaves will be falling fast.
The fields that are green now,
Will soon be covered with snow;
With its weight the trees will bow,
And for the winter shall cease to grow.

The birds that sing so sweetly,
Are flying very far away!
When summer will be gone completely,
Outside, no more will we care to stay.
We will be seeking for places—
Where it is always warm,
And as the wind around corners races—
We'll try to evade the winter storm.

Ah, these beautiful sights,
Before long shall fade and vanish!
The blizzard will howl at nights;
And for the summer again we'll wish.
'Tisn't far when the days will be cold—
Sometimes the weather will drop below zero;
And before the fireplace tales will be told,
While ouside, people shall hurry to and fro.

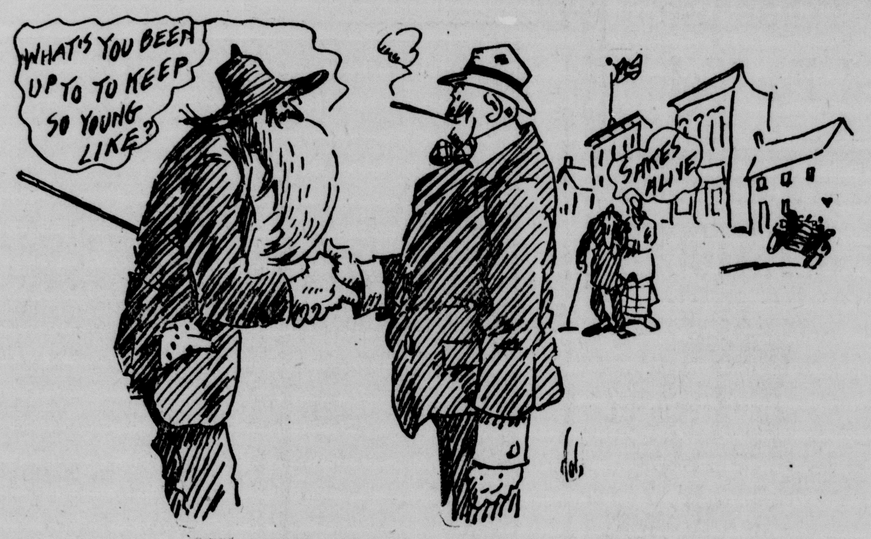
ABE MARTIN On Keeping Young



MARQ PURVIANCE MEETIN' OLE SCHOOLMATE.

Uncle Marq Purviance is in town t' attend th' Twin Lakes bathin' beauty contest. He's well beyond his eighty-ninth year, an' if it wuzn' fer egg on his chin he'd pass fer twenty-five. When asked how he accounted fer his youthful bearin' an' absence o' wrinkles, th' pink an' flawless octogenarian said, "I specialize on fergittin' ever' unpleasant thing that bobs up in my life. When you see a man or woman who's nearin' th' sunset o' life skippin' along in full possession o' ther curves an' faculties, an' enterin' int' all th' festivities o' life, you kin put it down that he or she has mastered th' art o' fergittin'—that they hain't poisoned an' shrunken by hatreds, resentments an' unhappy memories. Nobuddy escapes his full share o' all th' troubles an' miseries known t' th' wrinkle-producin' industry, but by shakin' 'em off, by fergittin' 'em, he kin easily retain all th' freshness an' radiance o' a boy with his first saxophone. Th' thin nose, th' mackerel eye, drawn mouth, corrugated forehead, knit brow, withered chin, paper mache cheeks, sallow ear, scrawny neck, faded, thin hair an' super Adams apple are all produced by bygones, bitter pills o' th' past that linger in th' soul an' are served fresh ever' day by an overworked memory—sorrows that are all out an over, heartaches that belong t' th' past, bitter disappointments o' years ago, treasured sorrows long out o' date, all cruel memories o' misty yisterdays that envelop an' becloud th' glorious present an' rob th' last lap o' life o' th' sweetness an' repose that's comin' t' it. Long memories produce th' warped an' raisin' faced croakers, who are allus knockin' life an' who think ther's a ketch t' ever'thing, even th' air we breath." Can it be that Uncle Marq Purviance has hit on th' real fountain o' youth in th' knack o' fergittin'? Is fergittin' th' key t' eternal youth? Ther hain't no corner or recess in th' mill o' life that Marq Parviance hain't explored, an' still he's rakish an' alert at eighty-nine. He wuz born right in th' middle o' a family o' nine children, he wuz shot at Gettysburg, he wuz jilted on his return from th' war, he later married an' intellectual woman, had his letters read in th' divorce court, wuz double-crossed in a pustoffice war, wuz run down by a Ford at eighty-four, an' he's even been a farmer, yit th' struggle o' life hain't made a dent in him. With a full, ruddy face, aglow with color an' enthusiasm, he kin ketch th' swish o' a pair o' silk hose as readily as a man o' fifty.

CLOCKS WILL BE CHANGED IN NATION

All Communities Return To Eastern Standard Time Sunday Morning

Daylight, savings time which has been observed in New Castle and in other cities of the United States during the past summer, ends at two o'clock Sunday morning.

All clocks will be turned back an hour tonight by New Castle residents, and starting Sunday, all events scheduled will be on Eastern Standard time.

Church Services

While it is hardly necessary to remind local citizens that church services will be on Eastern Standard time Sunday, this will be the case for all services. Likewise, City Superintendentent of Schools C. C. Green emphasizes the announcement that all school sessions will be on Eastern Standard time starting on Monday.

A New York press despatch today regarding the close of the daylight saving time era for the current year says:

Third of Nation Affected

Daylight savings time ends at two o'clock tomorrow morning, when clocks and watches should be set back an hour.

More than one-third of the population of the United States has used daylight saving time this year.

UNITED STATES MAY BUILD HUGE AIRSHIP

Appropriation Will Probably Be Asked Of Congress For Giant Ship

BY WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The United States navy will build the largest airship in the world if congress says the word, it was declared by navy experts today.

The proposed ship would travel six days without refueling and round the world in three "hops". The Los Angeles would become a "baby blimp" by comparison.

Navy experts already have made tentative plans for the new craft, it was disclosed. Congress has authorized the building of two airships but has yet to provide the money.

Belief that President Coolidge will consent to the enactment of appropriation bills was strengthened by announcement at the White House that he had discussed the project with B. W. Litchfield, pres-

Complete Probe Of Baird Death

Final Session In Auto Accident Is Held On Friday Evening

DRIVER IS FREED OF CHARGE MADE

Joint inquest into the death of Alex Baird of Leetsdale, Pa., and hearing before Alderman L. C. Mantz of George Stacel, also of Leetsdale, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Mr. Baird was brought to a close last night at the office of Alderman Mantz, after having been postponed since August 30, in order that the testimony of Dr. Loyal W. Wilson might be secured.

The jury in the case returned a verdict in which it found "that Alex Baird camo to his death August 25, 1926, as a result of an accident occurring to the car of George Stacel on the Wilmington road north of New Castle, Pa., and that the accident was unavoidable."

Free on Manslaughter Charge.

Following the verdict of the jury Stacel was discharged on the charge of manslaughter on which he had been held since the accident, by Alderman L. C. Mantz. The same testimony was used in both the finding of the coroner's jury and that of Alderman Mantz in the manslaughter case.

It is understood from counsel for Stacel that the plea of guilty entered immediately after the accident to the charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor will be changed to "not guilty" and that he will stand trial at the December term of court.

Inquest Concluded.

The adjourned session of the coroner's inquest and hearing on the manslaughter case was held last night for the sole purpose of securing the testimony of Dr. L. W. Wilson with regard to the cause of Mr. Baird's death, the balance of testimony having been taken at the time of the first session of the inquest and hearing.

Dr. Wilson on being examined last night stated that he had been called to the Shenango Valley hospital about 4 a. m. on August 25 to see Mr. Baird. He found Mr. Baird entirely paralyzed, being unable to move any part of the body.

Records Show Altoona Man Owns Pigeon At New Wilmington

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The carrier pigeon which flew into the New Wilmington, Pa., postoffice on the Thursday morning of the Dempsey-Tunney fight bearing a prophetic message that Tunney would win is listed in records here as belonging to F. G. Weber, Willow avenue, Altoona, Pa.

Henry F. Dismer, president of the National Pigeon Fanciers' Association, said the records showed Weber is or was the owner.

Army experts who employ a good many pigeons in training work said the identification number indicated to them it belonged to some individual identified with the racing of carrier pigeons. Edward Barnes, 314 Congress street, Jersey City, is secretary of such a racing association.

While widespread interest has been manifested since it was learned that a carrier pigeon, bearing the message "Tunney Will Win" had alighted at the postoffice in New Wilmington, on Thursday, there have been no developments, here.

Postmaster Clinton White, who has the pigeon in custody, said this morning, that there had been no inquiries for the pigeon, and that he was holding it for a short time to see if there would be any, then would allow the pigeon to go.

The bird was exhausted, as from a long fly, when it arrived at the postoffice.

Just why such a message was being sent via pigeon, and to whom it was going is not yet ascertained, the whole affair being somewhat mysterious.

Outside a band was playing and scores of automobiles lined up, ready to start on a procession through the streets of Greenwich Village, where Tunney played as a boy, and on to City Hall, where the conqueror of Dempsey was to be given the key of the city by Mayor Jimmy Walker.

Hundreds Work In Frantic Effort To Rescue Miners

(International News Service)
IRONWOOD, Mich., Sept. 25.—While scores of frantic wives, mothers and children moaned and shrieked for their loved ones at the entrance of G. shaft of the Oliver Mining Company here today, hundreds of rescue workers labored frantically to save the lives of 46 miners entombed under thousands of tons of debris in a cave-in there last night.

Forty-three of the men are believed still alive on the eighth level of the mine, but all-night efforts to reach them had failed this morning.

Three Are Dead

Three are believed dead. They were:

Thomas Rowell, underground electrician.

Evar Gustafson, assistant electrician.

Gust Sell, assistant electrician.

These three men were riding in a cage when the mountainous tons of earth and rock piled into the shaft. It is believed the crushed cage, carrying its three victims, crashed to the bottom of the shaft at the 26th level, a half mile underground.

Mining engineers believe the heavy rains of the past week which loosened the earth about the shaft, caused the disaster.

Hard Task of Rescue

It is feared a herculean task of digging must be done through the debris before the cage can be reached. Already coverings have

Barney Dreyfus Hopes Cards Win

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 25.—"I hope the Cards whale the tar out of the Yankees in the world series."

This was the only comment Barney Dreyfus, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, had to offer today on St. Louis' feat in clinching the National League pennant.

The Pirate owner, who returned from a trip to Europe to find his ball club torn by dissention within their ranks, and tottering on the verge of a plunge back into the ranks of also-rans in the pennant scramble, had no word of comment on what might have been had his team stayed in the lead they took early in the season and held until they lost Captain Max Carey, Babe Adams and Carson Bigbee, mainstays of last year's race.

We must have rain along with the sun to urge on the spuds and the hay, but I'd like to suggest that the rain ought to come on other than Saturday. For Saturday means that the people are out to buy their new clothes for the fall, and also my friend they're out for to see the weekly melee of football. Now a genuine fan doesn't care for the rain, or the snow when a game's going on, but the ladies are loath to step out and get wet, when their new autumn toggery they don. And it cuts the receipts to a woeful degree, and slows up the crowd at the gate, so the rain should be booked for mid-week afternoons, not like today, seventy-eight.

FIND BOOZE IN UNIQUE PLACE

Police Uncover Cache Of Booze Under Weather Boarding Of Vacant House

An X-Ray machine is badly needed, according to the statement made this morning by Mayor William H. Dunlap, for the use of the police department.

No, it's not needed, to determine what is the matter with the prisoners brought in, because usually the reason for the arrest is visible to the human eye.

But it is becoming so, that in order to locate illicit liquor, that a machine of this character might prove of great benefit. Those persons having such liquor, because of the strenuous manner in which the police have been following up their business, have evolved many and unique methods of hiding the liquor.

One of the outstanding instances of this kind occurred last night.

As Officer Thomas was making his rounds on Moravia street, he noticed a man between the houses at 905 and 907 Moravia street. When the officer went to investigate, because of the fact that the houses were vacant, the man ran away but the officer saw enough of him, to make it possible to arrest Ralph DeCapio a short time later, Officers Thomas and Golis making the arrest.

Officer Thomas found a hammer on the ground and reported his find to Officers Moore and M. J. Young, who happened to be in the vicinity.

Believing that there was something in the vicinity that needed investigation, Officer Thomas began looking around and finally discovered the cause of the quick getaway of the man.

The weather boarding of one of the houses was loose and the hammer had been used in working on it. On looking behind the loosened weather boarding the officer found a quantity of illicit liquor, which had been hidden there, evidently by the man who ran away.

DeCapio is being held by the police pending a further investigation which is expected to indicate the probability of his having hidden it there.

Hundreds Stranded In Philadelphia Due To Championship Bout

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25. — Police and charitable organizations are face to face today with the problem of helping hundreds of persons who were stranded here as a result of the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

Most of the stranded fans were left penniless because they plunged their money the wrong way, and did not hold return trip tickets.

Telephone companies have been besieged with requests for long distance calls, "please reverse the charges," and telegraph companies are handling hundreds of messages appealing for funds on which to return home.

UNITED STATES MAY BUILD HUGE AIRSHIP

Cruising Radius Of 8000 Miles

"The proposed airship of 6,000,000 cubic feet capacity would have a flying radius of 8,000 miles and a cruising speed of about 58 miles an hour", said Charles B. Burgess, navy civilian expert.

"The ship would have three times the capacity of the Los Angeles, which is now the largest of its type. It would not, however, have three times the bulk. If one ship were built it is estimated it would cost $5,000,000; if two were built the cost probably would be $4,000,000 each. It would cost $500,000 to inflate this type of ship with helium.

"Our idea is an airship of the Zeppelin type. However, before we finally decided upon plans we would canvass the ideas of all experts. Experiments now are being conducted with the Los Angeles which may materially affect our plans".

Navy experts are proceeding on the belief that the proposed huge airship can be built in the United States. The present hangars and mooring masts would suffice for the larger ship, it is said.

Unless the United States begins work soon the largest airships in the world will be British-owned, Burgess said. Great Britain is of 5,000,000 cubic feet capacity, to be completed in 1928. They will be 780 feet long and 130 feet in diameter as compared to the Los Angeles length of 660 feet and diameter of 91 feet.

One of the newest developments in airship building, which is being closely followed by American experts, is the substitution of gas for gasoline as fuel. Experiments now are being carried out in Germany.

ADMIT TWO TO BAIL AFTER HABEAS CORPUS HEARING ON FRIDAY

death of Joseph Richeal, and all three of the cases will be heard by the December grand jury.

Only Three Witnesses

Only common wealth witnesses are heard in a habeas corpus proceeding, and but three such were called, the three being Dr. W. L. Cleland, David Richeal and William Richeal, the latter two sons of the deceased.

Dr. Cleland testified to having been called to the home of Joseph Richeal, near East Brook, on the night of September 14. He found Mr. Richeal dead and found contusions at the back of the head and over the right eye. A post mortem the next day revealed the fact that he had died from hemorrhage caused by concussion. He gave as his opinion that death resulted from this hemorrhage, and that the blow was delivered by some blunt instrument.

David Richeal was called and testified that his father had completed the milking on the evening of September 14, when he first saw a car in the lane leading to the house.

Mr. Richeal had sent William Richeal to the house for a pencil and paper to get the number of the car, and approaching the car, asked if the occupants did not know that this was a private lane. The reply was that they thought it was the lane to Lakewood. Two men and a woman were in the car, one of the men being out on the ground when the Richeals approached. He got in as they came up to the car.

Knocks William Down

David then said that the man at the wheel (Johnson) got out of the car and knocked William down and then struck his father. Mr. Richeal staggered up the lane and fell, David testified, dying a few minutes later.

Upon cross-examination he admitted that his father had used abusive language to the occupants of the car, and admitted that a window in the car was broken. He thought that his father had broken it with a flashlight, and again testified to having seen a stone thrown at the car. He would not admit that any of the three Richeals had thrown a stone.

William Richeal corroborated the testimony of his brother and added that he had seen a weapon of some kind in the hands of Johnson when he (William) was struck. He could not remember seeing the weapon when Johnson struck the senior Richeal.

Attorney John S. Powers, associated with ex-Judge S. Plummer Emery and Attorneys Clyde Gibson and Orville Brown, for the accused, then moved that the court discharge from custody the Clements woman and Gilbert Blackford and admit Johnson to light bail. He argued that the commonwealth testimony had failed to show one point whereby the first two could be connected with any charge, let alone murder.

Attorney James A. Chambers, who is associated with District Attorney J. Elder Bryan, answered that there had been enough testimony to hold Johnson without bail to answer to the charge of murder, and that the disposition of the other two was entirely within the discretion of the court.

Some argument ensued, in which the three attorneys for the accused took part, and at the end Judge Hildebrand announced his decision. Bail was secured for Mrs. Clements and Gilbert Blackford and they were allowed to go.

The leaves are falling from the trees. This is the season of the sneeze.

He was breathing heavy and was unconscious. He had seen him twice and no autopsy had been held following his death.

In the opinion of Dr. Wilson, there had been either a fracture at the base of the skull or a fracture of the spinal column at the neck and near the skull or possibly both. Either or both could and did cause the death of Mr. Baird. The fact that Mr. Baird sustained his fatal injuries in an automobile accident were known to Dr. Wilson only through what others had told him.

Reviews Testimony.

With the taking of the testimony of Dr. Wilson, Attorney S. P. Emery and Attorney Walter S. Reynolds, counsel for Stacel, reviewed the previous testimony and the facts produced and asked the discharge of Stacel on the manslaughter charge and also that the coroner's jury find that the accident in which Mr. Baird was fatally injured was unavoidable.

Attorney Emery called attention to the fact that at no time during the testimony was it shown that Stacel, who was driving the car, had acted in a negligent or careless manner and that while he had admitted taking a small amount of home brew three or four hours previous to the accident, that he had not been intoxicated or under the influence of the beer. He called attention to the fact that the evidence did not indicate at any time that he had been affected by the beer in the operation of the car, also that it had been in his excitement and horror following the accident that he had entered a plea of being under the influence of liquor. He showed how that he had taken the car through all the traffic between this city and Leetsdale in a careful manner, that he had used all due precautions such as dimming his lights, etc., and that he was driving the car at the request of the victim of the accident. He then gave a parallel incidence of how easy it was to get off the cement slab on the Wilmington road as had occurred in the Stacel incident.

Attorney Reynolds drew attention to the fact that Stacel had the car under control at all times, that he was not driving it beyond the rate of speed at which travel is permitted on highways and that he had helped get Mr. Baird to the hospital. He stated that Mr. Baird in asking that Stacel drive the car instead of George Rittelman, who was driving at the start of the trip at Leetsdale, had assumed a joint responsibility with Stacel.

District Attorney J. E. Bryan merely stated to the jury and Alderman Mantz that the evidence was before them and that their decision would be satisfactory. Coroner J. P. Caldwell presided at the inquest.

The members of the jury were R. G. Cage, G. N. Clark, A. Reid English, E. B. Halcey, Charles Haus and H. K. Bell.

(International News Service)
BOSTON, Sept. 25.—Prohibition was passed over at the Republican State convention here today when the proposed platform for the year was offered. The sole hint at the issue was a declaration for the enforcement of all laws added points were "no distinction of race, sex, color or religion as a qualification for office holding" and an "open door to all" policy.

The platform also opposes lavish expenditures for elections and demands national anti-lynching legislation.

Bessemer Victor Over Poland, 31-0

Ohioans Completely Outclassed By Coach "Jeff" Byler's Grid Proteges

(Special To The News)
BESSEMER, Pa., Sept. 25.—Bessemer High School's football team ushered in its 1926 gridiron campaign here yesterday with a slashing 31 to 0 victory over Poland, O. High School, and if the play of Coach "Jeff" Byler's proteges can be taken as a criterion of the season's success, prospects are unusually bright at the local institution.

The Ohioans were completely outclassed by the "Lime-Stoners." Bessemer concentrated on a line plunging attack and with Grist, Glassic, Young, and Serjak carrying the ball for substantial gains on every attempt, the visitors were forced to accept defeat. Poland fought desperately for honors, battling gamely throughout the game, but Bessemer proved its superiority in the early stages of the game and rode unmolested to victory.

Strong Defense

Bessemer scored two touchdowns in the third quarter and annexed tallies in each of the remaining periods of play. Grist was credited with two six point markers, while Glassic, Young and Serjak each crossed the Poland line once during the game.

Poland made but one first down, which speaks well for the defensive play of Byler's gridiron warriors. Coach "Jeff" Byler, a Westminster product, used fourteen substitutes in the game. Byler has developed a smooth running combination and more will be heard from him in Class B high school circles this fall.

Hope For Victory

Cathedral For City Benefit

Meeting Last Night To Consider Activities Program For Winter.

ALL TO CO-OPERATE TO MAKE SUCCESS

But little time remains until the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite Cathedral, New Castle's Wonder Building, will be ready for service and with the opening of it might well go this line, "dedicated to the Civic Betterment of New Castle" for it is for that purpose.

Built by a fraternity it will be used by all creeds, for to restrict or circumscribe the activities of such a building would be the acme of selfishness.

To Plan Activities Program

Nor is it the idea of the men back of the Cathedral to restrict or circumscribe its usefulness in any manner. Whatever project has for its purpose the bettering of New Castle, or the advancement of the happiness or the welfare of the citizens of this city, will find those responsible for the Cathedral willing and anxious to lend a hand.

Alive to the wide scope of the possibilities of the cathedral, a large group of men and women met there Friday night with the common purpose of planning an activities program. In this they must have the assistance and cooperation of every citizen of New Castle. No one man, no group of men, no fraternity or organization is big enough to control the usefulness of this cathedral, and fully aware of the work which will be involved and the benefits which are possible, the officers of the cathedral are asking for the citizenry of this city to join hands with them in making it a civic center.

Friday evening, October 1, another meeting will be held in the cathedral and to this meeting are invited all those persons who are interested in the advancement of the civic ideals of this city. The meeting will open at 7:30 o'clock and some plan will be outlined. Members of the fraternity and nonmembers are urged to attend.

POLICE CHIEF SEES BATTLE

Dysart Home From Championship Fight In Philadelphia

Chief of Police Henry Dysart returned today from Philadelphia, where he on Thursday night witnessed the world championship fight between Tunney and Dempsey.

"It was a good fight" said the chief on being questioned "and Dempsey didn't look near so good as he did formerly. Tunney was not so impressive as a fighter, although he is a good boxer and hit Dempsey at will and rocked him a couple of times, but did not seem able to put across the knockout punch. The Dempsey of old is gone. Tunney will probably remain as champion for a year or two and until such a time as he meets some good man."

been placed over the shaft at various available levels to protect rescue workers.

Failing to reach the 43 entombed men on the eighth level from a lower level, the rescue crews are now laboring to get to them from both the top and bottom.

"Between 35 and 40 men are trapped on the eighth level and there may be more on lower levels", said a statement from the publicity department of the Oliver Company. The definite statement of 46 victims was made by the Ironwood police department.

"The cage has been located at the bottom of the mine below the 26th level, and there is no hope that the three men in it are now alive", continued the statement. "Rescue workers, however are trying to reach the cage.

"Work to get to the men on the eighth level from lower levels has proven futile because the cave-in has blocked all entrances, and efforts are now being made to reach them from the top."

Scores of city and state police and all other available authorities have thrown a line around the shaft entrance to restrain the frantic relatives of the entombed men.

When news of the disaster spread last night, hundreds rushed to the mine, but order was soon restored and many returned to their homes with the report that the men on the eighth level were safe and could be brought to safety through a shaft.

Early today, however, when the report spread through the town that these men were trapped and had to be reached from the top, the hysterical hordes returned and authorities had difficulty in restraining them.

Hagen Has Chance To Cop Title In Pro Golf Tourney

By ROBERT E. HARLOW
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SALISBURY COUNTRY CLUB, GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Set. 25. — Walter Hagen, Pasadena, Fla., had a chance today to establish himself as the greatest match play golfer in the history of the game, when he faced Leo Diegel, New York, in the final round of the Professional Golfers' championship over the Salisbury course.

Hagen was runner-up in the event in 1923, being beaten by Gene Sarazen on the thirty-eighth green and in 1924 and 1925 he won the championship at French Lick Springs and Chicago. If he wins today he will make his record three straight. No golfer has ever succeeded in winning a national match play championship for three consecutive years.

Last year Hagen met Diegel in this championship and at one time was five down to him. He was three down with three to play, two down with two holes to play, but he eventually won the match on the fortieth green.

The match is a 36 hole affair.

CHICKEN THEFTS ARE CONFESSED

Ellwood Residents Admit Thefts According To County Detective

County Detective George S. Kennedy has a rather unusual collection of self confessed chicken thieves in the county jail, due to some sleuthing on his part with the assistance of state police officers.

For some time some of the residents of Ellwood City have been missing chickens. Not just a chicken or two, but wholesale lots of them.

Some investigation resulted and the outcome of this was the arrest of William J. Kennedy, Dallash H. Weimer, James A. Weimer and Norman J. Weimer. James Weimer is the father of the other two Weimer's, while Kennedy is a son-in-law.

At the State Police Barracks in Butler, the entire group confessed unqualifiedly to their stealing and in addition a confession was obtained from Myrtle Fay Kennedy. They are residents of Ellwood City but at present the men folks are in the county jail.

The confessions which are in the hands of District Attorney J. Elder Bryan are lengthy ones.

MODERN YOUTH

MANY are basing appraisals of youth on ephemeral fashions and habits. Every age has its own. Censors find confirmation in authors whose output deals with "flaming youth," any one of whose typewriters, given a few of the obvious features of present-day life—country clubs, freedom of dress, short hair and motor cars— could almost do the job itself. But the picture would not be a true one.

For every boy or girl whose exuberances attract attention there are a dozen or more soberly going their ways with real purposes in life, with ambition, with determination. They seldom figure, however, in popular fiction, nor are they often texts for sermons, for the obvious reason that their lives lack picturesqueness and romance.

Nine millions of women and girls are gainfully employed in this country; the great majority probably from necessity, but their ranks contain hundreds of thousands who are working simply because they wish to "do something," to be independent and to achieve something worth while. Fiction and wags to the contrary, most college and university students are earnest and sincere. Schools are full to overflowing and ever increasing in numbers. The great industries are recruiting keen, ambitious young men "willing to begin at the bottom," but not content to remain there.

Is it fair to condemn the whole for the errors of the few? And are the critics of modern youth qualified to judge this age? If they would judge the youth of today by their fallible recollections of the standards of yesterday they are not capable of judging fairly.

REAL CONSERVATION

A BILLION dollars is expended annually by American corporations for the conservation of life and property through preventive measures, according to an estimate by Arthur C. Carruthers, editor of Safety Engineering.

The main channels through which this expenditure is made, he says, are for fire and accident prevention, health conservation and fraud prevention, under which last-named head are included means and measures for the prevention of swindle, schemes, robbery, burglary, embezzlement, forgery and crimes of violence which have as their object the unlawful acquisition of property.

The United States Steel corporation alone has expended a total of $158,000,000 in fourteen years on conservation and prevention work, according to a recent report of the corporation's bureau of safety, sanitation and welfare. During that time 46,000 men were saved from death or serious injury, accidents have been averted which would have disabled 322,000 other workmen, and a large saving of money has been effected.

The present age is marked by a systematized and scientific program directed toward the saving of life, health and property through well-considered means of prevention. Big business has been responsible for a great impetus to this science of prevention.

YOUR CONTRIBUTION

IT IS a week now since terror and death came to Florida.

A week is a long time to suffer. Homeless, half-sheltered from rain and wind, hungry, thirsty, maimed or bruised, and in peril of disease, a week can stretch itself into eternity.

A week, too, is a long time to remember. Safe and well and absorbed in ordinary life, few men and women feel the impulse of horror and grief and generosity as strongly on the seventh day as on the day that first brought news of disaster.

You are beginning to forget Florida's tragedy. Yet she needs your help more each day. Each day she shows herself more deserving of help.

Before you forget, give. The Red Cross has one million to spend in its work of relief. It needs five.

Send in your contribution—now.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 5:53. Sun rises tomorrow 5:52.

A prize fighter will get a lambasting some time sure. All he has to do is to wait. Nature and his habits often hasten it along.

Mr. Vare did not declare blatantly that he would attend the prize fight in Philadelphia. In fact, it is doubtful if he attended it at all.

It isn't the people who are bigger than they think they are who go on a diet.

We wonder how much daylight most people saved during the past summer.

The big chief of the prohibition forces, Mr. Andrews, says all of his officers must refrain from drinking liquor, except in cases where it is to secure evidence. What a rush there always is for evidence.

We're a democratic people, and most of the big jobs are held by men who once licked cake batter from a mixing spoon.

It's always a good idea to prepare for the old-fashioned, scandalous, cold winters in spite of what weather prophets may say to the contrary. Cold weather is fine. We remember when coming from the Tropics we felt so good at seeing the snow we felt like rolling in it after suffering with the terrible heat. Get in plenty of coal as it will keep if you don't need it! You will find coal ads in this paper and patronize only those as they are the live ones who give real values.

We have known people who patronize those with whom they do business and who do not pay promptly, in preference to those who pay up promptly. The man who pays you promptly, what he owes you, deserves your trade. The bird who waits until you deal out what he owes you should never be patronized. Where would you be if it were not for the few who pay promptly?

We heard a crusty woman hater say the trouble with most girls is that they make themselves nice persons to keep away from.

There was more excitement in Philadelphia on Thursday night than there was when the Declaration of Independence was signed. Whither are we drifting and where are we going? The people want what they want.

Every woman should have respect for her husband, but how can she?

Temptation is being thrown into the path of many innocent persons. A few days ago a man who was in a home where the lady was canning peaches, suggested to her that she make some peach brandy. This lady is a fine person and would never have thought of such a thing, but unconsciously, and at first thought, she asked how to make it. She was strong, however, and resisted the tempter and just kept on canning all the peaches.

A Fiji chief has sailed back to his islands and took with him a carload of saxophones for the heathen to make jazz on. The heathen know a good thing when they see it just like alleged civilized whites do. The Fiji chief is figuring on having more fun than ever when he gets home. He can make a jazz band out of part of his wives. Just think of having wives enough to make a band and also enough left to do all the other chores around the house. A man wouldn't have to do anything—at least not very much.

A Youngstown grocer had his place of business blown up with a bomb because he peeved some people—probably competitors—by cutting prices on groceries. In Youngstown they are looking for all the money they can get right at home and also in the outskirts and neighboring cities and they do most anything to get it.

We heard of a bird not long ago who nearly broke up a Salvation Army meeting when he mistook a five dollar gold piece and tossed it on the American flag.

The automobile is a fine thing, but when it comes to going to sleep on the outskirts of New Castle, in the evening, and being in New York or Chicago by sunrise the next morning, a railroad is still the only way and the most popular way. No doubt there will be comfortable sleeping cars on the highways some day, but no doubt there will be complaints about them parking along the road.

TIME AND TIME AGAIN.

We now forthwith repeal time,
Once more enjoy our meal time,
And ne'er again will steal time
Confusing day and night.
We tried to change and rule time,
Upsetting work and school time,
But 'gainst this awful fool time
Henceforth we'll surely fight.

We sought to lengthen day time,
And have more hours for play time,
That some might have a gay time
At other folks expense.
And so we've had a sad time,
Yea, verily, a bad time,
And now I think we've had time
To gain some common sense.

We'll henceforth use the right time
Dividing day and night time,
And never try to slight time
By juggling with the clocks.
If in the future some time,
Some one insists on bum time,
He'll find that it has come time
For him to get some knocks!!?

Again we are remembered from the Sunny South. Yesterday we received a nice box of persimmons from our friend, Chas. Anderson, of Axis, Alabama. We sure do appreciate the fine persimmons.

7 Greatest Battles.
Nobody Knows Coolidge.
Fight the Devil Fund.
When a Man Is Drunk.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1926, by N. Y. American, Inc.

Many important battles have been fought since Alexander sent Darius fleeing to his death.

The taking of Constantinople gave the Turks a foothold on European soil. They still hold it.

The defeat of the Mohammedans by Charles the Hammer, 1200 years ago, kept Allah and his prophet from taking the place of our trinity in western Europe.

The battle of Waterloo settled one emperor after he had made all other kings look ridiculous.

Battles preceding the recent armistice settled another emperor and sent him to Holland.

It would be interesting to know which are really "the seven decisive battles of the world". This is certain: last night's battle in Philadelphia seemed to millions of Americans more important and interesting than any seven battles you could pick out of history.

Bruce Barton, student of character, adds one to his "men that nobody knows". He spent an hour talking with President Coolidge, who said this: "As I now recall it, I had always rather hoped that I might keep store when I grew up".

Little Calvin, on the Vermont farm, didn't yearn to be a policeman, railroad engineer, pirate or President. Nobody even predicted that he would be President. He wanted to "keep store".

And "attractions being proportionate to destinies", as Fourier says, President Coolidge is actually keeping the biggest store in the world. He is general manager for Uncle Sam, champion wholesaler and retailer, in every line except flying machines.

The turnover of the gigantic U. S. S. A., Ltd., is billions uncounted, net income, distributed among 115,000,000 partners, at least one hundred billion dollars a year. The annual cost of the main government office, managed by President Coolidge, is four thousand million dollars. Recently it was less than five hundred millions, as the President points out.

When Whitney was secretary of the navy, army and navy combined cost only $50,000,000 a year. We spend that on one battleship, then we junk it at England's request.

President Coolidge keeps a store big enough to occupy any man's mind.

If the President managed Marshall Field's for James Simpson, he would be asked to confine himself to Marshall Field's, not worry about Selfridge's in London, and especially not to submit Marshall Field's affairs to decisions of any competing firm.

The President has kept store for Uncle Sam admirably thus far. He should continue to keep an AMERICAN store, and especially not submit the affairs of Uncle Sam to the decisions of competing firms in Europe through any world court or League of Nations.

The Reverend Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, who told how she was kidnaped in her bathing suit when strangers asked her to get into an automobile and pray for a little sick girl, is now making a romantic fight against the public prosecutor, who wants to put her in jail for not telling the truth to justice.

She requests her followers to fast and pray for 48 hours, preparing themselves to contribute liberally to her $100,000 "fight the devil" fund. It will be spent proving that she really was kidnaped and did not spend the period of her absence, as the prosecuting attorney alleges, with the radio operator of her temple in quiet retirement.

While she was away, supposed to be drowned, managers of the great Aimee Semple McPherson temple started a "memorial" fund for their pastor and collected $40,000 (forty thousand). That presumably will swell the "fight the devil" fund.

Thousands that sob, pray and sing hymns under Aimee Semple McPherson's direction as she puts out the lights in the temple and turns a spotlight on the American flag, with an electric fan behind it, have the satisfaction of knowing that whatever money can do for her defense will be done.

You can imagine how humiliated the devil must be when he peeks through the windows of the Aimee Semple McPherson temple and sees thousands contributing to her "fight the devil" fund.

He sought to overthrow sweetness and light, and lo! The result is that Aimee Semple McPherson collects more money than ever. Poor Satan! You can understand how Milton occasionally felt sorry for him.

A tramp arrested for killing a three-year-old child, answered the police questioning:

"When a man is drunk, how can you expect him to know what he is doing?"

Makers and sellers of bootleg whiskey know what THEY are doing. Know that they are supplying driving power for murders and hold-ups.

Elisha Lee, who has been appointed to fill the newly created position of vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, is a native of Chicago. He went to Boston for his special education, and was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1892. After the fashion of so many men who have risen to high place on the Pennsylvania system, young Lee entered its employ as a rodman and, step by step, rose until, in 1909, he was selected to be superintendent of one of the subsidiary lines. Tested for two years in this position, he was brought back to the main system and made assistant to the general manager. In 1917 he was made general manager of the eastern lines and more recently he has been vice president in charge of operations of the entire system.

PAYING BY CHECK

Recent press items disclose that more and more large firms are adopting the method of paying by check.

This method seems to be admirably suited to paymasters and others in charge of large payrolls. It would obviate the danger of the robbery of bank messengers.

The check is comparatively safe as payment upon it can easily be stopped if it is stolen.

Nothing in regard to money is absolutely safe. The wings money is supposed to sprout are only too real, and every protection should be taken to lessen the temptation to steal it.

Housekeepers who have a checkbook instead of carrying in the house large sums of currency take a much safer way.

Factories and other business firms will find payments by check add greatly to their safety.

A great part of the currency, that is of the medium of exchange, in the United States is composed of bank checks. People have confidence in their banks and the failure of banking concerns has become rarer and rarer.

If we have a financial system which involves the lodging of large sums of cash in well protected institutions and issue checks against this, why not take advantage of it and make the payroll in the form of checks instead of cash?

Money should be kept in safe places and the only thing that is to be carted about in the streets are the pieces of paper which represent this money. It is harder to steal these pieces of paper than to steal the currency itself.

Use your bank. Get the banking habit. It behooves every one of us to save, and the main part of saving is the security of one's funds.

See that your extra money is put in a bank and not hidden about the house in a bureau drawer or an old sock which may tempt burglars.

It is the bank's business to take care of money. All their regulations are to make their reserves of money safe, and an institution can take better care of your money than you can yourself.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

WHAT ANDREW MELLON THINKS.

The Duquesne Light Company of Pittsburgh is largely owned by the Mellon family. Andrew Mellon has a reputation of saying very little and when the world wants to know his particular opinion about anything like Government Owenship, it seems that it has a hard time getting Mr. Mellon to talk. It is interesting to know therefore, what the Duquesne Company has to say to its stockholders. When that Company sent out its last quarterly dividend checks, it did have something to say about Government Ownership The following letter was mailed with each dividend check:

"From time to time it is suggested that the government should enter the electric light and power business and furnish 'service at cost."

"As a stockholder you will be interested in knowing that your company is already furnishing service at cost."

"Throughout the country there are state and municipal regulating authorities to which every electric light and power company must submit its books. The authorities determine the cost of providing electrical service (including $150,000,000 taxes which the electrical industry pays, and interest on its bonds, which are owned largely by savings banks and insurance companies, and only a fair return on its investment, which represents the savings of millions of people.) That cost determined by the regulators, is the rate that the company may charge."

"There are two ways in which government can engage in business: It can take over the business and operate it. On December 28, 1917, the government took over the railroads, and operated them until March 1920. The loss to taxpayers was $1,600,000,000."

"History furnishes no evidence, in any country, that government can economically run a business. But the government can regulate a business, fixing the rates at the cost of the service, and allowing private initiative full play in discovering new and better methods which result in still lower costs."

A chart accompanies the letter, showing how the electric light and power industry, under public regulation, has held down rates in comparison with 65 per cent average increase in all other costs of living. Rates, in fact, are far lower than they were in 1914.

Just Folks

THE GENTLE LIVES

Count your riches as you may,
Seek your fame where'er you will,
Peace must mark the close of day
Or you'll be unhappy still.
Friends must trust in all you do
Or no joy can come to you.

Gold is good to have and own,
Fame is worth the winning too,
But if these you gain alone
Little will they do for you.
Friends must be and love must stay
Or your life is thrown away.

Poverty is grim and stern,
Wealth is sometimes cruel, too,
Here's a lesson all must learn,
And before the end we do:
Rich or poor for joy depends
On his loved ones and his friends.

View it howsoe'er you will
Life is more than wealth or fame,
More than cunning, more than skill,
Peace requires an honored name,
Though the heights you stand upon
Love and faith must follow on.

Gentle deeds must mark the strong,
Thought for others grace the wise,
Skill cannot conceal a wrong.
Oft with triumph friendship dies.
Happiest they, whate'er their place,
Who have touched their lives with grace.

POEMS HOVE

BY CHARLES HANSON TOWNE

"Love's Philosophy" by P. B. Shelley.

If this poem has not been set to music—and it may be ignorance on my part not to know—it certainly should be. A composer could hardly resist it. Shelley has often been called "the poet's poet" but I think his appeal is more universal than the critics imagine. Surely lines like these reach everyone.

The fountains mingle with the river
And the rivers with the ocean,
The winds of heaven mix forever
With a sweet emotion;
Nothing in the world is single,
All things by a law divine
In one another's being mingle—
Why not I with thine?

See the mountain kiss high heaven
And the waves clasp one another;
No sister flower would be forgiven
If it disdained its brother;
And the sunlight clasps the earth,
And the moonbeams kiss the sea—
What are all these kissings worth
If thou kiss not me?

Hartland Tells More Of Florida Hurricane

Additional news of conditions in Miami, Coral Gables and other communities in Florida which were almost completely wrecked which swept through that district last week-end, was received today by the News from Joseph H. Hartland, former resident of this city, who at present is located in Florida.

Hartland sends a very interesting account of conditions there. From the letter received work on the cleaning up of debris and rebuilding is now under way and every possible effort is being made to wipe out the scenes of the great disaster which cost the lives of hundreds of people and caused property damage estimated in the hundreds of millions.

Hartland reports the visit of New Castle people there who have been in great anxiety to know if all local residents were uninjured following the big hurricane. Automobiles strewn along the road, great piles of sand blown in hotels, search for bodies and many other incidents are related in the letter.

Stores have opened for business in Miami, according to Hartland, and everything is going as smooth as possible. People are on limited rations for meals, being allowed two dollars worth of groceries, 5 gallons of fresh water, 12½ pounds of ice, 1 quart of milk and one loaf of bread each day. These, too, must be secured with permits.

The letter is a most interesting one and follows:

Miami Beach, Fla.,
Tues., Sept. 22, 1926.

Mr. Fred L. Rentz, New Castle News, New Castle, Pa.

Dear Sir:—

Well, I got over to Miami and Coral Gables today. I tried yesterday but no one was allowed to leave unless on urgent business. There is only one causeway open and one must drive very slowly. It is the Venetian causeway from North Beach. There are dozens of automobiles strewn all along it, some hanging half in the water. It is at this place where so many people lost their lives as they were caught trying to get to Miami after the first storm. Bodies are still being found here today.

Many boats are ruined and aground. Miami and Coral Gables have done a lot of cleaning up. All through streets are clean and most of the big stores are open for business. They were not hit as hard as at the beach.

I went out to Art Middleton's on 25th and 79th street, N. W., to see how they were. They were all safe and well. The roof had blown off their new home and their furniture was damaged.

At Coral Gables the citizens got out early Sunday morning and worked all day cleaning the streets and replanting trees. You would hardly know they had gone through a hurricane.

At Hialeah almost everything is down. They suffered from high water. Big insurance companies estimate the loss at 100 millions of dollars in the greater Miami district.

Up at North Beach from the new Rooney Plaza hotel to the Pan Coast hotel there is a new shore line. The drive is completely gone and at high tide the Plaza is about 30 feet from the water.

The Roman Pools will have to be rebuilt. There is six feet of sand in the Rooney Plaza hotel. The city of Miami Beach is still pumping water from the wells through the water lines for sanitary conditions. They are disconnected from the main land, having no fresh water. We are allowed five gallons of water, 12½ pounds of ice, one loaf of bread, one quart of milk and two dollars for groceries. This must be secured with permits.

No sight-seers have been permitted to come to the beach. The death list has reached the 100 mark for the greater Miami district. Before the storm had stopped, movie men were taking pictures and have been every day since.

The Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies are swamped with telegrams, and we get mail deliveries at all hours of the day.

The paper here stated that the wind blew from the east at 125 miles per hour, and from the west at 155 miles per hour. This was at the beach.

We have had so many of our friends come over from Miami and the Gables to see if we were still alive. Today Anna and Jack McNarmara came loaded down with enough stuff to last us a month. They had that weird feeling that they might have found us at the morgue, and, oh, what a relief it was for them to see us well and happy.

The report is still circulated in Miami that 1500 are dead at the beach and that is why they won't let the people come over here. I expect to leave the beach tomorrow and go back to Coral Gables to live as that is where my work is. So if any of the folk up home want me to do them any favors, they can reach me at Meyer Y. Cooper, Coral Gables, Fla.

From your friend,
Joseph Hartland.

Former Newsboy Makes Fortune On Championship Bout

Places $60,000 At Odds Of 8 To 1 On Tunney And Mops-up

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25. — They are telling another Horatio Alger story in Pittsburgh today. It's the story of the newsboy who in a few short years has passed the first lap in his marathon for a million.

Young Eppy is the hero of the story and it is not on record that he attends Sunday school every Sunday. However he has the uncanny ability of picking winners and it was announced here today by his friends that he placed $60,000 on Gene Tunney at odds of three to one. That means $180,000 clear and a bank roll of at least $240,000.

His career in Pittsburgh includes newspaper selling, a few short months and a few short rounds in the ring and then the plunge into sport finance—with success.

He was to return to Pittsburgh today from Philadelphia.

Tributary streams are on a rampage and many lowlands are flooded. Heavy damage has been done at Titusville and about Canadota lake where many cottages are surrounded by water.

The rainfall in the last 36 hours totalled 2.64 inches, a record for the year.

A 12-foot river which will flood Franklin lowlands by night was expected.

Tunney Slips Out Of Philadelphia

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—Gene Tunney, the new heavyweight champion of the world, slipped rather quietly and unostentatiously out of town today on the 10 o'clock train for New York and home. The titleholder occupied a special car with a party of friends and newspapermen and got quietly aboard without eliciting a cheer from the crowd that witnessed his departure.

"Oh, you Gene Tunney," one woman shouted and the new champion rewarded her with a courteous smile, but otherwise there was no demonstration.

Every doy, somewhere, romance is being spoiled by matrimony.

Plan To Honor George Chaffey

By MILLER HOLLAND
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—Justice and honor will at last be done to the man who introduced scientific irrigation in Australia 40 years ago, and then went bankrupt.

George Chaffey, now living in retirement in Whittier, Cal., one of California's greatest developers and among the foremost irrigation engineers in the world, is the man who took irrigation to Australia and lost a fortune there.

When the steamship Tahiti arrived in San Francisco from Australia recently it brought a man who has traveled almost 10,000 miles to do justice to Chaffey.

This man is Joseph A. Alexander, journalist. He will gather here and in southern California the material for an extended biography of Chaffey, which is to be published in Australia to bring to the people of that contitnent a knowledge of the man who added to its industries one that in 1925 was worth more than $35,000,000.

Chaffey was one of the master minds of California irrigation in the early eighties. Riverside, Ontario, Etiwanda and the Imperial valley districts are among the projects with which his name and that of his brother, W. B. Chaffey, who died in Australia a number of years ago, are associated.

In 1886, in response to an invitation extended by Alfred Deakin, then Victorian minister of water supply and since thrice prime minister of the commonwealth, George Chaffey introduced into Australia the American system of irrigation colonies which has so revolutionized the productive capacity of California, Colorado, Utah, New Mexico, Arizona and other states.

Deakin was sent to California to make a study of the irrigation project there and took Chaffey back with him.

George Chaffey and his brother obtained from the Victorian government land concessions aggregating 500,000 acres, together with the right to divert water from the Murray river, Australia's Mississippi.

They founded the towns and colonies of Mildura and Renwark, which are still prosperous and are the centers of the fruit districts since developed.

Skepticism and faint-heartedness, however, helped destroy faith in the project and in the financial depression of 1895 Chaffey Brothers, Ltd., were forced into liquidation.

George Chaffey returned to America, helped to develop the Imperial valley with the Owens river project and later became president of the Hibernian Savings Bank of Los Angeles and of the Whittier Water Company.

The honor that so long has been kept from him will shortly be his.

Girl's Gym Class Wear Tag Ships

Novel Idea Adopted To Boost Local Y. W. C. A. Gym Classes

The health department of the Y. W. C. A., has put out small tag ships to advertise its Saturday morning Girls' gym class. If you see a little girl wearing a sail boat tag you will know she's an advocate of the Y. W. C. A. gym.

This class is open to girls 8 to 12 years and the fee for the year is three dollars. This is a fine class for growing girls. If you want to join girls, call the Y. W. 748, immediately as the gym is not very large and we will not take over 30 girls. Don't you want to go on that first hike to cook breakfast?

Concerning the gym classes, a Y. W. C. A. announcement says: Weak abdominal muscles! How many women have them? If women only knew the ailments and physical discrepancies that follow in the trend of weak abdominal muscles. A woman with a weak abdominal wall has not nearly the chance of pulling through an operation that her friend with the hardened muscles has. Join one of the Y. W. classes and get in condition. Be prepared for their climax when it comes. Better your posture by solidifying your muscles and see how much better you feel.

We have a class for you, no matter what activity you want. If not a class, the director will give you individual lessons. Come down and visit us, we will be glad to talk things over and give you the information you seek. We will give you pure recreation or beneficial exercise. Call the Y. W. C. A.

Replica Of High School Stadium Shown In Window

A miniature football field, an almost exact replica of the Ben Franklin High stadium in cardboard, is attracting considerable attention in the window of the Sporting Goods Store on East Washington street.

The window was placed on display by Walter "Hub" Hart, veteran ballplayer and also a rabid football fan. The window is one of the most unique ever attempted and shows the Crafton High and New Castle High teams lined up on the field ready for play, with a large crowd in the concrete stadium.

The display is complete, even to The News press box at the top of the stadium. Small toy ten pins with the heads cut off are made to represent the football players, with a placard to tell who each player happens to be and the position he plays.

An extraordinary large sign with the words, "Welcome Crafton High" helps make the display complete.

Angry Husband Shoots His Wife

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25. — Mrs. Santa Spadara, 42, is in the Presbyterian hospital today in a critical condition, suffering from a bullet wound in her right breast, because breakfast did not suit her husband, police say.

The Spadaras started quarrelling yesterday morning and it lasted until last night when Sparada is alleged to have shot his wife. The woman was unconscious when taken to the hospital by police.

Anyway, the telephone book is clean literature, fit for any home.

Vaughn Wins Bicycle Race

MAKES GOOD TIME FOR ENTIRE COURSE

Although handicapped to some extent by the rain the bicycle race held at he Senior high school this morning was a great success. Robere Vaughn carried away first honors and to do this he defeated a select field of lads from the Senior high school who have been riding a bike since they started to school. The course was somewhat muddy in some places and between this and skidding on the wet asphalt the boys had one fine time trying to retain their seats but they stuck to their task and as a result every one that started the race was right there at the finish, not a one dropping along the wayside.

Just as the boys were about to be sent away on the grind by the official starter and afterwards the judge of the finish, William Klee the rain pulled a little surprise aid delayed the start until about half an hour later. The contestants were finally set on their way and from the start the lead was taken by Vaughn. He was pushed hard however throughout the race by Ed McClymonds and Leo Rieg. McClymonds was sucessful in capturing the lead at one time but he was overtaken shortly by Vaughn who then held the lead until the finish.

Those who finished among the first five are as follows:

Robert Vauhn, 21 minutes.
Ed McClymonds 21:15 minutes
Leo Rieg, 21:35 minutes.
Charles Bees, 21:45 minutes.
Joe Yesenski 22:30 minutes.

Some event such as this has been planned to take place every Saturday morning in charge of Bill Klee and the boys participating will no doubt derive great benefits from these activities outside of a lot of fun and a substantial increase in their grade.

ESKIMO GUIDE CONFESSES TO KILLING MAN

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Details of the "farthest north" murder, in which Ross G. Marvin, aid to Explorer Peary in his successful dash to the pole in 1909, was slain by a frightened Eskimo guide named Kudlooktoo, were revealed here today by Dr. Isaiah Bowman, president of the American Geographical Society.

For sixteen years, or since the successful Peary expedition, it had been thought that Marvin was drowned. Three years ago Kudlooktoo embraced christianity, was baptized and then, to ease the pangs of conscience that had lain dormant for sixteen years, told his story to Knud Rasmussen, Danish explorer who two years ago told it to Dr. Bowman.

Numbers 10:11-36

Golden Text: "Come with us and we will do thee good". (Num. 10:29).

For 11 months Israel had encamped before Sinai, during which time God gave them the law, the tabernacle and its service, and much needed instruction concerning their relationship to Him. They had time to recover from the debilitating effects of Egyptian slavery. Following a census the people were organized according to tribes, for the purpose of travel and military operation. The first anniversary of the Passover was observed. God had made all necessary preparations for a speedy passage through the wilderness and a complete conquest of Canaan.

The wilderness journey is often used as a type of our journey through this world of sin and trouble, to the eternal rest of the heavenly Canaan which lies beyond the Jordan of death. Perhaps a more accurate typology regards the wilderness journey as a type of that period in most believers' lives which lies between the time of conversion and their full apprehension of and entrance into the peaceful Canaan rest of Christ's redemptive work. It is a period characterized by doubt, failure and defeat: and corresponds to Paul's experience in the seventh of Romans. The book of Joshua, a record of conquest, victory and possession, corresponds to the eighth of Romans, the fourth of Hebrews and the book of Ephesians. There is much food in this lesson for the child of God. We note—

I. A CELESTIAL SIGNAL (vs. 11-13).

God's hour for Israel's departure from Sinai had come. The cloud lifted from the tabernacle. Immediately the Israelites folded their tents and in unquestioned faith followed the heavenly cloud. All phases of the journey "were according to the commandments of Jehovah by the hand of Moses". How happy and short would their pilgrimage have been if this trustful attitude had been maintained.

To ofrequently we become so attached to the camp and its wilderness surroundings that we are unwilling to heed the Word of God. "To move without the testimony would be to move in the dark: to refuse to move when the testimony was given would be to remain in the dark". (C. H. M.)

II. AN ORDERLY ARRANGEMENT (vs. 14-28).

That God is not a God of confusion but of order is revealed in the Divine direction for the march. Every tribe had its appointed leaders, place and service. Judah, the royal tribe and the one from which Christ came according to the flesh, was first in the march. The ark was in the middle of the procession, a position which with two exceptions, it always occupied. It thus became a fitting type of Christ in the midst of His people.

III. AN INOPPORTUNE INVITATION (vs. 29).

Like every true follower of the Lord, Moses invited others to follow Him. He urged Hobab, his father-in-law, to join Israel on its march to the promised land, quoting the Word of God as sufficient reason for so doing. The church which cannot say to the unsaved: "Come with us and we will do thee good" has no warrant for its continued existence. As ambassadors of Christ may we plead with men to be reconciled to God. (II Cor. 5: 20.)

IV. A RASH REFUSAL (vs. 30).

Like many a man of this world, Hobab's affections and interests were centered on earthly possessions and human relationships, rather than upon God and the things yet unseen. Hobab said: "I will not". Every person who rejects the Gospel invitation says: "I will not" to the eternal "I AM". From Judges 1:16 it appears that Hobab later changed his mind and joined the company.

V. A DELUSIVE DANGER (vs. 31-32).

While we must commend the loving persistence of Moses, we should recognize his mistake in attempting to depend upon the eyes of Hobab (vs. 31) for guidance. God had promised to be with Moses and to lead Israel in the right way. Surely the eyes of the Infinite God did not need to be supplemented with the eyes of Hobab. One of the most subtle temptations which comes to a servant of God is to lean on the arm of flesh, upon something tangible, rather than to walk by faith in the unseen God. (II Cor. 5:7).

VI. LED BY THE LORD (vs. 33-36).

1. The ark ahead (vs. 33). As the march was resumed we see one of the two occasions when the ark was not carried in the center of the procession (Num. 2:17). Is not this striking departure from the customary order a silent rebuke of Moses for having suggested that the eyes of Hobab become their guide?

Jehovah would here teach us that He is the sole and all-sufficient leader of His people.

2. Resurrection rest (vs. 33). From the mount the ark advanced three days' journey before finding a suitable camping site for Israel. The "third day" speaks of the resurrection. On the third day from Mt. Calvary the risen Christ became the true resting place of His people. The resurrection of Jesus Christ proclaimed the divine acceptance of His sacrificial work (Rom. 1:4; 4:25; 6-4; Eph. 1:19-23). The soul which can find no rest in its own labors does find perfect rest by faith in the risen Redeemer (Heb. 4:1-11).

3. Shelter (vs. 34). The cloud sheltered Israel from the hot rays of the burning sun. So the presence of God is a shelter to the Christian pilgrim, protecting him from the smiting rays of temptation and trial (Psa. 105:39; 121:5; 91:1).

4. Defense (vs. 35-36). Surrounded by enemies, Israel could safely march by day and rest by night, because God's presence was securing them from all their foes. Moses' two-fold prayer illustrates two apparently contradictory phases of the Christian life: viz. the fight of faith (I Tim. 6:12; Eph. 6:12-18), and the rest of faith (Heb. 4:3, 9-10; Psa. 37:7).

Novelties Mark Sousa Program

Famous Bandmaster Has Innovations For New Castle Program

Novelty and innovation always have been the controlling motives in the programs of Lieut. Com. John Philip Sousa, who this season will make his 34th annual tour at the head of his famous organization and will play in New Castle on Wednesday, October 6. From the days when he played excerpts from the Wagnerian operas throughout America before the operas themselves had been performed in America, even at the Metropolitan Opera house, Sousa has insisted that his program always must contain many new numbers, both of his own writing and by others. This season is no exception.

Notable among the novelties for the new Sousa season is a band arrangement of George Chadwick's "The Ride of Tam O' Shanter". Chadwick is the president of the New England Conservatory of Music, and the transcription for band has been made by Sousa himself. Sousa will also play a new composition by John Powell, the pianist, entitled "Fun at the Fair," a melodic picture of the Circassian lady of the side-shows of another generation. In addition Sousa has arranged for band the Juba Dance movement from "In the Bottoms", the characteristic suite of R. Nathaniel Dett, the negro composer.

Sousa's own contributions to the program in the way of original composition will be three marches, "Sesqui-Centennial," "Pride of the Wolverines" and "Gridiron Club". For Miss Marjory Moody, for several years soprano soloist with the band, he has written a song, "The Thrush", which is a musical setting to the poem of that name by Lucy Larcom, a New England poetess, who lived from 1826 to 1893.

Sousa also has made the arrangements for his humorous numbers, which include two humoresques, "Waiting", based upon "Oh How I've Waited For You" from "By the Way", and the Sousa musical debate, "The Wets and the Drys", as well as a musical burlesque entitled "On Your Radio". In addition, he has made the transcriptions for the jazz numbers which will be presented both by the band and the octette of saxophone comedians.

HOW I IMPROVED MY HEALTH

Did It in Less Than One Month

As Mrs. Weaver herself says, "I was never very strong." This is a mild statement describing her condition, for, according to her letters, she was subjected to no small amount of ill health. Fortunately, her sister was familiar with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged Mrs. Weaver to try it. "After three or four weeks," writes Mrs. Weaver, "I felt a great difference in myself. I would go to bed and sleep sound, and although I could not do very much work, I seemed stronger. I kept on taking it and now I am well and strong, do my work and take care of three children. I sure do tell my friends about your wonderful medicine, and I will answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Lawrence Weaver, East Smithfield St., Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

If you knew that thousands of women suffering from troubles similar to those you are enduring had improved their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, wouldn't you think it was worth a trial?

Swimming Classes For Women Begin Monday October 4

To Be Held Under Auspices Of Y. W. C. A.—Install Hair Dryers For Girls

Swimming classes for girls and women at the Benjamin Franklin Junior High School to be held under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. will begin October 4, according to announcement made today by Dorothy Jane Stewart, Physical director of the Young Women's Christian Association here.

"Gee, it's great," and "Oh, did you see me dive that time," will be but a few of the exclamations uttered from the willing swimmers when the first class gets underway next week.

Geasa In Charge

Edwin H. Geasa, instructor at the junior high school will be in charge of the night classes. Geasa has been in charge during the past several years and has obtained excellent results among the women natators of this city.

Advanced swimmer's classes will be held on Mondays from 7 until 8, and from 8 until 9 o'clock. On Tuesdays the beginners will hold sway with one hour periods prevailing. Classes will be held weekly throughout the winter. The small fee of seven dollars is the cost of membership and applications are now being received at the Y. W. C. A.

Many Privileges

According to Miss Stewart today, two very fine hair dryers have been installed, eliminating any chance of the girls and women catching cold during the winter season. A dozen of showers are available, and many other privileges are given the swimmers of the night classes.

"There's no need for being afraid to dive," said Miss Stewart, because Mr. Geasa stands by the side of the pool with a watchful eye, and in the event that something would happen, he is ready to give assistance at a moment's notice."

In the Spring two exhibitions by boys and girls of the Junior High School are given for the benefit of the Y. W. C. A. classes, and already those who have enrolled are looking forward to this event.

Many Enroll

Applications are coming in fast and it won't be long now until exclamations such as "Oh, I feel ten years younger,"; "Gee, I swam the width of the pool that time;" "say did you see me swim in deep water tonight;" and "Oh, the fun I had diving," will soon ring out through the locker rooms at the junior high institution.

Foster's Weather Prognostication

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—A storm wave of rather severe intensity is expected to cross continent during week centering on September 20 move well to the southward in its transcontinental flight, gain force as it passes eastward. Storm force of this period is expected to be of the severe equinoctial variety but not the very severe and dangerous type. Following this storm center a wave of cool temperatures south and cold temperatures north, with heavy local, general rains over eastern half of continent, will be the predominating weather features. This wave of below normal temperatures is expected to carry frost damage southward, probably extending through the surplus corn sections. A storm wave of moderate intensity acompanied by rising temperatures and clearing weather, is expected to cross continent during week centering on September 29. Crops that pass through the danger period centering on 20 including the cold wave following that date, will probably have ten days of warm weather in which to complete their season. This period of warm, dry weather is expected to extend through southern cotton and rice sections as well as northern corn sections. No damage to crops is expected during period centering on September 29.

October Weather.

October is expected to average moderate in both temperature and precipitation extremes; near a normal month, A mild storm wave centering on 2 followed by a sharp cold wave in north; mild storms centering on 6 and 15; a severe storm wave centering on 22 and a moderately severe storm wave centering on 28 during which two storm periods the principal storm force and the precipitation of month are expected to be experienced; above normal temperatures east of Rockies and below normal west of Rockies as an average for the month; about normal temperatures first 15 days and a little below normal temperatures last 15 days as a general average; above normal precipitation on north Pacific slope, east coast and east gulf sections; about normal precipitation in southwest and in eastern great central valleys; below normal precipitation in other sections of the continent. October is expected to average fair to good cropweather generally. Best outdoor weather during the first half of month. Most precipitation during the period 22 to 28.

Solar Radiation.

The Deutsche Electrokultur of Berlin, Germany, through a series of experiments has proven that an induced flow of electro-magnetic force through plants insures a healthy growth and yield. By building a series of antennae in the air over a field connecting these antennae with a magnet, connecting the magnet with a series of wires in the earth of that field, they were able to produce super crops in the field so treated, while in an adjoining field under identical circumstances and at the same time excepting that this electrical massage' was not included very poor crops were produced. I have always contended that plant food came from the air and not from the ground; that moisture, fertilizers, working the ground to enable it to hold moisture, etc., were only means to induce electro-magnetic circulation into and through the seeds and plants in order that those seeds and plants may subtract their requirements from the matter carried by these lines of force.

SELFISHNESS OF MOTORIST OFTEN CAUSES ACCIDENTS

Hurried Trips By Drivers With Business On Brain Causes Accidents Says Hanlon

"Selfishness on the part of a motorist is frequently the cause of an autohombile accident" said Bernard Hanlon of the New Castle Motor club today.

Because drivers make hurried trips to and fro from tehir office or office and because they think of nothing but business often results in accidents.

A motorist will jump into his car and drive probably for miles without any regard whatever for traffic signals pedestrians or other motorists on the highway and at the same time he is zig-zagging his way through traffic, endangering the lives of many and utmost of all his own" remarked Hanlon.

To many drivers the car is simply the means of reaching a destination quickly and conveniently, and frequently it is the case that a driver will be thinking more of his destination than of what he is doing when piloting the car through traffic.

Not Secondary.

Driving an automobile is a business in itself. Because a motorist has been driving a car for a considerable time is no reason for assuming that he cannot have a great deal to learn about careful driving. Fewer accidents will be had when motoring ceases to be secondary.

'In a statement issued at national headquarters of the A. A. A., President Henry is quoted as urging motorists to supplement safety movements by a year round endeavor to avaid careless habits which can bring an experienced automobilist to the point where he will possess relatively less competence than the merest novice.

ROAD BUILDING PROGRAM SMALL FOR NEXT YEAR

Nearly All Of Pennsylvania State Appropriation Used—See Little Construction

Road building in Pennsylvania in 1927 will be on a comparatively small scale. The state at the close of this season will have spent or authorized for expenditure all of the second $50,000,000 bond issue authorized by the voters in 1923. Funds available in 1927 from all sources will hardly total $30,000,000—of which $10,000,000 must be paid for interest and sinking fund on the road bonds. From the remaining $20,000,000 road maintenance must be provided for before the highway department even contemplates road construction.

BUILDING IS ON INCREASE

New Castle One Of Eight Cities In State Showing Increase

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 25.—Building and construction in the state was more than a million dollars less during August, just passed, than during that month a year ago. The summary for the state was based on reports made to the state department of labor and industry. The summary was made public here last night.

The 20 municipalities reporting building permits to the department showed construction work totalling $18,640,409. For the entire eight-month period of this year the totals fell nearly 45 million dollars below that of 1925.

Only eight cities in the state showed an increase in building last month over the same month a year ago. The cities and the percentages of increase are: Allentown, 102 per cent; Fradford, 3 per cent; Harrisburg, 28 per cent; New Castle, 112 per cent; Pittsburgh, 35 per cent; Scranton, 8 per cent; Uniontown, 259 per cent, and Williamsport, 72 per cent.

AND OLD CLOZE?

MAMARONECK, N. Y.—Isadore Kretzbaum has gone out of business. Mr. Kretzbaum has for 40 years wandered this vicinity in search of old clothes, rags and what-not from which paper mills created new paper products. It once was a fairly easy and profitable occupation, what with the multiplicity of petticoats and, er, what-not. But now women's clothes are so few, so scant that there simply aren't any rags—not to speak of, anyway. And men's shirts! Once they afforded a plentiful supply for the rag man. But now an old shirt is simply something to use in polishing up the car. And the rag man wanders about, aimlessly, dreaming of the good old, dear old, happy old days when shirts were shirts and petticoats were not imaginary.

NO BEER, NO WAR.

AMSTERDAM—Army life isn't what it used to be. (Chorus: "It never was.") Anyway, there has been a serious revolt in the Dutch army because the beer ration of special troops was not increased after a particularly arduous day's maneuvers. If army maneuvers and beer are inseparable, maybe that accounts for Uncle Sam's small standing army.

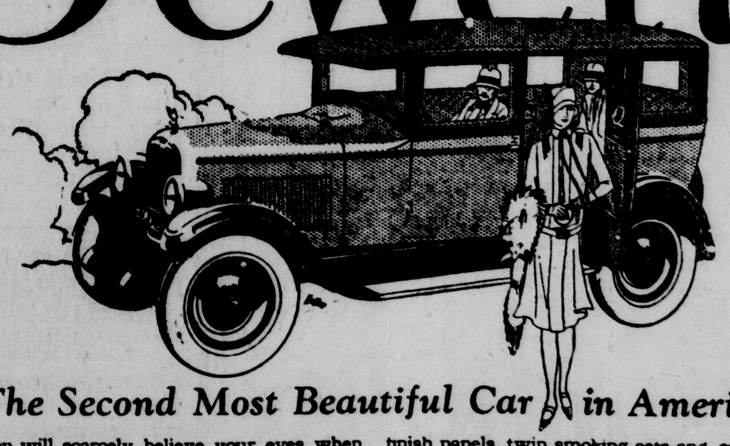
Come See—and Admire—and Drive the beautiful New Jewett



The Second Most Beautiful Car in America

You will scarcely believe your eyes when you first step inside this beautiful new Jewett and see the luxury that surrounds you. Certainly no earlier car, at so moderate a price, has ever approached the atmosphere of style that envelops this car.

Every line, every fitting, every appointment is in perfect taste. The instruments are clustered in a beautiful, indirectly-lighted panel. The deep cushions, over nested springs, have cleverly placed arm rests, and silken toggle-straps are in easy reach to assist entrance and exit. Skillfully inlaid walnut-finish panels, twin smoking sets and corner lights complete the custom-built air.

Mechanically, this Jewett is dependableness itself. A larger motor than former Jewetts possessed gives even quicker acceleration, smoother performance, longer service. Paige-Hydraulic 4-Wheel brakes insure maximum safety. Every proved mechanical superiority of the day is here; an air cleaner, balanced crankshaft, snubbers, high-pressure lubrication, bronze-backed bearings.

Come see this car soon. Drive it—enjoy its luxurious charm. Come any time, there's no obligation.

McKibben Gets New Position

Local Man Is Appointed Vice President Of Conneaut Lake Park

E. DON McKIBBEN

E. Don McKibben, 424 Park avenue, has been appointed vice president and business manager at Conneaut Lake Park and has tendered his resignation as supervising manager of Cascade Park to the P.-O. Electric Company.

He has been affiliated in various roles with the P.-O. Electric Company for 20 years, having started as a street car conductor. Strict adherence to duty and a zealous endeavor to serve both employer and patron resulted in his advancement and in 1921 he was named superintendent of Cascade Park.

During 1921 his achievements resulted in his being appointed general manager of the park in 1922, and since then the park has made rapid strides. In 1921 it boasted of practically little in an amusement way, but today it is famed as one of the most attractive recreation centers in this section of the country.

In fact, since his connection with Cascade Park the responsibility and maintenance of the celebrated place has been in his keeping and he has shown exceptional executive ability in developing the acreage which has a historical foundation. Credit for exploiting Cascade Park can be bestowed upon McKibben.

Not only has he been interested in Cascade Park, but also in civic developments, and it is believed by his legion of friends that while his new duties may be monumental, he will handle them with the same dispatch and success that crowned his efforts here.

Conneaut Lake Park is located upon the western shore of Conneaut Lake, the largest body of water in Pennsylvania. It is 108 miles north of Pittsburgh and 45 miles south of Erie, with hard-surfaced roads in all directions, with trolley service from Linesville to Erie; on the main line of the B. & L. E. R. R. and excellent train service over the P. R. R. via Linesville and the Erie R. R. via Meadville.

The park is said to be the largest inland park in America; maintains 15 hotels and restaurants, and dotted with cottages where accommodations can be secured. All of the amusements known to the world are located at the park and these include boating, fishing, bathing, tennis and golf. It is especially ideal for conventions and it is pleasing to fellow citizens to know that the Conneaut Lake Company has selected Mr. McKibben to fill the important position to which he has been named.

What Do You Think of This for
A Loaf of Bread?

Enough bread to feed one-fifth of the people of the United States for one year was the size of a loaf that was conceived by combining all the flour used in a year by the members of the Quality Bakers of America at their Eighth General Conference in New York City, September 13th, 14th, 15th, and 16th at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria.

The pan needed for this "champion" loaf would measure 8855 feet in length, 4422 feet in width and would be 2933 feet high. Such a pan naturally does not exist, nor an oven in which to bake this loaf.

New Castle, Pa., was represented at this conference by Mr. R. I. Galbreath of the O. C. Orr Baking Co., members of this organization of non-competing, independent, wholesale bakers in which membership is by invitation only.

Mr. Galbreath reports that it was one of the finest conferences he has ever attended and was a "Progress Conference" from start to finish, great emphasis being placed on the exceptional progress the organization has made since its inception several years ago.

Every conceivable question and problem relating to the management of a baker, bread advertising, salesmanship, production purchasing and accounting were gone into and discussed in open conference during the four day session. It is the aim of this organization to give the public the finest loaf of bread that can be baked and the best of service to the grocers.

The combined business of the Quality Bakers of America went over the 30,000,000 figure last year according to Ivan B. Nordhem, secretary of the organization and there are more than 1600 salesman in the organization.

Greek Words Prove Tongue Twisters For Pupils Of Schools

ELLWOOD CITY Pa., Sept. 25—Classes of the Ellwood schools ranging from the fifth grade up are taking a course of study which includes a deeper insight into the life of the Greek and the local library is used considerably where the pupils search for reference books which dwell on this subject.

Mrs. Catherine Charles the librarian with her assistants are kept in constant mirth as the smaller children come to the desk and inquire for the Greek Monastary, Lessons of the Pinks, Positions Contributions to Greek history and other such books.

Needless it takes the mind of a Philadelphia lawyer to puzzle out the fact that the child who has asked for the Greek Monastary really like to have Greek Mythology. Lessons of the Pinks is translated and the child goes home with Legends of the Sphnix, well satisfied. But Positions Contributions to Greek History was harder to solve and the solution was changed with the first word which was "Phoenicians."

Employment In State Good

Reports Indicate Situation Throughout State Is In Good Shape

By WILLIAM BROWN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 25.—While varying in some lines in certain sections of the state, employment conditions continued good for the first two weeks of September, according to reports made from the various employment bureaus of the state department of labor and industry just made public.

Evidence of increasing general business was indicated in the reports of a number of cities on the transportation conditions. In a number of cities on the main trunk lines the railroads are taking back men who have been off duty since last spring. Exceptions in the railroad conditions were reported from Philadelphia and Scranton, where things were quiet the past two weeks.

All of the larger cities reported an insistent demand for high grade machinists which was taken to mean unusual activity in many of the metal industries. In Philadelphia and Erie the demand has been unusually heavy.

Building and construction activity although far behind the corresponding period last year is reported as generally good in most sections. In Philadelphia completion of many additional projects at the sesqui-centennial has thrown a large number of skilled men, especially carpenters out of employment.

Although there is a surplus of common labor in Philadelphia the majority of such workmen elsewhere are reported as able to find employment. Contractors who wish to finish projects before the advent of cold weather have taken on additional men at many points.

Demand for clerical, professional and technical workers continues light, the majority of the officers having on file applications for such positions.

End of the vacation season and closing of summer hotels has caused a general change in hotel and restaurant places but there has been but little resultant unemployment.

Opening of schools and colleges also has caused a general shift in many positions. Return of students has caused many openings which are being filled with permanent workers when possible.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent

"SHUFFLE 'LONG RATTY!"

"Here we go 'round the piece of cheese, the piece of cheese, the piece of cheese,
Here we go 'round the piece of chees so early in the evening!"

It was night and in the baggage car 'twas dark. Only a dim lamp flickered in the furthest corner and through a smoky chimney cast strange shadows on the floor.

Pat, weary after his day of freedom and left to his own devices long before 'twas twilight by Mr. Rat, who had crept away without saying a word, had been napping soundly. Now, roused by this strange noise he half opened one sleepy eye and twitched one ear.

"Singing! At this hour of the evening!" grumbled the Dog, who really hadn't the slightest idea what time it was, but only guessed it must be late because it was so dark.

Neither you nor I would ever in the world have dreamed—had we been in that baggage car—that the squeaky squeal Pat heard was music, but Pat's ears, you see, were sharper than ours, and in the shake of a lamb's tail he guessed the truth.

"Rats!" muttered he. "But 'tis a silly song they sing!"

Scratch, scratch, scratch! Pat knew that sound, too, and on the instant became wide awake.

"Feet, lots of 'em—sharp little nails—digging up the sawdust!" whispered Pat to himself. "What's going on here, anyhow?"

Pat sprang to his feet, but he was too wise a Dog to make a bit of noise. Softly he paddy-pawed toward the corner, but when he had gone half way he sank to his haunches and threw up his paws.

"Wuff!" breathed he. "Never, no, never at all did I ever in my life see such a sight. And never so long as I've a hair on my back shall I forget it!"

The oil lamp threw a beam to the corner; it shone upon something shiny that rose into the air. Around this object that Pat could not quite make out circled Rats, ever so many of them, each Rat's arm locked in his neighbor's—each Rat beating time with his feet to the queer tune that he sang.

"Shake a lively foot, everybody! Come now, Ratty, just shuffle along!"

A merry young Rat poked Pat's friend in the ribs and Ratty stepped so lively and looked so funny that Pat clapped his paws to his mouth or he would certainly have yelped out loud.

MOTOR COP SHOT IN PITTSBURGH

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 25.—Motorcycle Patrolman James L. McGuire, 25, is in a local hospital in serious condition as the result of a bullet wound in his back today and Patrolman Joseph Voegleri is under arrest in connection with the shooting. METHODISTS WIN CHURCH CHAMPIONSHIP

Snatch Victory By Fine Rally

FINAL COUNT SHOWS 5 TO 4

The First Methodist team captured the City Church baseball championship on Friday night at the Croton field by staging a last-inning rally that proved sufficient to give them a 5 to 4 victory over the Central Presbyterian team. The game was played before one of the largest crowds to witness a Church League game this year. The game was stopped in the fifth inning on account of darkness.

Ralph Baker, the Methodist ace, occupied the mound for the champions and pitched a fine brand of baseball, allowing but six hits and fanning four batters. Funkhouser, on the knoll for the Presbyterians, was touched for nine hits and made five batters breeze the air. Baker was master of the Presbyterians up until the last inning, when darkness caused a little trouble in locating the plate.

The Central Presbyterians drew first blood in the second chapter by chasing over a solitary tally on two hits and a walk. The Methodists found Funkhouser hard to solve for the first four innings, but in the fifth frame the complexion changed and the Methodists hammered out enough hits to produce five runs.

Leonard Hits Homer

E. Lockley's single scored Sid Lockley and Baker. Frazier doubled, scoring Lockley, and Johnny Leonard smeared one of Funkhouser's fast pitches to deep left field for a home run "ala Babe Ruth" with Frazier crossing the plate ahead of him.

The Presbyterians, with the score standing 5 to 1 against them, staged an effort in the final half of the fifth frame, but fell short one run. The Presbyterians, however, succeeded in throwing a scare into the Methodists by scoring three runs.

With darkness fast approaching it was believed that the game would be stopped, but the umpire ordered the fifth inning completed.

The playing of E. Lockley at short for the new champions was one of the bright features of the game, the youngster handling five hard chances without a slip-up. Battley and Weiss featured for the Presbyterians, while Connelly played a fine game for the Methodists at second base.

The Church League season was brought to a close last evening, and it is safe in saying that the season was most successful.

FARRELL BOWS BEFORE HAGEN

Walter Needs Only One More Triumph To Retain Title

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Walter Hagen today stood at the door of golfing fame, which refused to open six days ago for Bobby Jones, needing only one more triumph to win his third successive championship.

The invincible "Hage" arrived at the threshold in the ninth Professional Golf Association event yesterday with a blast of great stroking, which completely smothered Johnny Farrell of Mamaroneck, N. Y., in the semi-finals 6 and 5.

Today he will pass through his final test—a 36-hole match against Leo Diegel of New York, who drew abreast of Hagen Friday after beating off a brave, though belated rally on the part of Johnny Golden, veteran contender from Paterson, N. J., 1 up.

Drop Inaugural Game Of Season At Pittsburgh Friday Afternoon

Dukes Score In Second And Third Periods — Crowell's Punting Features

(Special To The News)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 25—Westminster College, playing its first game under their new mentor, Dwight Beede, Carnegie Tech star, dropped its opening game of the season to Duquesne University here Friday by a 13-0 score.

The United Presbyterians, lacking an offensive attack, were unable to penetrate the stonewall defense offered by the Bluff-men, and at no stage of the game did they threaten to score against the Dukes. Beede's men were drilled in the Tech system of play and although the backs were willing to come through, the line was seemingly slow in coming out of their positions for interference.

Deliman Tallies

Coach McDermott's boys tallied in the second and third periods. The first score came late in the second quarter following an exchange of punts. Duquesne had possession of the ball on Westminster's 35 yard line when Gusanovic plunged off tackle for 17 yards. Another try and the husky halfback made his way to the 8 yard line, Velar carried the pigskin to within a few inches of the goal line and Deliman had the honor of carrying it over for the first touchdown of the 1926 season.

The second score was made following intermission. With the ball on Westminster's 37 yard line, several line bucks were attempted when Velar started around right end with the ball, but finding a half dozen players of the visiting team waiting for him he reversed his field and ran 35 yards for a touchdown. The play came entirely unexpectedly and was the outstanding feature of the game.

Try Place Kick

Duquesne attempted to score from the field in the fourth session when Donelli dropped back for a place kick, but he failed after a bad pass from center. The Dukes held the upper hand over their foe throughout the game, making eleven first downs to Westminster's two.

In Deliman, Velar and Gusanovic, Duquesne has a trio of good backfield stars. Substantial gains were made repeatedly by these boys.

Crowell's punting for Westminster was outstanding for the visitors, the elongated end getting the ball away for long boots. Montgomery, captain of the losers played a scrappy and consistent game throughout.

Cincinnati passed out of the picture by losing to the Reds, 9 to 2, when Lucas was shelled off the mound. The Reds won the second game 8 to 4.

The Indians were handed a 3 to 1 setback by the Athletics, and now trail the Yankees, who were idle, by two and one-half games. Rommel outpitched George Uhle.

Pennant Races In Both Leagues

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—With the National league pennant clinched by the St. Louis Cardinals, interest today centered on the American league race, where the Yankees lead the Indians by two and one-half games as a result of Cleveland's defeat by Philadelphia yesterday. By winning both games of a double header with the Browns this afternoon, the Yankees can clinch the pennant. The outcome also will be settled if New York breaks even and Cleveland loses one game of a doubleheader with the Athletics.

The Cards clinched the pennant by downing the Giants, 6 to 4, while Cincinnati was losing the first game of a double header with the Phillies. Cincinnati made sure of second place by winning the second game.

St. Louis Cards Capture Flag

YANKEES MAY WIN AMERICAN LOOP FLAG

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Rogers Hornsby and his gallant band of St. Louis Cardinals, after a stirring struggle to bring to the Mound City its first National League pennant in the history of baseball, ended all doubt as to the ultimate winner Friday by trouncing New York, 6 to 4, while the second-place Cincinnati Reds were splitting a double-header with Philadelphia.

When the Quakers walloped the Reds, 9 to 2, in the first game, Cincinnati's mathematical possibility of overcoming the Cardinals disappeared. Although Cincinnati came back to hammer the Phillies, 8 to 4, in the second, the race is over for the season with the St. Louis lead now three full games and only two to play.

The standing of the leaders today:

	W.	L.	To Play	Pct.
St. Louis	89	63	2	.586
Cincinnati	86	66	2	.566

Nothing the Reds or Cards do from now on can have any bearing on the final standing. St. Louis may lose the two remaining games while Cincinnati is winning both and still lead at the close by a full game.

The standing then would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
St. Louis	88	66	.578
Cincinnati	88	66	.571

Only the slimmest of possibilities bars concession of the pennant to the New York Yankees in the American League. Cleveland's loss to Philadelphia 3 to 1, yesterday, while the Yankees were being rained out at St. Louis, boosted the New York advantage to two and one-half games.

The standing today:

	W.	L.	To Play	Pct.
New York	89	61	4	.593
Cleveland	87	64	3	.576

	W.	L.	Pct.
Cleveland	90	64	.584
New York	89	65	.578

Tunney And Dempsey May Fight Again On Coast Says Rickard

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor Internat'l News Service

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey principals in the greatest sport event of all time, will play the second game of their own particular world series sometime next spring in California.

"Tex" Rickard, promoter of the Philadelphia fight said that he believed a return fight deserved a big gate and that he meant to get it.

May Stage Return Bout

"I don't agree with people who say that Tunney is a poor champion," Rickard declared. "I personally think he made a very good fight and I enjoyed every minute of it. I also think the public would want another Dempsey-Tunney match."

"I'd be a sap if I didn't give the public what it wants."

"That's as far as I care to go right now. My plans in this direction are very indefinite now and it is no use talking about the proposition until I get things lined up."

It was Dempsey who inspired Rickard with the idea of a return fight, according to what I hear. The ex-champion left the ring unconvinced about the finality of Tunney's victory and didn't hesitate to say as much.

"Gene is the best man I ever met but I think I can take him," Dempsey said. "In fact if I can get him in the right again I predict that I will knock him out. I'm not through. I simply need to get this fight under my belt and now that I have done that I am a better man for it. If Tunney will give me my chance, I think I will be able to show the public that Jack Dempsey is the better man."

Normile was circulating about, telling a story that Dempsey was blind for the last three rounds and, therefore, couldn't make the fight of which he was capable.

Blind Due To Blood

"Jack was so blind that he asked me to lead him to the centre of the ring for the final round," Normile declared. "We had the thing figured out after the sixth round for Dempsey to rush Tunney off his feet. Jack was plenty strong and don't let them tell you anything else. But all his strength was of no avail when his left eye closed. You can't hit a man you can't see."

Just where the California angle came from the writer cannot say but Rickard undoubtedly was impressed with the great interest taken in the fight by fans from the coast. California probably was more thoroughly represented at the ringside than any other state with the natural exception of Pennsylvania.

It only remains to be seen whether Rickard cares to leave his base of operations in New York for a second time, and if he does, whether California will extend him a welcome.

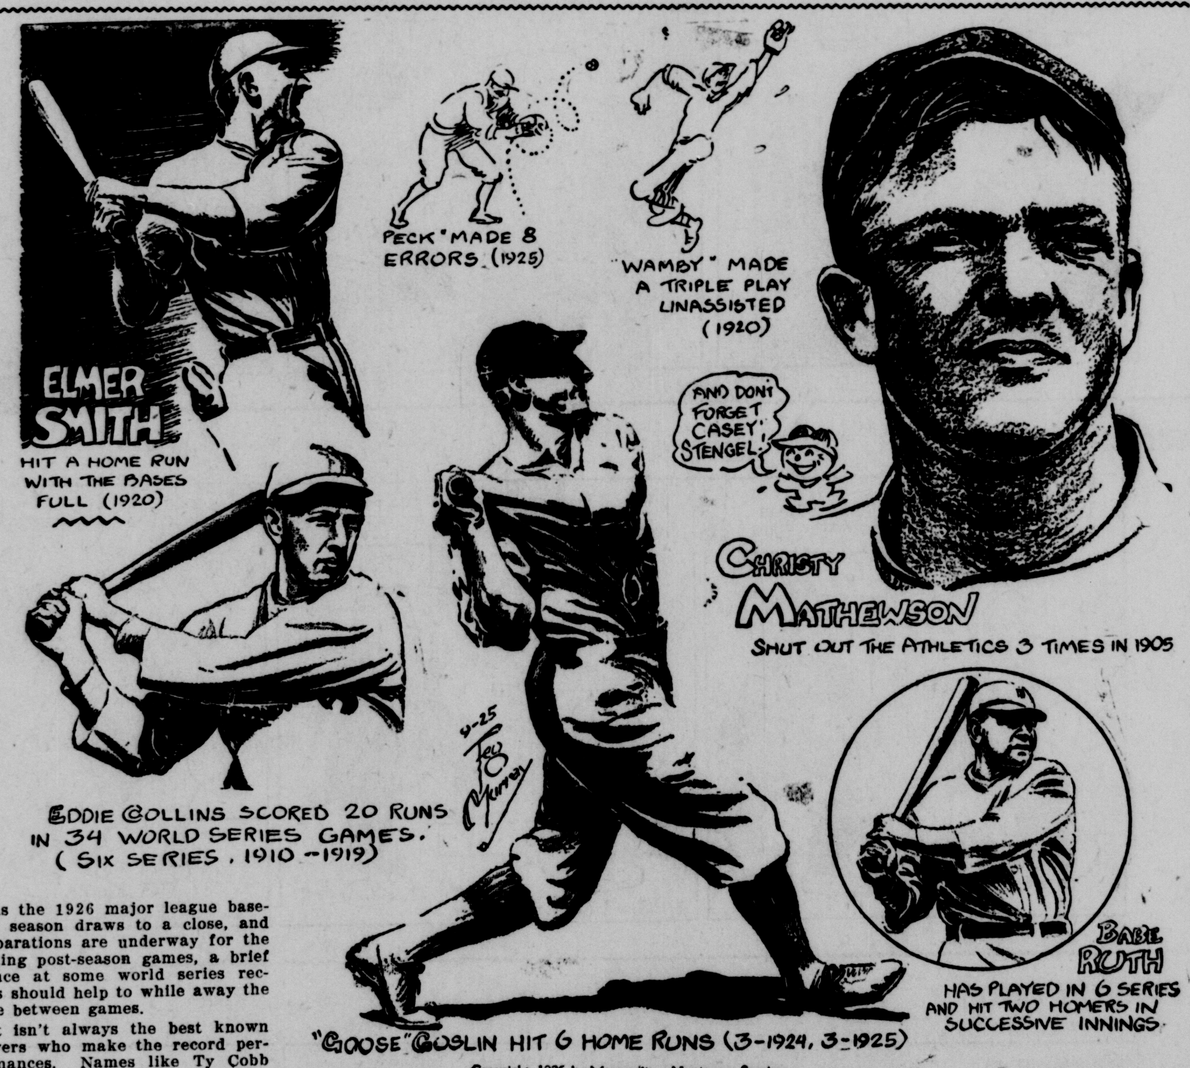
SOME WORLD SERIES RECORDS BY FEG MURRAY



Copyright, 1926, by Metropolitan Newspaper Service

As the 1926 major league baseball season draws to a close, and preparations are underway for the coming post-season games, a brief glance at some world series records should help to while away the time between games.

It isn't always the best known players who make the record performances. Names like Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker occur infrequently in the list of world series records published in that interesting volume. "The Little Red Book," one of Spalding's Athletic Library. The immortal Ty is down only for "most times stealing home base—1," which honor he shares with Mike McNally and Bob Meusel.

Tris Speaker, the former two-base-hit king, is down on the books for hitting the most three baggers, total series—4, and the most triples in one series—2, which latter record he shares with many others.

Babe Ruth fares better, however, for he holds with "Home Run" Baker, Eddie Collins, Wally Schang, and Everett Scott, the record for playing in the most series—six. (Scotty was eligible, but didn't play for the Senators last year.) He also shares with Tommy Leach the record of scoring eight runs in one series. Then the Bambino is tied with Leon Goslin and Joe Harris for the most home runs in one series—three, and with Harry Hooper for the most homers in one game—two.

He holds the record for "most extra bases on long hits, total series—18," and ditto, "one series—12," and "game—6." Then he stands supreme with eight bases on balls in one series as a tribute to the fear in which he was held by opposing pitchers, or John McGraw, in 1923. Babe even breaks into the pitching records with twenty-nine scoreless innings, twirled in 1916 and 1918 for Boston.

The name of one grand old veteran fairly emblazons the pages of the world series records. For Eddie Collins, besides sharing the record for most series played in, holds the marks for most runs, total series (20); most base hits, total series (42); most singles, total series (33); most total bases, total series (53); most sacrifice hits, total series (8); and most stolen bases, total series (14).

Christy Mathewson's name dominates the pitching performance, for, besides his twenty-seven scoreless innings against the Athletics in 1905, he pitched four shut-out games altogether, pitched the most innings, total series (103 2-3); and one series, 29 2-3. "Big Six" also shares with Plank, Marquard, and Joe Bush the record for most defeats, total series—5.

Other interesting performances are Art Nehf's walking thirty-one batters in four series, Carl Mays' feat of pitching three full games in one series without passing a man and Ed Walsh's striking out twelve in one game. Frank Frisch batted .300 or better on four series, and scored two runs in one inning in 1921. Bob Meusel scored three men on a single in 1923, Casey Stengel won two games with home runs, and George Kelly struck out ten times in one series. And Nick Altrock, the comedian holds five world series fielding records for pitchers! Laugh that off!

New Castle high and Crafton high will have a wet soggy field to play on this afternoon, was the indication early today when Jupiter Pluvius made his entrance into New Castle with a sudden rush of rain.

Both schoolboy teams are on edge for the battle today and a fast encounter is being anticipated by the fans. Crafton high won its opening game of the season by trimming Ben Avon high, while New Castle high tied with Mars 0-0 in the lid lifter here last Saturday.

Bob is looking fine after the gruelling training grind and was all smiles last evening. He will return Monday at which time he will register for the 1926-27 term. The school term opens on Wednesday.

Patton is showing up splendidly at Grove City and undoubtedly will see service in the majority of the grid games this fall. It is his first year at college.

Coast Operators Want Return Bout

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—Jack Dempsey, aged 31, wants another fight with his 28-year-old conqueror. When he rushed to the center of the ring to congratulate Tunney, he asked for another chance. Dempsey's handlers said that Tunney had agreed.

Dispatches from Los Angeles say A. T. Jergins and J. R. McKinnie, oil operators, are offering $750,000 for a return fight before January 1.

Tunney Pays Visit To Fallen Champion

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—This city was rapidly getting back to normal today following the exodus of most of the host of fight fans who attended the Dempsey-Tunney fight here Thursday night.

The ex-champion, accompanied by his wife, Estelle Taylor, left last night for Atlantic City. The new champion, Gene Tunney, was scheduled to leave early today for New York, where he will be given a royal welcome by his home town friends and admirers.

Tunney surprised the ex-champion and his wife by paying them a visit in their suite at the Adelphia hotel here last night, shortly after Miss Taylor's arrival from the west.

Arriving unexpectedly, Tunney greeted Dempsey with the hope that he was "coming along all right."

Dempsey assured Gene he would be over the effects of the fight in a few days. The two then talked for half an hour before the champion finally emerged from Dempsey's rooms.

Shortly afterwards Dempsey, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Fitzsimmons, left by a rear entrance and caught a train for Atlantic City.

Six men waiting in the lobby of the hotel to serve summons on the ex-champion to tie up his share of the championship purse, were unaware of his departure.

Fohl Is Cause Of Blasted Hope

Boston Manager, Formerly Of Cleveland Team, Trips Up Tribe

BOSTON BRAVES CHECK REDS, TOO

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Dame Fate, one of our leading baseball fans so to speak, must have had a ladylike chuckle all by herself when the Boston Red Sox sounded the death knell of Cleveland's pennant hopes. Fohl is the man who laid the ground work for the Cleveland team which won a pennant in 1920. Lack of confidence on the part of the fans caused Fohl to step out in favor of Tris Speaker.

The Indians had a mathematical chance, and better, to win the flag this year when they said boodbye to the league leading Yankees after a six-game series. The Indians had grabbed four of the six games. Speaker's men hoped to make a clean sweep of the series with the Sox that followed. Fohl sent young Wingfield in against the second placers in the first game of the series and the defeat he handed the Tribesmen blasted their hopes.

And while the Boston Red Sox were wrecking the hopes of the Indians in the American League scramble the lowly Boston Braves were taking a roundhouse swing at the Cinci Reds. A shutout administered the House of Hendricks started the Reds on the down grade and the Braves followed with another victory which increased the lead of the Cardinals.

All of which causes us to remark that Boston cannot be considered a minor league town any longer. Not with two teams swinging the sledge hammers in the final days of the peanut campaigns.

The New York Yankees have suffered a setback in the closing days of the American League campaign that may affect them in the coming world's series, although it did not cost them the pennant.

This setback was in the general morale of the team.

Two or three weeks ago it was pointed out to Miller Huggins that the final series of the campaign in Cleveland—consisting of six games—might decide the fate of the Yankmen. Huggins stated that he had no fear of the outcome of that series. The entire team effervesced the same confidence. Then the outfit went to Detroit, to be rudely shocked by the Tigers—also roundly trounced.

They went from Detroit to Cleveland. The story of their slump went before them.

"They aren't hitting," went the cry.

Speaker and his Indians planned their campaign accordingly. George Uhle, pet jinx of the Yanks, had an off day and lost the first game. The following day, however, the Indians came back. Emil Levsen held the leaders to two hits in the first game of a double-header. Gob Buckeye let them have just two more in the second game and the Yanks lost both games. The third day Shaute permitted the New Yorkers just five base hits. Another victory for the Indians. Then Uhle came back at the Hugmen and gave them just four safeties.

A total of 13 hits in 36 innings of play—a little better than three hits a game. Four defeats in a row. Not a home run from the Babe. Herb Pennock, southpaw ace, and others were treated rudely.

Enough there to shatter the already weakened morale.

The Yankees took the sixth game and since then have cinched the flag. But there lurks in their mind the knowledge that they can be stopped dead in their tracks at any time by proper pitching. They carried not this feeling up to that final series in Cleveland.

Just how much confidence these setbacks sapped will be known only when they tackle the National league champions.

Joe Bush hung up eight victories in a row for the Pirates before being stopped. Which is of interest to the Yankees, Browns and Senators but wasn't quite enough for the Pirates.

The Yankees may also boast of the championship of the International League, having licked Dan Howley's Toronto team in an exhibition game.

Arnold Statz, former outfielder who'll be a Dodger next season, once hankered to become a golf pro but wanted to give Walter Hagen a chance.

Judging by latest developments in the Kearns-Dempsey skit brother Kearns forgot that Brother Dempsey could drag out a few skeletons if the need arose.

"Kirkleski to be Nucleus of Lafayette Backfield," says headline. He'll at least give the opposing sport writers a run for their money.

"The masses" is very indefinite, but doubtless means all those who are making easy payments.

MEET GORDON CHAMBERS F. B.

The Latter Stands For Football Bug In The South

He's an attorney at law.

Veteran of the world war.

Graduate of the University of Georgia.

Lecturer.

Writer.

Politician.

But first and foremost a football enthusiast.

He spends his time from Thanksgiving to Labor Day getting his business affairs arranged so he can devote most of his time between Labor Day and Thanksgiving to football.

He's at it again.

Hot wires from him already on prospects of the southern teams.

Already has hopes of seeing the University of Georgia beat Yale. His enthusiasm and loyalty may be egging him on there, but that's what makes college football a game apart from all others.

Chambers had considerable grid experience himself but the world war prevented him from playing college football. He played prep football at Richmond Academy and was set to attend the University of Georgia when the world war came along. He played on service teams in his idle moments and was a member of the eleven which won the A. E. F. championship in 1918.

The war, however, had kept him out of school so long that he devoted all his time to his studies when he entered Georgia U.

Out of school he found himself hankering for football again. The next football heard of him he was startling folk in Augusta, Ga., his home town, with his predictions on big football games in the south and other sections. His predictions drew general circulation finally until now he is almost nationally known for his uncanny ability to size up teams and their chances.

You'll probably hear more of him this fall.

I know he'll pester me to death with his advance bulletins.

USED CAR

A party bought a new car three years ago, costing them $2300. They used this car for 14,000 miles and decided to buy a new car; what is the used car worth? To the owner it is worth what he paid for it because it runs and looks the same as it did when they purchased it. To you it is worth much more than we are asking. Because, we ask you to take this car and drive it. Compare it with any new car selling at $1000 to $1200 and we know you will agree that you are saving a lot of money. Our price is $700. The above is only one case, but it applies to every used car we offer. Compare cars and you be the judge. One 1925 Buick Six touring, like new, $750. One 1924 Buick Six touring, $650. One 1926 Ford sedan, 4 door, $500. One 1925 Ford coupe, like new, $355. One 1924 Buick sport roadster, $825. One 1923 Buick six 7-passenger sedan, $700. Lincoln, the Lawyer.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S PERSEVERANCE AND YEARS OF STUDY WERE REWARDED IN 1836 WHEN HE WAS ADMITTTED TO THE BAR AND BECAME A FULL-FLEDGED LAWYER.

THE NEXT YEAR HE MOVED TO SPRINGFIELD, ILLINOIS, WHERE HE BECAME A PARTNER OF J. T. STEWART, AN ATTORNEY OF THAT TOWN.

LINCOLN RODE ABOUT FOLLOWING THE CIRCUIT JUDGE FROM ONE COURT TO ANOTHER, BUILDING UP A PRACTICE AND ADDING TO HIS LEGAL REPUTATION.

HE WORKED HARD AND ATTRACTED MANY CLIENTS. HOWEVER, HE DID NOT MAKE MUCH MONEY AS HE DID NOT DEMAND LARGE FEES FOR HIS SERVICES AND WOULD ACCEPT NONE IF A CLIENT WERE VERY POOR.

ROMANCE CAME INTO LINCOLN'S LIFE WHEN HE MET A YOUNG WOMAN NAMED MARY TODD. THEY FELL IN LOVE AND WERE MARRIED IN 1842.

LINCOLN BOUGHT A MODEST HOME IN SPRINGFIELD FOR HIS BRIDE AND INCREASED HIS EFFORTS TO CARVE A CAREER FOR HIMSELF AS A STATESMAN.

N. Y. STOCKS

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—A moderate advance in the industrial and railroad shares which have been in the forefront of the rising tide of security values in the last few months, was the principal feature of the short session of the stock market today. There was no special stimulus to stock buying but the usual week-end business and economic surveys, which were up to expectations.

The cotton market had the benefit of firmer foreign cables and the reported efforts of the southern bankers to raise a fund of $1,000,000,000 to loan against 1,000,000 bales of cotton withdrawn temporarily from the market. Meanwhile a movement will be started to cut down the acreage grown to cotton next year.

Under the stimulus of strong professional buying, general motors moved up to a new high above 160, equivalent to $40 for the undivided stock. Demand for the stock was based on reports that the directors would authorize the distribution of another special cash dividend next month. Hudson displayed a much stronger tone than at any time in the last ten days, and advanced in good form to above 54. Chrysler, Jordan and other low price motor stocks were active and buoyant.

United States Steel and the independent steel shares resumed the advance which featured Friday's final period. Steel common rose to above 150 in active trading, while Bethlehem Sloss Sheffield and Crucible sold higher.

The railroad shares dropped back into inactivity after the first period, during which modest advances were recorded for the outstanding leaders in this group. Oils were unsettled by further price cutting in the Pan Handle section of Texas and the softening of the wholesale gasoline markets in Chicago and mid-western consuming centers.

The theatrical and moving pictures stocks led the spectacular activity in the specialties, with Warner Brothers returning to above 65 and Loew's reacting a new high at 45. Short covering in Stewart Warner, International Combustion and other specialties produced some sharp advances in prices. Equipment stocks moved up under the lead of Baldwin and Pullman, while the sugar, copper and tobacco stocks were well bought at moderate advances.

Stocks Decline During Week

Narrow And Professional Stock Market In Past Week Of Trading

RAILROAD STOCKS DISPLAY STRENGTH

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—A narrow and professional stock market with all but the standard rails and a few of the prime industrial stocks declining to lower price levels; an unsettled but gradually improving money market; a severe break in cotton prices, bringing four of the nearby positions below 15 cents a pound for the first time in five years; a strong market for the leading European exchanges; alternating strength and weakness in foreign government bonds, and a continuance of the favorable operating records of the big industrial and railroad enterprises, were the principal features of the week in financial circles.

With the completion of the quarterly financing of the government and the industrial companies, funds returned to the banking institutions and a larger supply of money was available for the call loan market.

The call rate moved down to 6 per cent and in some quarters o'night borrowing was reported at 4½ per cent. Some improvement was reported in the Reserve system and the member banks in the weekly statements, which showed an increase in the general reserve ratio from 71.6 to 73.1 per cent of resources and in the New York Bank from 74.8 to 79.5 per cent.

The buoyant market for the Nickel Plate Railroad stocks was the really distinctive feature of the speculative district, Nickel Plate (old stock) crossed 200 for the first time in its history, and Chesapeake and Ohio was bid up nearly 20 points above last week's low price on reports that the Van Sweringens would grant the demand of the minority stockholders for a 12 per cent dividend guaranty in the Nickel Plate consolidation. Pere Marquette, and, Erie, the other roads in the merger, are also expected to profit from the revised plan of consolidation, as a result of which their stocks were also strong and active.

Professionals in the stock market were arrayed for the time being on the short side of the market, selling stocks on all rallies, and concentrating heavy selling on stocks, or groups of stocks which showed any of the usual signs of weakness. Their success in some of these efforts were more apparent than real. Quotations were deflected on the tape but there was little stock offered at the low prices and short covering produced sharp rallies in various sections of the speculative list.

A upward revision of about 400,000 bales in the government's estimate of probable cotton production this year caused an uproar on the New York and New Orleans Cotton exchanges on Thursday. Speculative traders in both markets threw their contracts on a falling market, stop-loss orders were uncovered in volume and prices declined to the lowest levels, for some positions, since 1921.

Price-cutting in the tire trade, a downward revison of crude oil prices and occasional softening of the important commodity market produced some unsettlement in the financial district, but trade reports were uniformly favorable, and the prospect for the immediate future is as bright as at any time this year.

Air Pictures Of Hurricane Havoc

Charge Theft Of Automobile Battery

Bessemer Garage Man Alleges Battery Was Taken By Motorists

Harry Fry, Vernon Fry, John Russo and Herman Taylor, four young men of this city, were arrested here last night by County Detective George S. Kennedy and assisting officers, for their alleged part in the theft of a battery at the garage of Carl Eck, just beyond Bessemer across the Ohio state line.

They were held until this morning at the city jail when they were turned over to Constable A. A. Shoup of Bessemer and Ohio officers and taken back into Ohio to the scene of the alleged theft.

According to the report at police headquarters, these four young men, accompanied by the wife of Harry Fry, were motoring just over the Ohio line when they went to the aid of some motorists who were in trouble.

They finally landed at the Eck garage, where he was fixing another machine. When the repairs on this machine were completed the driver drove off without paying and Mr. Eck followed the car to get his money.

When he returned to the garage, his wife told him that these four young men, who remained at the garage, had taken something that looked like a battery and driven away.

Eck found that the battery was missing and at once gave chase. He and Constable Shoup trailed them to Mahoningtown, where they were picked up with the assistance of the county detective and Lieutenant of Police Harper.

Taylor finally confessed to the theft and took the officers to the Scotland Lane school house, where the battery was found hidden under the school house. The others deny any part in the theft.

Odd Fellows Leave Philadelphia For Homes, Sessions End

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—The last of the 50,000 delegates to the 102nd annual communication of the Sovereign Grand lodge of the independent order of odd fellows, were leaving this city today following the closing session of the convention late yesterday.

Many of the delegates left for Washington to attend a mammoth parade there today in honors of Past Grand Sire Herbert A. Thompson. The parade will be received by President Coolidge, members of his cabinet and Governor Albert Ritchie, of Maryland.

At the final session the delegates approved a recommendation providing for a fund to defray the costs of higher education for any child of an odd fellow or member of the Rebekah order who is desirous of obtaining a college education.

Action on the petition of the Rebekahs for separation from the odd fellows was deferred until next year.

Develops New Variety Of Peach And Apple

Lawrence county is noted as one of the better fruit growing districts of the state of Pennsylvania and its crops of well known and standard varieties of peaches and apples are widely known and have ready sale in many markets.

It would now appear that the county is about to become known for its new varieties of both peaches and apples, as a result of the activities of L. M. Graham of the Wilmington township fruit growing district.

Mr. Graham has both a seedling peach tree and a seedling apple tree, the fruit of which apparently surpass the older and better known varieties of such fruits and will no doubt become known to posterity as the Graham apple and Graham peach.

The Graham peach is produced on a four-year-old seedling tree developed by Mr. Graham. It had two bushels of the most luscious fruit imaginable on its limbs this year. They are exceptionally good both in the raw state and also for canning purposes. It is a free stone peach of immense size. It is red and yellow. Five of the peaches presented to The News weighed three pounds.

The Graham apple is equally delicious and prolific. It ripens in a beautiful reddish pink color, it cooks well and is exceptionally delightful to the taste in a raw state. The apples are of uniform size and are tart, but not too much so.

The tree is five years old and three years ago produced a crop which netted Mr. Graham $50.40.

Mr. Graham plans to either develop stock of the trees for sale to the general public or would sell them to a nurseryman, interested in getting a new apple and peach that would prove a big seller. Indications are that he will have plenty of offers for the trees when it becomes known that he desires to sell them, if possible.

"GONE WILL BE NATURE'S BEAUTY"

Gone will be nature's beauty,
It will be a thing of the past;
For autumn will do its duty—
And the leaves will be falling fast.
The fields that are green now,
Will soon be covered with snow;
With its weight the trees will bow,
And for the winter shall cease to grow.

The birds that sing so sweetly,
Are flying very far away!
When summer will be gone completely,
Outside, no more will we care to stay.
We will be seeking for places—
Where it is always warm,
And as the wind around corners races—
We'll try to evade the winter storm.

Ah, these beautiful sights,
Before long shall fade and vanish!
The blizzard will howl at nights;
And for the summer again we'll wish.
'Tisn't far when the days will be cold—
Sometimes the weather will drop below zero;
And before the fireplace tales will be told,
While ouside, people shall hurry to and fro.

MARQ PURVIANCE MEETIN' OLE SCHOOLMATE.

Uncle Marq Purviance is in town t' attend th' Twin Lakes bathin' beauty contest. He's well beyond his eighty-ninth year, an' if it wuzn' fer egg on his chin he'd pass fer twenty-five. When asked how he accounted fer his youthful bearin' an' absence o' wrinkles, th' pink an' flawless octogenarian said, "I specialize on fergittin' ever' unpleasant thing that bobs up in my life. When you see a man or woman who's nearin' th' sunset o' life skippin' along in full possession o' ther curves an' faculties, an' enterin' int' all th' festivities o' life, you kin put it down that he or she has mastered th' art o' fergittin'—that they hain't poisoned an' shrunken by hatreds, resentments an' unhappy memories. Nobuddy escapes his full share o' all th' troubles an' miseries known t' th' wrinkle-producin' industry, but by shakin' 'em off, by fergittin' 'em, he kin easily retain all th' freshness an' radiance o' a boy with his first saxophone. Th' thin nose, th' mackerel eye, drawn mouth, corrugated forehead, knit brow, withered chin, paper mache cheeks, sallow ear, scrawny neck, faded, thin hair an' super Adams apple are all produced by bygones, bitter pills o' th' past that linger in th' soul an' are served fresh ever' day by an overworked memory—sorrows that are all out an over, heartaches that belong t' th' past, bitter disappointments o' years ago, treasured sorrows long out o' date, all cruel memories o' misty yisterdays that envelop an' becloud th' glorious present an' rob th' last lap o' life o' th' sweetness an' repose that's comin' t' it. Long memories produce th' warped an' raisin' faced croakers, who are allus knockin' life an' who think ther's a ketch t' ever'thing, even th' air we breath." Can it be that Uncle Marq Purviance has hit on th' real fountain o' youth in th' knack o' fergittin'? Is fergittin' th' key t' eternal youth? Ther hain't no corner or recess in th' mill o' life that Marq Parviance hain't explored, an' still he's rakish an' alert at eighty-nine. He wuz born right in th' middle o' a family o' nine children, he wuz shot at Gettysburg, he wuz jilted on his return from th' war, he later married an' intellectual woman, had his letters read in th' divorce court, wuz double-crossed in a pustoffice war, wuz run down by a Ford at eighty-four, an' he's even been a farmer, yit th' struggle o' life hain't made a dent in him. With a full, ruddy face, aglow with color an' enthusiasm, he kin ketch th' swish o' a pair o' silk hose as readily as a man o' fifty.
